U.S. SUSPENDS
6 BILLION AID TO DEFENSE PLANTS

Temporarily Halts Tax Write-Offs for New Plants in 19 Industries, 'Suspension' in 38 Others.

HUMPHREY CITES
LOSS OF REVENUE

Treasury Secretary Says Incentive No Longer Is Needed—Order Issued by Mobilization Director.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Government today temporarily shut off federal help on more than six billion dollars worth of proposed industrial plant expansion. The action was taken pending a review of defense necessity of the expansion program.

Mobilization Director Arthur S. Flemming ordered a shut-down on special tax benefits for new plants and equipment in 19 industries and a "suspension" of action in 38 other industries. The latter group includes tremendous investment programs in the electric power, steel, railroad, oil, aluminum, aircraft and chemical industries.

Review to Require Month. The review will require "a month or more," defense mobilization officials predicted. When it is completed, many of the expansion objectives may be reduced and some may be closed out entirely.

The action followed disclosure that Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey was pressing for a sharp curtailment of the government's program to stimulate expansion in defense industries by tax incentives.

Under the program, business firms undertaking approved expansion projects could write off much of the cost, for tax purposes, in five years. Normally, a much longer depreciation period is required for tax purposes. The effect of the program was to give much bigger tax deductions for depreciation in the early years.

No Longer Needed, He Says. Humphrey contended the incentive was no longer needed and was costing the country large tax revenues, besides giving some companies an unearned advantage over others. The action is expected to put a damper on the investment boom and thus indirectly suppress demand on any threatened inflation.

Flemming acted at a time when 924 applicants for the rapid write-off were pending, covering an estimated $9,300,000,000 in plant and equipment expansion.

JAPANESE HUNTING ATOM ORE
WHEN FIRST A-BOMB FELL

GENEVA, Aug. 11 (UPI)—Japan was conducting an "urgent" search for atomic ore when the first A-bomb fell on Hiroshima, the Japanese Government revealed today.

The search ended on V-J day, but now is starting anew, the Japanese Ministry of International Trade and Industry disclosed.

These facts were released in a report on "Natural Occurrences of Uranium and Thorium in Japan," part of a survey of world atomic resources presented at the atoms-for-peace conference.

Industrialist Dead

HARRY B. WALLACE
WALLACEHARRY B. WALLACE
DIES; UNIVERSITY, BUSINESS LEADER

Former President of Washington U. Corp. Was Board Chairman of Cupples Co.

Harry Brookings Wallace, St. Louis industrialist and former president of Washington University Corporation, died of a heart ailment today at his home, 4976 Pershing avenue. He was 78 years old and had been ill for the past year.

Mr. Wallace was chairman of the board of Cupples Co., manufacturer of wood and rubber products. He was president of the firm from 1917 to 1942.

When Mr. Wallace was succeeded by Ethan A. H. Shepley as president of Washington University Corporation in 1951, he had served the university in various capacities for 23 years.

Former Acting Chancellor. He organized the university's Sustaining Associates, a fund-raising group, in 1940. He became president in 1942, and was Acting Chancellor from July, 1944, to September, 1945. The university awarded him an honorary degree of doctor of laws in 1947.

In his services to the university he carried on the work of his uncle, the late Robert S. Brookings, who devoted a major portion of his life to education and philanthropy. Brookings, who made a fortune in the woodenware business here, gave the school the ground for its main campus, was a leader in development of its medical center and made a gift of the $250,000 home which now serves as the chancellor's residence.

Mr. Wallace was assistant director-general of the military relief program of the American Red Cross at Washington, D.C., early in World War I. Later, with the rank of major, he commanded the Red Cross in its activities on the American front in France.

Born in St. Louis Aug. 6, 1877, Mr. Wallace was the son of Asa A. and Mrs. Mary Jane Brookings Wallace. He attended Smith Academy here and then went to Yale University, graduating in 1899.

Varsity Baseball Player. At Yale Mr. Wallace played varsity baseball for three years. Walter Camp named him to the All-American Intercollegiate Baseball Team for the year 1898-99.

Mr. Wallace became associated with Cupples Co. on graduation from college. He was succeeded as president in 1942 by his son, John Kennard Wallace.

He served as director of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and various banking institutions. In World War II he was a coordinator of the Office of Production Administration.

Apology to Pony Express: Mail
Even Slower Now, Karsten Says

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis, has amended his complaint that mail delivery these days is almost as slow as the pony express. Now he says it is slower.

Last month, Karsten ruffled Republican feelings, including those of House G.O.P. Leader Joseph M. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, by reporting that a special delivery letter took six days to go from his office to an address 20 blocks away. In 1860, the pony express made it from Missouri to California in seven days, he added.

Yesterday, Karsten complained

OCTOBER START
ON 5 BOND ISSUE
PROJECTS LIKELY,
OFFICIALS SAY

Many Others of $12.-150,000 Group Voted by Aldermen to Be Ready Soon Afterward, They Assert.

Work on five projects in the big bond issue program of St. Louis public improvements may get under way in October, city officials announced today following passage of enabling legislation by the Board of Aldermen. The first projects to be undertaken, it was indicated, will be the following:

Widening of Forest Park boulevard from Grand boulevard to Kingshighway by reducing the width of the center park strip from 48 to 24 feet. This will cost about $225,000.

Widening of West Florissant avenue from Riverview boulevard to Taylor avenue by taking over an abandoned 30-foot streetcar right-of-way. This will be a $300,000 project.

Repair of the Kingshighway viaduct which spans the Mill Creek Valley railroad yards. Cost will be determined by materials and time needed for the work.

Others to be Ready Soon. A number of other bond issue projects should be ready for contract-letting shortly after the first group of improvements is started, it was pointed out. The Fire Department can place orders for six more pumps and six aerial ladders as soon as the city supply commissioner opens bids for the new equipment.

Contracts will be let for resurfacing Chippewa street from Grand to Kingshighway and for resurfacing Arsenal street from the Arsenal viaduct to Watson road.

Frank Kriz, director of streets and sewers, said specifications for a new garbage-grinding plant and for a North Side incinerator should be ready in a month or two. When the plans are completed, construction contracts will be let.

Contracts will be let this fall for resurfacing Riverview drive from Broadway to the Chain of Rocks Bridge, he added.

20 Bills Enacted. The Board of Aldermen, interrupting its summer recess to pass ordinances clearing the way for an early start on municipal improvements, passed 20 bills in the three-day special session.

The measures appropriated $12,150,000 for projects in the $110,639,000 bond issue program approved by the voters last May, and $75,000 for a start on the Plaza park. The $75,000 will come from the $1,500,000 bond issue voted in 1953.

Preliminary work on the park—excavation of the foundations of demolished buildings and filling in the three-block site—will be co-ordinated with street widening, and may get under way even sooner than the other projects in the first group of improvements.

In the procedure to be followed on most of the bond issue projects, plans and specifications are submitted to the Board of Public Service for approval, then advertisements for bids are placed. After bids are received, the contractor's bond must be approved before the final contract is awarded.

Kriz said rehabilitation of the Kingshighway viaduct probably will be carried out through an arrangement by which a qualified contractor will do the work on a cost-plus basis.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker today signed 20 enabling bills passed by the aldermen. The measures carried emergency clauses making them effective immediately.

"St. Louis today embarks on a progressive new era," Tucker said in signing the ordinances. "By their overwhelming acceptance of the bond issue, St. Louisans cast a vote for progress. Every effort will be made to carry out the will of the people as quickly and as efficiently as possible."

again, this time in a letter to Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield. One of his office employees and her mother, Karsten said, tried to vote in the St. Louis bond issue election last May. They sent their absentee ballots airmail special delivery.

Two months later, Karsten told Summerfield, the envelopes, ballots still inside, were returned to his office undelivered. They had been found at the Library of Congress, in the bottom of a mail sack with seven other pieces of undelivered mail. "I feel I have done an injustice to the pioneer service of the 1860s, which, even though late, was able to get the mail through," Karsten said.

FORWARD EDGE
HITS CAROLINA
COASTAL AREAS

Storm Diminishing and Is Expected to Wear Itself Out Inland—Northern Seaboard Calls Off Alert.

WILMINGTON, N.C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Hurricane Connie, diminished in force but still packing 100-mile winds near the center, pounded the Carolina coastline today. High waves tore down fishing piers and other shore installations as the tropical storm moved relentlessly toward land.

At the same time other parts of the Eastern seaboard relaxed from the threat that has hung over the whole area for three days.

The Washington Weather Bureau said Connie's threat to areas north of the Virginia capes appeared about over. Connie now is expected to wear itself out inland in the Carolinas. The hurricane alert was terminated north of the Delaware breakwater.

There is still a possibility of hurricane-force winds on the Virginia capes and in the Norfolk area late tonight and early Friday, the bureau said.

Winds just an hour toward the force were battering the Carolinas this afternoon. They sent tree limbs, shingles and other debris flying.

The hurricane's eye was moving at a forward rate of six to seven miles an hour toward the low-lying resort beaches between Wilmington and Myrtle Beach, S.C.

At the present rate the center of the eye would reach shore about 9 p.m. It was about 90 miles southeast of Wilmington at 3 p.m.

Flags to Virginia. Hurricane flags flapped from Cape Romain, S.C., some 50 miles northeast of Charleston, to the Virginia capes.

The Wilmington airport reported gusts of 72 miles an hour at 11 a.m. At Frying Pan shoals, near the mouth of the Cape Fear river, gusts up to 92 miles were recorded.

Connie's central winds have been as high as 135 miles an hour. Storm forecasters warned that although the eye seems to be spreading out slightly, the hurricane still is highly dangerous. Hurricane winds extended 100 miles to the northeast and east and 50 miles to the southwest. Gale winds extended 300 miles to the northeast and 150 to the southwest.

Tides ran four to six feet above normal in some places and were expected to go nearly twice that high. The waves were piling up sand and water in the streets of some North Carolina beach towns. Most vacationers had fled the area.

"It's blowing so hard you can hardly stand up," Police Chief M. E. Williamson reported from Wrightsville Beach, east of Wilmington.

A long stretch of coastline from Georgetown, S.C., to Cape Lookout, N.C., braced for the mounting fury of the storm.

A Coast Guard cutter arrived in Boston today with 43 men evacuated from a radar platform 100 miles east of Cape Cod.

Sixty workers elected to stay aboard the "Texas tower" and gamble their lives it would ride out the storm. Seas of 35 to 40 feet were forecast today in the area of the tower, the platform of which stands 63 feet above the normal water level.

New Storm Developing.

While Connie pounded the mainland, another tropical storm was developing in the Atlantic about 400 miles northeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico. The Miami Weather Bureau said the fourth storm of the year, named Diane, already has winds of 50-60 miles near the center and is expected to grow stronger, moving generally northwest at about 14 miles an hour.

Few persons remained on the ocean front in the Carolinas. Communication lines went down in many areas making it difficult to gauge the effects of the severe gales preceding Connie's real punch.

Piers at Carolina Beach and Kure Beach, on a peninsula east of Wilmington, were breaking up at midday. A pier at Wrightsville Beach, a few miles to the north, reportedly was swept away. This pier was destroyed by Hurricane

66 KILLED IN COLLISION,
CRASH OF 2 U.S. TROOP
PLANES IN GERMANYDONALD QUARLES IS APPOINTED SECRETARY OF THE AIR FORCE

Wilson Aid to Succeed Talbott—Has Concentrated on Guided Missiles, Earth Satellite Program.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower today named Donald A. Quarles as the new Secretary of the Air Force.

Quarles is now assistant secretary of defense for research and development. He will succeed Harold Talbott who resigned Aug. 1, effective this Saturday, after the Senate Investigations subcommittee publicly explored Talbott's outside business interests and raised a question of ethics.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Quarles was recommended to Mr. Eisenhower by Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson.

Guided Missile Leader.

As assistant Secretary of Defense, Quarles has concentrated on pushing guided missile programs. He went to the Pentagon after serving as president of the Sandia Laboratory in New Mexico which does highly specialized research for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The multi-million-dollar earth satellite program which the White House disclosed with considerable fanfare last month comes directly under Quarles' supervision.

Quarles, a Republican of Englewood, N.J., became Assistant Secretary of Defense Aug. 2, 1952. He was born in Van Buren, Ark., is a graduate of Yale and was a World War I artillery captain.

From 1919 to 1948 he was an engineer for the Bell Telephone Laboratories and served as vice president of that firm from 1948 to 1952.

He also is a former vice president of the Western Electric Co. and a former president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Telephone Research. While he was with Western Electric and the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Quarles was in charge of developing carrier telephone systems, broad-band telephone and television systems. In World War II he concentrated on improving military electronic apparatus, particularly radar.

By the end of that war Quarles was vice president of the Western Electric Co. and was the first president of the Sandia Laboratory organized by Western Electric to operate an experimental facility for the Atomic Energy Commission.

One of the quietest men in high position in the Pentagon, Quarles has kept out of public view but is known to have been Wilson's right-hand man on all problems involving new weapons.

His selection came as somewhat of a surprise. His name was not mentioned among the six or so generally regarded as front-runners for the job.

Wilson said Tuesday between 30 and 40 candidates had been suggested to him, including some Democrats. He told reporters his job of picking a successor to Talbott was a tough one, and commented: "I don't know anyone who sits next to God and has financial and engineering experience."

The appointment will be subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes in January.

Quarles told reporters he would "divest myself of any holdings in my modest list of interests."

TALBOTT ACCUSES
WILSON OF FAILING TO DEFEND HIM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Retiring Air Force Secretary Talbott today accused Defense Secretary Wilson of failing to defend him.

The brief conversation took place in the Defense Secretary's office while photographers were snapping pictures of Talbott's successor, Donald A. Quarles.

Talbott plucked Wilson by the sleeve and walked with him to a corner of the big office, saying, "I don't like what you said at your news conference about being distressed about the whole business of my resignation."

Wilson started, in a low voice, to explain what he had in mind. Talbott interrupted to say: "You haven't done one thing to defend me."

At that point an aid summoned both defense officials to pose for photographs with the new Air Force Secretary.

The conversation between Talbott and Wilson was heard by at least one photographer, one reporter and two civilians attached to the Defense Department.

Talbott later instructed aids to issue a "denial" of the remarks attributed to him. The Air Force statement said Talbott "stated that he had asked Mr. Wilson to step in the corner so that he could congratulate him on his appointment of Don Quarles as Secretary of the Air Force and to tell him how pleased he was personally with the appointment."

If this doesn't work, they said, they will begin coming to work Aug. 22 wearing only their shoes, underwear and trousers. On Aug. 30 they will stop wearing shoes and trousers, showing up at work only in their underwear.

If nothing happens by Sept. 20, they said, they will begin wearing loin cloths until their grievances are redressed.

Why They Evacuated.

ATLANTIC BEACH, N.C., Aug. 11 (UPI)—Some 100 Atlantic Beach residents who refused to evacuate as a hurricane precaution changed their minds today when Mayor Alfred G. Cooper asked them to register and list their next of kin.

ONE HAS ENGINE TROUBLE, PULLS UP IN FRONT OF ITS SISTER SHIP

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two C-119 Flying Boxcar transports collided in the air and crashed in flames into the Black Forest today. The United States Air Force announced 66 men were killed.

The Air Force said the death toll included the crews of the two American aircraft as well as soldiers being transported.

The Flying Boxcars have a normal capacity of 67, with a maximum capacity of 78.

The planes were part of a nine-plane flight which had just taken off from Echterdingen field, near here, on a training mission with troops from the United States Seventh Army aboard.

The Air Force announcement said: "Initial reports said that one plane developed engine trouble just after take-off, after reaching a cruising level of 4000 feet. The crippled plane lost altitude, then was overtaken and pulled up abruptly across the front of another aircraft in the formation."

The crippled plane went down immediately. The second plane flew level for almost one minute, then went out of control and nosed into the ground.

47 On One Plane. The first plane to crash had 41 passengers and a crew of five plus one loadmaster on board.

"The second plane carried 14 passengers, a crew of four and a loadmaster.

"Helicopters were dispatched to the scene immediately to air rescue aircraft from the Eighty-fourth Air Rescue Squadron at Rhein-Main air base arrived a few minutes later.

"Helicopter pilots reported no immediate indications of survivors.

"The aircraft were from the Sixteenth Troop Carrier Wing at Rhein-Main, on a training mission to give air transportability training to Seventh Army troops at Stuttgart.

"An Air Force investigation team was dispatched to the scene this afternoon to try to determine the cause of the crash. Names of the deceased were withheld pending notification of next of kin."

4th Worst in History.

The announced death toll would make this the fourth worst air disaster in history. A total of 129 United States service men died in the flaming wreckage of a C-124 Globemaster near Tokyo in 1953. In 1952 another C-124 crashed on taking off from Larson Air Force Base, Wash., killing 87. In 1950, a commercial plane carrying soccer fans crashed at Cardiff, Wales, with a death toll of 80 persons.

Today's was West Germany's biggest postwar air disaster and also the biggest military death toll in an air crash in Western Europe.

The Air Force said today's crash occurred less than 15 minutes after take-off in mid-afternoon.

Burst Into Flames. German witnesses said the planes burst into flames as they hit the ground. The explosion was heard at points over an area of more than 50 miles. Both planes were charred wrecks.

The loadmasters in each plane were noncommissioned officers responsible for embarkation and disembarkation of the troops.

In Bonn, President Theodor Heuss, in a message to American Ambassador James B. Conant, asked Conant to convey his sympathies to the United States Air Force and to the families of the men who were killed.

By the United Press.

German police first reported the flaming double-crash.

Witnesses told of the breathless minute after the air collision when one of the two planes fought to stay in the air. The pilot lost the fight to keep his plane up and it wavered and plunged into the ground behind the first plane.

The second plane was still were climbing from their take-off to form up for the aerial maneuver when the collision knocked them from the sky.

Where's Maxville? Maps Don't Agree; Phone Rate Row Raging

Maxville, a community of 50 persons, is in Jefferson county. It is on State Route 141 a mile west of Lemay Ferry road and hasn't changed positions since it was founded many years ago. But no two maps agree exactly where Maxville is.

As a result a dispute of some proportions has developed between the Big Rock Club, a Maxville civic group, and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Club members say the phone company has been using the wrong map "Rand & McNally" in locating Maxville for purposes of establishing toll rates.

The phone company today was awaiting word from the United States Post Office on its request to have Maxville put back on the official postal map. It hasn't been on the map since Maxville lost its post office shortly after the turn of the century.

If the Government map places Maxville 19 miles from Third and Locust streets, the St. Louis toll rate for AT&T exchange subscribers will continue at 25 cents. If it shows Maxville only 17.43 miles from Third and Locust, as the geodetic survey map indicates, the rate will be cut to 20 cents.

"But, oh my," a spokesman for the telephone company said, "Just think how many other rate changes we'll have to make if we shift the location of Maxville. It will cost some subscribers more, too, and they won't like that."

CELLER SAYS HE AGAIN WILL CALL ON WEEKS TO TELL ABOUT BAC

Congressman Asserts Business Advisory Group Operated in 'Aura of Secrecy' for 20 Years.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—A dispute between Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem., New York), continued today after Celler said he would renew his efforts to have Weeks testify before a House subcommittee.

Weeks thus far has declined to appear before the Anti-trust and Monopoly Subcommittee, which is investigating activities of business men who serve as unpaid government advisers or policy-makers while retaining their private jobs.

Celler, chairman of the subcommittee and the parent House Judiciary Committee, told reporters after a subcommittee hearing yesterday he would again try to get Weeks to testify but if the Secretary persisted in his refusal, the subcommittee would "subpena a whole slew of people."

"I think Weeks should come forward," Celler said. "But if we can't get information one way, we will get it another." He added that the subcommittee also wants to hear from former Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, now in private business in Cincinnati.

Weeks refused yesterday to give the subcommittee records of the Commerce Department's top industry advisory group, the Business Advisory Council, composed of 60 leading business executives. He directed Walter White, executive director of the council, to defy a subcommittee subpoena calling for the council's files.

This prompted Celler to charge that the council "has operated in an aura of secrecy" for 20 years. He said the council had barred the press from its meetings and had withheld its reports and documents from the public. Celler said information on the council's activities had been "virtually nil."

He charged also that a Washington lobbyist had been hired by the council as a consultant on labor policy. Celler identified the man as John C. Gall, a Washington attorney.

Gall and an associate, John F. Lane, represented Howard I. Young, St. Louis mining company executive, when Young appeared before a congressional committee recently to answer charges made by the General Accounting Office. The GAO said Young's activities as an unpaid federal official from 1951 to 1953 constituted an apparent "conflict of interest."

Registered Lobbyist.
In 1947, Celler said, Gall was a registered lobbyist for Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. In 1948, he was registered as a lobbyist for the National Association of Electric Companies and in 1949 as a lobbyist for General Electric Co., Celler added.

For part of that time, the chairman continued, Gall was a paid consultant to the advisory council, working with the council's labor policy committee.

Celler introduced a letter written by White in 1948 to a member of the council, in which White said Gall "indicated to me" that he could arrange to get witnesses to appear before congressional committees.

In another letter introduced by Celler, White wrote a council member: "The John Gall situation is a little embarrassing because we are paying him and he really works with other people, although he keeps me constantly informed." This letter was dated April 13, 1951.

Gall, who was present at the hearing but did not testify, told the Post-Dispatch he registered as a lobbyist "whenever I represented a client in legislative matters." He said he should be praised by Celler for this, not condemned.

He said most of his work for the business advisory council was done between 1951 and 1955. He said he could not remember whether he did any work for the council before 1951 without consulting his files.

The case of Young, who was unpaid deputy administrator of the Government's stockpiling program while retaining his position as president of American Zinc, Lead and Smelting Co. of St. Louis, was partly responsible for increased congressional interest in the activities of so-called "WOCs" business men who serve the Government without compensation.

During his Government service, Young also continued to head the American Mining Congress, which maintains an active lobby in Washington. Gall is not registered as a lobbyist for the mining group.

Questioning White yesterday, Celler read the names of several members of the advisory council who had contributed funds for a study of the anti-trust laws made by the council.

He followed each name with the man's business affiliation and said that in each case the contributor's firm had been cited by the Government for violation of anti-trust laws.

Celler asked White if he had obtained a restricted Government document for C. R. Cox, president of Kennecott Copper Co., of New York. White replied that he did not remember. Cox was a member of the council.

The chairman asked White if he had done various favors for

Talbot Accuses Wilson

Retiring AIR SECRETARY HAROLD TALBOT (left), who resigned under fire because of conflict of private and official interests, voicing resentment over recent comment by SECRETARY OF DEFENSE CHARLES E. WILSON today when they met to be photographed with Talbot's successor, Donald A. Quarles. Wilson is listening soberly as Talbot says: "You haven't done one thing to defend me."

members of the advisory group and when White answered that he may have, Celler said: "What relation did that have to the Business Advisory Council being an advisory group?"

White acknowledged that the council advised Government agencies other than the Commerce Department. These he said included the selective service system, to which the council gave advice on manpower problems and the State Department, advice on Latin American affairs.

White said the council also advised Defense Mobilization Secretary Charles E. Wilson and Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston. He said the advice was given at the direction of the Secretary of Commerce.

The April 1951 letter from White to Charles R. Hook, chairman of Armet Steel Corp. and a council member, contained an apparent reference to an attempt by the council to "upset the applecart" on labor commitments made by President Truman.

Wage Board Walkout.
At that time, Economic Stabilizer Johnston was trying to restore harmony on the Wage Stabilization Board after labor representatives on the board walked out in a dispute.

White wrote Hook that Gall was active in putting forth "the official position of industry" in the dispute and that Johnston did not like it. Johnston dropped the Business Advisory Council from meetings being held on the WSB controversy.

"But if he thought he could escape," John Gall by that name, he failed," Otto Seyferth has continued to use John as his personal adviser though at our expense," White wrote. Seyferth was a representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which was consulted in the labor dispute.

White's letter continued: "I am not sanguine that our victory is more than temporary. The President is alleged to have made further commitments to labor on wage policy and he will have to find some way to make good on them. This 16-man committee may upset the applecart, even though our representatives on it stand firm. If they do, it will be because of John Gall."

The subcommittee's counsel, Herbert Maletz, asked White if the letter indicated the advisory group was "engaging in activities far beyond giving advice to the Secretary of Commerce?"

White replied that it was an "unusual situation."

Maletz said: "Even to seeking to reverse presidential commitments?"

White answered that the council's representatives were trying to achieve a constructive result "in the best interests of the country." He said the council was called into the Wage Stabilization Board dispute by the Secretary of Commerce.

FBI INVESTIGATING ARRESTS OF FLORIDA HOTEL STRIKERS

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating the arrests of 31 pickets of the AFL Hotel Employees Union last June 8.

C. E. Weeks, special agent in charge, said some of the pickets were called in and interviewed after a "request from the Department of Justice in Washington."

He said the investigation is being made "to allow the criminal division to determine if there has been a violation of civil rights laws."

The arrests were ordered by Miami Beach police officials who said they had received complaints of vandalism in the long strike against Miami Beach hotels. Police charged the men were disturbing the peace and loitering.

Six of the 31 men were convicted and the others freed.

NEW INDOONESIAN CABINET LEANS RIGHT OF CENTER

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Aug. 11 (AP)—Burhanuddin Harahap of the Moslem Masjumi party today formed Indonesia's sixth government since it won independence 5½ years ago.

The new Cabinet line-up had a strong right-of-center complexion, in contrast to the Communist backing on which the last Premier, Ali Sastroamidjojo, often depended. However, there is little likelihood the new Cabinet will deviate from Sastroamidjojo's Neutralist foreign policy.

Vice President Mohammed Hatta, acting for vacationing President Soekarno, approved Harahap's Cabinet of 22 ministers drawn from 12 of the 20 parties in the provisional Parliament.

FORMER CAPTAIN WHO AIDED HOUSE GROUP INDICTED

Ex-Employee of Red Hunters Arrested on Charge of Misusing Secret Data.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Indictment and arrest of a former Air Force captain and congressional investigator on charges of misusing a classified Air Force document was announced by the Justice Department today.

The man is Rea S. Van Fossom, who resigned from the Air Force last Nov. 23 and was hired the next day as an $8200-a-year investigator for the House Un-American Activities Committee.

He left the committee last January. At the time of his employment at the Capitol, a committee source said Van Fossom's separation from the Air Force was associated with his delivery to the committee of a secret document.

Van Fossom was arrested this morning by United States marshals at his Silver Spring (Md.) home. At the same time a sealed indictment returned by a federal grand jury here yesterday was opened in district court.

It charged the former Air Force captain, 36 years old, with unlawfully removing and "converting to his own use" a classified document from the files of the Air Force office of special investigations.

In six other counts, the indictment charged Van Fossom with making false statements to investigators about this document. The indictment also disclosed that the document related to Jay Lovestone, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States 25 years ago, and now executive secretary of the Free Trade Union Committee of AFL.

Lovestone was publicly expelled from the Communist party by Joseph Stalin in the late 1920s.

The nature of the paper was not disclosed by committee sources at the time Van Fossom was hired by the House group.

Van Fossom was accused in the indictment of making false statements in July of last year to Air Force officials when he was being questioned about the alleged revelation of the document to unauthorized persons.

The indictment said Fossom denied knowing of the Lovestone file, making a copy of it or having a copy made, or giving a copy of it to anyone.

Under the eight-count indictment, Van Fossom could get as much as 34 years in prison and be fined $63,000 if convicted on all counts.

PRESIDENT BACK IN CAPITAL AFTER 6 DAYS ON FARM

Schedules Talks With Key Aids — Leaves Sunday for 2 Months in Colorado.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower, grounded by the threat of hurricane Connie, returned to Washington by automobile today after a six-day stay at his country home in Gettysburg, Pa.

The President arrived at his office at 9 a.m. after an 85-mile drive from his farm. He made the trip in one hour and 55 minutes.

Flight plans were abandoned late yesterday when weather bureau reports indicated some possibility that the Washington area might be hit by at least the fringe of the hurricane.

The President scheduled conferences today with key Administration officials. They include Adm. Robert B. Carney, who is retiring Aug. 17 as chief of naval operations and as a member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Secretary of State Dulles; Attorney General Brownell, and Secretary of Welfare Folsom.

It quite likely will be the President's last opportunity to meet with those officials until he returns from a Colorado vacation, probably about mid-October.

Mr. Eisenhower plans to attend a Cabinet meeting at the White House tomorrow, then return to his Gettysburg farm for a stay until about noon Sunday. He intends to go back to Washington then to take off for Denver.

He had the assurance of a White House physician that Mrs. Eisenhower was feeling much better after a period of resting in bed.

The physician reported last night that Mrs. Eisenhower had taken a walk around the family farm with her husband yesterday before he went golfing.

Playing at the Gettysburg Country Club, Mr. Eisenhower shot an 80 for 18 holes, the best score he very tallied on that par 70 course. Mr. Eisenhower had been at his Gettysburg farm since last Friday, vacationing and acting on many of the bills which Congress passed.

The President has completed action on 111 of the 273 bills before him. He signed 77 bills yesterday.

Big Four Ministers to Confer Oct. 27 to Further Peace Efforts

Geneva Conference Ordered at Summit Parley—West May Meet to Discuss Its Position.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UP)—Foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and Russia will meet in Geneva on Oct. 27 in a further effort to find a basis for world peace.

The four governments issued identical announcements today of the date for the foreign ministers meeting. The conference was ordered by the recent Geneva summit conference.

A brief United States announcement said: "Following consultations through diplomatic channels, the governments of France, the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States have agreed that the meeting of the foreign ministers of the foreign powers, envisaged in the directive issued by the heads of government on July 23, will convene at Geneva on Thursday, Oct. 27, 1955."

They are also agreed that the conference of foreign ministers will be served by a joint secretariat of the four powers.

The three Western foreign ministers may meet in New York next month to discuss the Western position at the Geneva meeting.

Only after the foreign ministers have settled down to the hard bargaining on the issues involved between East and West, Western statesmen said, will it be possible to determine whether Russia is sincerely interested in reaching settlements of cold war issues on any terms other than its own.

Prior to the foreign ministers meeting, West German Chancellor Adenauer is expected to visit Moscow and French Premier Faure and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay also will visit the Soviet capital.

Adenauer is expected to discuss with Soviet leaders the issue of German reunification, on which the summit conference nearly broke deadlocked.

The chiefs of state have laid down four main issues to be considered by the foreign ministers: (1) European security, (2) reunification of Germany, (3) disarmament and (4) increased contacts between Western and Communist worlds.

The West wants to link the issues of European security and German reunification. Russia wants to take up the issue of European security independently, as the first agenda item and put off for the future the question of bringing together the two halves of Germany, now divided by the Iron Curtain.

Some workers, suffering through one of Washington's worst heat waves, offered to buy cooling units if the Government would provide window space where they could be installed.

The plan soon became involved in red tape as legal and ethical questions arose. But yesterday the General Services Administration—the Government's house-keeping agency—gave its tentative approval.

Hensforth, employees may buy air conditioning equipment through the GSA and then lease it to the Government, which will take over operation and maintenance.

U.S., REDS CALLED NEAR ACCORD ON RELEASE OF 40

Chinese Communist Source Says Only Details Remain to Be Worked Out.

GENEVA, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Chinese Communist source said today his government and the United States are "near agreement" on the release of 40 Americans held by Peiping and only details remain to be worked out. There was no official confirmation of the report, however, from either the Americans or the Reds.

The Chinese source spread his report after United States Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Peiping envoy Wang Ping-nan met for an hour and a half. It was the fifth of their secret talks here on the American prisoners and Chinese students the Reds claim the United States is keeping from returning home.

The two Ambassadors announced they would meet again Saturday morning. A United States spokesman would say only that Johnson and Wang continued their discussion on the repatriation of civilians.

The talks had stalled Monday over Wang's demand for a list of Chinese nationals living in the United States and a proposal that the United States act as a third party representing Red China on the repatriation question.

The United States has rejected both demands.

The Chinese Communists have asserted that a number of Chinese are being forced to remain in the United States. The United States insists that all are free to leave.

Some observers saw the Communist demands as an effort to force the United States to recognize the Peiping government's claim to jurisdiction over the Chinese involved. The United States recognizes the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa, not the Chinese Communist government.

Of the 40 Americans held by the Chinese Reds, 25 are reported in jail and four under house arrest. The other 11 reportedly have been refused exit visas.

2 BILLION A YEAR U.S. PRIORITY FOR ROADS FAVORED BY GOVERNORS

Proposal for First Call on That Amount of Excise Tax Revenue
Finds Growing Support
at Conference.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—A proposal that Congress put a priority tag for highways on more than two billion dollars a year in excise tax revenue appeared to be gaining headway today among the nation's Governors in their forty-seventh annual conference.

Gov. Fred Hall, Kansas Republican who has been supporting President Eisenhower's road program which was rejected by Congress, said such a proposal was "kicked around" in a closed meeting of the conference resolutions committee.

Hall, a member of the group, told a news conference he believes there is majority sentiment among the Governors for expanding highway construction out of existing federal revenues, with no new taxes.

Gov. Edwin C. Johnson, Colorado Democrat who has backed the Gore bill passed by the United States Senate but shelved in the House, took the same position in an interview.

Half Billion a Year More.
Hall said that of the revenues collected on gasoline and other taxes on highway users at least a half billion dollars more yearly should be channeled into road construction above the $875,000,000 now sent back to the states by the Federal Government.

He said that if Congress doesn't want to dedicate revenues to specific purposes, there should be some priority established for a highway program out of the money collected from highway users.

He said that only as "a final and last resort" should new taxes be imposed.

Although the Governors listened to praise last night from Britain's Ambassador Sir Roger Makins for Mr. Eisenhower's role at the Geneva Big Four conference and turned to a discussion of mental health problems today, their minds obviously were on the roads issue.

Makins told the Governors at the state dinner of this forty-seventh annual conference of the State Chief Executives that at Geneva Mr. Eisenhower had succeeded "in laying, let us hope for once and all, the ghost of the idea that the Americans are a pack of warmongers."

Mental Health Problem.
Gov. G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Democrat, told his colleagues in a prepared address that "the problem of mental health is still one of the biggest faced by the people and the states."

"One out of 12 babies born today will spend some time in a mental institution," he said. "Over one-half of our hospital beds are required for mental cases. The total annual public cost of mental health in the United States amounts to over $1,100,000,000."

President Eisenhower told the Governors in a message yesterday he is ready to co-operate with them in attempting to solve the highway and school construction programs.

Remarks by Makins.
The British Ambassador told the Governors that President Eisenhower had countered at Geneva, Red propaganda that the United States was war.

Observing that a new climate of world relations had been ushered in at Geneva, Makins said:

"The new climate of opinion will, I hope, also have a beneficial effect on the situation in the Far East where tension still is high and where bitter feelings impede the progress of pacification."

"The British approach to the problem of China has differed from yours in the last three or four years and so we welcome the beginnings of direct discussions between the United States and Communist China."

16 Youngsters Having Delightful Time As King of Siam's Children in Opera

St. Louis area children appearing in Municipal Opera production of "The King and I" pose backstage before last night's performance. Seated, from left, are LINDA UCHIYAMA, 4; JAMES CARPENTER, 5; ELAINE UCHIYAMA, 6; GARY CARPENTER, 7; RICKY THOMAS, 6, and DENNIS HAYASHI, 7. Standing, from left, LOIS SHIMAMOTO, 9; NAOMI TAKEMOTO, 7; KENJI THOMAS, 8; EDWIN SHIMAMOTO, 11; HENRIETTA SANCHEZ, 6; CHARLOTTE TAKEMOTO, 9; GAIL MOHR, 7, and MARIE and TERESA CARPENTER, twins, 10. Missing from picture is Phyllis Chen, who was ill last night.

14 Are of Oriental Extraction but None Are Siamese — All Take Roles as a Game.

Sixteen St. Louis area children, 14 of Oriental extraction, are having a delightful time this week warming the hearts of Municipal Opera audiences, but the young performers take the whole thing quite casually.

Unlike most youngsters recruited locally for Forest Park productions, this week's crew is not stage-struck nor are their parents seeking to push them toward a career in show business.

The youngsters are playing the parts of children of the King of Siam in "The King and I." They are doing it principally because word went out last spring that the opera urgently needed Oriental children for the work.

Although none of the youngsters is Siamese, 13 have either one or two Japanese parents and another is of Chinese extraction. The other two are Caucasian, selected because they could readily be made up to appear Oriental. Average age of the children is 7 years.

No Stage Ambitions.
Asked backstage last night if she wants to be an actress when she grows up, 7-year-old Naomi Takemoto replied emphatically: "No! I just want to be a plain, ordinary girl."

She said she liked her work in the show, but allowed that she would rather have been cast as a girl than play part of a twin boy, which is what she does.

As if this were not confusing enough, Naomi is quick to point out that her "twin" is Lois Shimamoto, 9, another girl and no relative of Naomi. "And," Lois broke in, "Marie and Teresa Carpenter are really twins, but they are not twins in the play."

Although the children sometimes are puzzled at the strange places in which they find themselves, there is no mystery about why they are in the show.

Appearance Put First.
Productions director John Kennedy decided it would be better to have Oriental children—inexperienced, if necessary—in the parts than to seek youngsters with some training who might lack Oriental appearance. After extensive tryouts the children were selected.

Most of them lacked any previous experience or training. This caused no difficulty at first, Kennedy said, but the youngsters proved to be "very bright and adaptable."

"We soon found that the best way to teach them their parts was to make a game of it, particularly for the younger ones," he said.

Acting like children about to play an interesting game, the youngsters arrive backstage in time for roll-call at 8 p.m., a half hour before curtain time.

Once they are made up and are in costume they dart about, chat, giggle, pet the backstage kitten population and otherwise occupy themselves in the manner of well-behaved, but lively, children.

At about 9 o'clock they make their first of six appearances in the show. Audience reaction confirms the wisdom of Kennedy's insistence on having Oriental children in the parts.

Eyeballs Begin to Droop.
It is well after 11 o'clock that they go on stage for the last time. Among the younger ones, eyeballs are beginning to droop. Last night, one of the smaller girls was so weary after a long bow in the final scene that a performer acting as a servant had to pick her up and hold her. The children are not the only ones who grow weary from the pace. Mrs. David Carpenter, a Japanese war bride who has four children in the show, had one word for her schedule this week: " hectic." Her husband, James, an other youngsters in the show and their parents are: Phyllis Chen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Chen, 8147 Bloom drive, Hanley Hills; Dennis Hayashi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hayashi, 6324 Berthold avenue; Gail Mohr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mohr, 6523 Manchester avenue; Henrietta Sanchez, daughter of Mrs. Dolores Sanchez, 4212 Vista avenue. Edwin and Lois Shimamoto, children of Mr. and Mrs. George Shimamoto, 6042 Fyler avenue; Charlotte and Naomi Takemoto, daughters of Mrs. Ellen Takemoto, 1205 Blackstone avenue; Kenji and Ricky Thomas, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thomas, 4613 Carson road, Berkeley, (Mrs. Thomas was a Japanese war bride); and Elaine and Linda Uchiyama, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. George Uchiyama, 5848 Berkeley drive, Berkeley.

Eastman, who will make his first appearance at Municipal Opera, worked as a usher and vendor at the outdoor theater when he attended public schools here and Washington University. He took Elio Pinza's place in more than 50 Broadway performances of the musical play and had the leading male role on the national tour.

POLICE CAPTAIN, 7 WOMEN FACE 'PAY-OFF' INQUIRY

Dowd Also Seeks Arrest of 2 Other Women Who Formerly Operated Brothels.

The circuit court grand jury resumed its investigation into reported pay-offs by brothel operators to some police officers today with seven women and a police captain under subpoena to testify.

Following a four-and-a-half-hour grand jury session yesterday, Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd announced he had requested the Police Department to arrest two women, former operators of disorderly houses here, who are wanted for questioning in the inquiry.

Dowd said if the women have left the jurisdiction of St. Louis authorities, he would file warrants charging them with receiving the earnings of a prostitute. This would enable him to seek a federal fugitive warrant in event the women have gone to another state.

The women are sought for questioning about reports they were making pay-offs to some police officers, it was learned. One was believed to have formerly operated a brothel in the Seventh (Magnolia avenue) police district.

Maj. James Thompson, who heads the Police Department investigation of the alleged pay-offs, said today he had issued an arrest order for three women wanted in the grand jury inquiry.

Eight witnesses were heard yesterday as the pay-off inquiry was resumed. They included seven women and a man employed by a towel laundering service.

Among the women called to testify was Mrs. May Traynor, who formerly worked for Mrs. June Alma Lytz, murdered brothel operator, from June's Massage Parlor, 308A North Theresa avenue.

Mrs. Traynor, held as a material witness in the inquiry since June 13, has been arrested frequently for operating a disorderly house in the 4000 block of Forest Park boulevard.

Yesterday's session of the grand jury began at 2 p.m. and lasted until 6:30 p.m. Dowd, who recently returned to his office from a vacation, took personal charge of the investigation and questioned witnesses.

The extensive inquiry began early in June after Pauline Cloin, a former employee of June's Massage Parlor, charged that she had seen Mrs. Lytz make pay-offs to police officers to prevent their from interfering with the operation.

Mrs. Lytz was killed on the street in a shooting not connected with the brothel operations nor the alleged pay-offs.

County Council Approves Nov. 8 As Date for Bond Issue Election

Decision on Size and Scope of Civic Improvement Proposal Put Off Until Monday.

The St. Louis County Council last night approved Nov. 8 as the date for a multi-million-dollar civic improvement bond issue election but deferred until Monday a decision on size and scope of the issue.

Council Chairman Frank L. Martini said no one at the executive session which decided on the date had expressed any intention of eliminating any of the 12 projects recommended by the Citizens Bond Issue Screening Committee. He suggested there might be some reductions in the amounts allocated to particular projects but he expressed the belief all would be retained.

Purpose of the Monday meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers, is to receive detailed explanations of each proposition from members of the screening committee, he said.

Martini, who has opposed the controversial route of the Daniel Boone Expressway through Richmond Heights, said he would support the $8,500,000 proposition to provide the county's share of right-of-way costs for that expressway and three others. He explained he was not endorsing the Daniel Boone route but did favor making the money available for all four expressways.

Davis Fails to Protest.
Councilman L. Gordon Davis, who has led almost a one-man campaign to hold the election on Oct. 4, said he had no objection to the Nov. 8 date.

Martini said an ordinance setting the Nov. 8 date will be introduced next Wednesday and that the county's bond attorney will begin at once to prepare petitions for placing the various projects on the ballot.

A large campaign committee will be appointed after Monday's meeting, Martini said, probably by County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews with the assistance of the Council. No decision has been made on how or by whom the petitions will be circulated, he said.

A request by the City of Clayton for inclusion in the bond issue of a project for a Forsyth boulevard traffic relief artery using the abandoned right-of-way of the Rock Island Railroad was presented to the Council last night in a letter from Mayor Jule A. Schweig.

The letter was read to the Council by Clayton Alderman William B. Millus, who said Clayton authorities felt that the city's traffic problems would be increased by the proposed north-south innerbelt highway and that more east-west traffic relief was needed.

"We feel so strongly as to the need for east-west relief," Millus told the Council, "that speaking for the Mayor and the majority of the board, I am authorized to say that we are prepared to submit our own petitions to put this proposal back on the bond issue ballot in the form of the $1,250,000 project we have mentioned."

If this threat were carried out, some of the recommended projects of the screening committee would have to be trimmed, for their total is now within about $800,000 of the county's present limit of bonded indebtedness.

The Clayton board of aldermen, at a special meeting last night, unanimously adopted a resolution encouraging the efforts of an informal group of citizens planning to circulate petitions for inclusion of the relief artery in the bond issue.

Mayor Schweig's letter, at one point, stated the conviction that the proposed relief artery was still very important "even though we understand that due to certain pressures the bond screening committee eliminated same from their recommendations."

Carefully Considered.
J. John Brook, chairman of the screening committee, expressed strong resentment at the accusation the committee had yielded to pressures in eliminating the Forsyth project.

Vincent T. Gilliam, another member of the screening committee, said careful consideration had been given the project but that it was felt Clayton's desire to retain control of its design and construction would have caused complications. He said the project could not have been included without eliminating some vitally needed projects in other parts of the county. The council then requested Matthews to return the letter to Schweig with a request that the reference to pressures be deleted.

In its final report submitted last night, the screening committee said the total cost would be $29,290 less than the $55,200,000 originally suggested. A more exact figure on estimated costs of one right-of-way proposal had reduced the overall figure, Brook said.

Estimate of Taxes.
Estimated cost in taxes of such a program was placed by the screening committee at about 30 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation. The committee said it had accepted a cost of 6 mills on the $100 for each $1,000,000 of issued bonds. Therefore, if the full $55,000,000 of bonds were issued they would require a tax increase of about 33 cents on the $100 over the 20-year period of the life of the bonds.

The estimate was based on the assumption the bonds would have a 20-year maturity, with the first ones issued in August 1956, and that the issuance would be spread over a five-year period. An average interest rate of 2 1/2 per cent was assumed.

However, the normal increases in assessment and continued development of the county, together with revenue from the proposed garage, would all contribute to reducing the estimated tax required, the committee said.

Nine Who Resigned.
The nine who have resigned are August H. Plotzschke and Roy L. Beck, former lieutenants and Oliver Ledergerber, Melvin Cotton, Fred Ripper, Albert Echerle, William Brown, John J. Colligan and Lyle S. Lewis, former patrolman.

The first bulletin to inform members of the county police department about policies to follow during their contact with the public was issued today by DuBois, who said the bulletins would be followed by lectures by him and his staff.

2 COUNTY POLICE OFFICERS HEARD BY GRAND JURY

Four Others and Five Chiefs Due to Testify — Partial Report Due Tuesday.

Two officers of the St. Louis County police department appeared before the circuit court grand jury at Clayton today in its investigation of the operations of the new department from which nine officers have resigned. In all, six members of the county department and five chiefs of police from county communities were to testify today.

The first two were Patrolmen Herman Birnes and James L. Graves. Both formerly served as deputy sheriffs under Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley on the holdup and burglary squad.

Walter Weir Jr., grand jury foreman, said it is the jury's aim to determine whether there has been a breakdown of law enforcement in the county as a result of nine resignations from the new department since it began functioning July 1.

Some of those who resigned blamed "confusion" within the organization as their reason for leaving. Weir said this complaint is being checked.

Though the jury planned to make a partial report today, it will probably not make one on the police investigation until next Tuesday, it was said.

Headquarters Inspected.
A special committee of grand jurors, composed of Mr. Jackson, Hays, Mrs. Hays, W. Becke, Levering L. Seaman and Hugh Scott Jr., made an hour-and-a-half inspection tour of county police headquarters late yesterday.

Superintendent Albert E. Du Bois escorted the jurors on a methodical inspection, explaining duties of each man and answering questions concerning areas covered, radio operation and investigations. He denied there was confusion in the new department.

test of the three kinds of hydrogen. It exists in all the water on the earth in extractable quantities.

His statement on American research on fusion or H-bomb-type energy had been prompted by a question as to whether he had any comment on a prediction made Monday by Dr. Homi Bhabha of India that H-bomb power would be harnessed for peaceful purposes "within two decades."

Strauss said the Indian scientist had prefaced his prediction by saying that there was no physical principle decreeing the harnessing could not be done. Strauss said that was the way he felt too, and it was then that he disclosed the AEC has been doing research on the subject for a considerable time.

As to any predictions about when such harnessing would be achieved—if it can be—Strauss said:

"I wouldn't like to start a career of predicting."

Russian on Isotopes.

In the atoms-for-peace session today, a Russian doctor said Soviet scientists have found radioactive isotopes of considerable value in "curative application" against certain forms of cancer.

Their use "holds out great possibilities," said the doctor, A. V. Kozlova.

Earlier, Dr. Shields Warren of Boston, Mass., former medical chief of the United States Atomic Energy Commission, told the conference:

"For purposes of therapy thus far, the radioisotopes have proved somewhat disappointing with fairly narrow fields of application. However, much work remains to be done before their evaluation is complete."

Radioactive cobalt has the advantage of being available in large quantities compared with radium, and also has certain other advantages, Dr. Warren said, but the characteristics of its radiation "are not such as to give significant qualitative advantages over radium or super-voltage X-ray."

The Russian doctor said radioactive isotopes are used in free medical service establishments of the Soviet Union for treating various diseases.

"Their greatest importance, however, has been proved in treating malignant and benign tumors, including some diseases of blood forming organs," Kozlova added.

He said there had been "recoveries" in a number of cases of various kinds of cancer, but in only one instance did he say in his prepared report how long the patients had been observed after treatment.

In that instance, the period of observation was only two years, whereas the minimum criterion for cancer "cure" is that the patient be free of symptoms for at least five years after any kind of treatment—surgery, radium, or radioactive isotopes.

Some of the results Kozlova said had been achieved in Russia:

1. Relatively early cancer of the larynx: Prolonged recovery in up to 77 per cent of cases treated with radioactive cobalt. Compared to 70 per cent treated with radium.

2. Tumors of the "gullet" (throat): Favorable results in 70 per cent of cases treated with radioactive cobalt, compared with 61 per cent treated with a combination of radium and thorium.

3. Oral cavity cancer and esophagus cancer: 40 per cent "recovery" utilizing both external and internal radioactive cobalt against such malignancies, which Kozlova said are little affected by radium.

4. Cancer of the lower lip and skin in all stages of severity: 76 per cent "recovery." No comparison made with radium.

5. Malignant tumors of the eyelids, cornea and conjunctiva: Favorable results with radioactive phosphorus applied externally.

Treatment of Eye Tumors. Saying that hitherto the only treatment for such localized tumors of the eye has been surgery—such as removal of the eye—the Russian declared:

"It is possible with the radioactive phosphorus method to attain favorable results without injuring the organ of vision."

Discussing the secondary spread of malignant melanoma, or "black cancer," the doctor said that of 11 patients treated, "no further spread of the process has been found in eight cases."

The period of observation lasted up to two years," he said. "Recovery has been recorded in about 50 per cent of cases of recurrent tumors."

In another paper, Soviet scientists said they believe they are on the verge of solving the mystery of photosynthesis—nature's ingenious method of feeding the world.

Prospecting by Air. The Russians also told the parley how they prospect for uranium and thorium under a state plan which relies largely on aerial scouting.

V. I. Baranov said "several deposits of industrial significance" were discovered through aviation.

Scout planes, he said, first select the areas to be covered. Then the prospecting plane, flying at about 150 feet, follows a grid 25 miles long with the parallel flight lines 300 yards apart. Radioactivity is recorded on delicate instruments and aerial photographs are taken.

The United States and Canada also reported on extensive aerial prospecting in addition to their widespread ground prospecting.

A United States paper said aerial surveys by multi-engine planes at altitudes of 500 feet are used to spot radioactivity in "broad areas not previously known to contain uranium or thorium deposits." Then light single-engine planes fly at 60 miles an hour 50 to 100 feet above ground to pinpoint deposits.

Both the United States and Russian papers also told of tests made from samplings of water.

Brazil likewise told the Congress it had found aerial prospecting for uranium and thorium the most effective method of locating them. The 18-month aerial survey said probably "the most effective means of detailed mapping of radiation within very large mineralized areas is by low, slow-flying helicopter."

A leading United States authority told the conference yesterday "the nuclear power era will have abundant fuel resources."

Jesse C. Johnson, director of the division of raw materials for the AEC, said the world's resources in nuclear fuels exceed those of all other types.

There are adequate resources of uranium and thorium for a long-range expanding world power program," he said.

On the basis of present geological evidence, Johnson added, producing nations of the West alone are estimated to have between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 tons of uranium that can be produced at a moderate cost. There are several million tons more available at a higher production cost, he said.

"Uranium can no longer be considered a rare metal," Johnson said. "There are extensive deposits throughout the world and there are processes for extracting the uranium economically."

"Uranium production already developed is sufficient for a major nuclear power program of world-wide extent. Additional production can be obtained when needed."

tion Management in the Eighth Federal Reserve District.

Mr. Wallace took a leading part in civic affairs dealing with relief and unemployment in the economic depression of the 1930s. In 1932 he headed a committee of 600 citizens directing a campaign for a $4,600,000 relief bond issue.

He resigned in 1935 as chairman of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Unemployment and two years later resigned as a member of its successor, the St. Louis Relief Committee, which supervised disbursement of public relief funds.

Mr. Wallace's resignation from the relief group in 1937 came after four other members had quit because the State Relief Administrator overruled a decision here barring strikers from relief rolls. He said the state order had nothing to do with his own resignation, but expressed the view that politics had increasingly influenced administration of relief.

Late in 1936, Mr. Wallace was among prominent St. Louis Democrats who announced that they would vote for Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee in the general election of that year. Mr. Wallace charged that the Democratic Administration had fostered class hatred.

Mr. Wallace was a member of the board of trustees of the Brookings Institute, the Mercantile Library and the Methodist Orphan's Home.

He was a leader in the movement which led to adoption of the nonpartisan plan for selection of judges in Missouri. He helped organize the Community Chest, and in 1913 served as a member of the city's first Plan Commission.

Surviving in addition to his son are his wife, Mrs. Mary R. Kennard Wallace, and a daughter, Mrs. Chapin S. Newhard of St. Louis.

Private funeral services will be held Saturday morning, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

BOY STABBED BY ANOTHER IN FIGHT OVER PIGEON CAGE

James Young, 14 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Young, 3037 St. Vincent avenue, was stabbed and seriously wounded last night in a fight with another boy.

Police arrested Clifford Gorman, also 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gorman, 2341A Rutger street. They quoted young Gorman as saying he stabbed Young in the abdomen with a springback knife as the two were fighting in the 2700 block of Eads avenue.

The Gorman boy said Young several days ago broke up Gorman's pigeon cage. The argument over the cage was resumed last night, he said, and the boys fought. When Young began choking him, Gorman said he drew the knife. Young underwent an emergency operation at Firmin Desloge Hospital and was unable to be questioned by police. Gorman was held.

COOL TO MAYOR'S
SHORTS PROPOSAL

Those men in blue who shuddered last week when Mayor Raymond R. Tucker proposed that traffic officers wear Bermuda shorts in St. Louis's hot summertime breathed easier today.

"No Bermuda shorts this or any other summer," the Board of Police Commissioners agreed yesterday. "Lightweight trousers, yes, but the uniform of the day shall cover the calf of the leg."

I. A. Long, president of the board, said the commissioners were constantly considering changes in the uniform that would comfort the men. But such changes must be within the dignity of the department, he added.

The decision to bar shorts was reached after careful consideration of what some policemen's uncovered calves look like, it was reported.

GEORGIA PASTOR LOSES
LAST APPEAL OF SUSPENSION

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Rev. Blake Craft has lost his second and final appeal from the Southeastern Jurisdictional Council had done in Charlotte, N. C., last Feb. 1. The council's decision was announced yesterday by its president, Judge Marvin A. Childers of San Antonio, Tex. A north Georgia conference found him guilty of "unchristian tempers, words and action . . . and imprudent and unministerial conduct."

gia Methodist Conference in Athens and Craft is now serving a church at Union Point, Ga. But the clergyman, formerly from Clayton, Ga., took a final appeal on "errors of law" to the church's highest tribunal, the judicial council.

The council, meeting July 28-30 in Denver, ruled against him just as the appeals committee of the Southeastern Jurisdictional Council had done in Charlotte, N. C., last Feb. 1. The council's decision was announced yesterday by its president, Judge Marvin A. Childers of San Antonio, Tex. A north Georgia conference found him guilty of "unchristian tempers, words and action . . . and imprudent and unministerial conduct."

11 FLYERS RELAX IN HAWAII, LEAVE FOR U.S. TODAY

Ex-P.O.W.s Greeted by Pretty Girls — Enjoy Steak Dinner at Night Club.

HONOLULU, Aug. 11 (AP)—Eleven United States airmen were relaxing in Hawaii before leaving late today in two transport planes for California and reunions this weekend with loved ones they haven't seen for years.

The airmen, freed in Hong Kong last week after 32 grim months as prisoners of the Chinese Communists, are due at Travis Air Force Base northeast of San Francisco at 8 a.m. (10 a.m. St. Louis time), Friday.

At Travis they will be transferred to other planes and whisked to airports nearest their homes.

The men are free to go where they want in Hawaii and do as they please. They reached here in excellent spirits, and were greeted by two of Hawaii's prettiest girls, armed with flower leis and quick to present the traditional aloha kiss.

The airmen were out on the town last night, after politely refusing an offer of a nine-course Chinese dinner.

Spencer Weaver, owner of several restaurants, provided the men with steaks and Hawaiian entertainment at his night club, a home in 1944 when President Roosevelt conferred with Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Yearned for Salad Bar. Capt. Eugene Vaadi fo Clayton, N.Y., said the first thing he wanted to do in Hawaii was visit a salad bar in Waikiki. "I used to sit in my cell dreaming about that salad bar," he said.

A Pentagon Air Force Information officer, Maj. William McGinty, told reporters at a news conference to stay clear of torture and other such subjects, pointing out the men had been through that in two previous conferences.

McGinty also asked that Airman Daniel C. Schmidt not be "The Air Force is very proud of the way this boy has conducted himself in this affair. He would like a little privacy," McGinty said.

Schmidt's wife Una says she married a California logger last year. She said she thought the airman was dead. She has left her second husband to decide her future after she meets Schmidt, father of her son.

Plan for Mass Escape of P.O.W.s From North Korea Camp Related

Witness for Lieutenant Says Colonel Ordered Men to Go Along With Red Propaganda Line.

FORT LEWIS, Wash., Aug. 11 (AP)—A dramatic plan to attempt a mass escape from a Korean prisoner-of-war camp, through the help of helicopters, was described yesterday at the court-martial of Lt. Jefferson D. Erwin.

The testimony was given from a wheelchair by M. Sgt. John P. Porter, Fieldsboro, N.J. Erwin, career soldier from Blanchard, Okla., is charged with making disloyal statements and aiding the enemy while a prisoner in 1951.

Sgt. Porter, brought here from the Valley Forge Army Hospital, Phoenixville, Pa., said the escape plan—never carried out—was proposed by Lt. Paul V. Liles, Birmingham, Ala., senior prisoner-officer at P.O.W. camp No. 12 at Pyongyang.

A fellow prisoner was to escape and get through to American forces with a map, Porter said, and a request made for helicopters to fly to the area to aid the 60 to 70 American prisoners get away.

Liles also ordered the men and officers of the prisoners' peace committee at the camp to go along with the Communist propaganda line to divert their captors' attention, Porter testified.

Wounded Machine-Gunned. Another witness, Chief Warrant Officer Ralph H. Krueger of Black River Falls, Wis., testified that the Chinese Reds machine-gunned ambulances and beat wounded prisoners of war. Krueger said he was wounded in the chest at the time of his capture Nov. 30, 1950. Early next morning he said the Chinese went through the prisoner camp, machine-gunning the ambulances. He did not say how many prisoners were killed.

Krueger, a master sergeant at the time, said he was on a truck so was not hit. Later, however, he was thrown to the ground and beaten with the butts of carbines until he lost consciousness.

As a result Krueger said he did not clearly remember the rest of the long march with other prisoners to camp No. 5 at Pyocotang.

He said he knew Erwin at Pyocotang as "a very fine officer."

Prosecution Rests in Court-Martial of Sergeant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—The prosecution today rested its case against Sgt. James C. Gallagher, 23 years old, of Brooklyn, accused of unpremeditated murder of three American soldiers in a Chinese Red prison camp in Korea.

A honeymooning former soldier, Stephen A. Rada of Branch Dale, Pa., was the last of 24 prosecution witnesses called during the 11 days of trial.

Rada, married last Saturday, was the sixth witness to say he saw Gallagher throw two sick prisoners out of a hut into frigid temperatures because he didn't want to hear their moans.

He identified them as Donald Thomas Baxter of Vaukon, Ia., and John William Jones of Detroit, both of whom were found frozen to death outside the hut. The defense was granted dismissal of one charge against Gallagher, which alleges that he signed a statement addressed to American troops in Korea telling them they were "fighting for a lost cause in a completely useless war." The prosecution admitted it "could not adequately prove the signature on the petition was that of the defendant."

Gallagher faces possible life imprisonment if convicted.

EAST GERMAN POPULATION DOWN A MILLION SINCE 1949

BONN, Aug. 11 (AP)—Communist East Germany's population has dropped more than 1,000,000 since 1949, the West German Institute for Economic Research said today.

The 1949 figure was 17,900,000. Now it is 16,850,000, the institute said, with women outnumbering men 2,200,000.

The main reason for the decline is the steady flight of East Germans to the West.

NEW POLIO CASE REPORTED

A new case of poliomyelitis was reported today by the St. Louis-St. Louis County Chapter National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

There have been 24 cases of the disease reported this year in the city and St. Louis county. The total at this time last year was 38.

EAST SIDE POLICE WILL QUESTION KOENIG'S MOTHER

She Says She Overheard
Talk at Funeral Son
Was Killed in the Red
Rooster Night Club.

Mrs. Lydia Osterwisch, widowed mother of J. Fred Koenig, murdered racing news service operator and former St. Louis politician, will be questioned by East St. Louis police today to determine whether she should be called before the St. Clair county grand jury in Belleville, which will investigate the Koenig killing.

Mrs. Osterwisch told the Post-Dispatch she overheard whispered conversations at her son's funeral which convinced her that Koenig was shot in the Red Rooster, a night club on Route 40 near Fairmount Race Track.

One person, she said, asked an associate: "I wonder where his mother is?" Mrs. Osterwisch said she was sitting directly in front of the man.

Heard Names Mentioned. Then, in snatches of conversation, she said, she heard the people back of her say that Koenig's purpose in going to the Red Rooster the night of June 20 was to see Elmer (Dutch) Dowling, a lieutenant of Frank (Buster) Wortman, notorious East Side hoodlum.

Koenig and his wife, Mrs. Grace Koenig, asked Gordon Foster, a relative of Wortman and operator of the Red Rooster, if Dowling was there. Mrs. Osterwisch overheard at the funeral, Koenig was told he was not there, but probably could be reached.

After a long wait, Mrs. Osterwisch did not learn how long, she said, Foster and his bartender went to Koenig's table and asked Koenig to go to the back room. He went into the room and the door closed behind him. He was never seen alive again by his wife.

Told of Son's Death. The first Mrs. Osterwisch knew that her son was dead, she said, was when two of his friends, Arthur Saffron of Overland, and John Kinney, a bartender, came to her flat and told her.

Mrs. Osterwisch said she might be able to identify the men she heard talking at the funeral if she saw them.

Carter said he will request East St. Louis police also to question Mrs. Koenig, who is in Firmin Desloge Hospital. She has been in the hospital since last Thursday and has been questioned there by Chief of Detectives James E. Chapman of St. Louis.

"We want to determine just how serious her condition is," Carter said, "before we call her before the grand jury."

Mrs. Koenig's physician said she is suffering from "severe nervousness." The grand jury will meet Monday in Belleville. Wortman is also under subpoena to appear.

Chapman, who received reports that East Side gangs have threatened Mrs. Koenig, saying they would harm her son, Fred Carl Koenig, 24-year-old first baseman with the Cardinal farm team at Columbus, Ga., has placed a guard at the hospital for her.

Koenig's body was found stuffed in the trunk of his Cadillac on College avenue, East St. Louis. He had been shot in the chest and head.

REPORT PREDICTS DECLINE OF SMALL LUMBER MILLS

An increased demand for lumber from Arkansas and Mississippi and a decrease in the importance to the industry of small lumber mills was forecast yesterday in the Monthly Review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

Large mills have developed processes for removing the bark from logs to produce a cleaned sawdust for paper and pulp production, the review said. This reduction of waste gives large mills an advantage over the small, portable sawmills, it was said.

Experiments in processing logs are resulting in lower production costs of many wood-pulp articles. This, coupled with greater forest productivity, will eventually give the Southern lumber industry an advantage over Western concerns, which soon will have to depend on second growth timber as their source of supply.

FOREIGN LEGION HEADGEAR SOUGHT BY MISSOURI BOY

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Aug. 11 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Frederic E. Glantzberg, commanding the United States Seventeenth Air Force in French Morocco, had a problem. He passed it to the headquarters of the French Foreign Legion in Sidi bel Abbas. The Legion still is working on it.

It started when 12-year-old Matthew J. Johnson of Jackson, Mo., wrote the general: "My dad was an officer in the Army in North Africa. He told me of the caps with a white handkerchief that the Legionnaires wear were to keep off the sun. I have seen Capt. Gallant wear the same cap on television. Could I have one?"

The problem at Sidi bel Abbas is one of size. There are no 12-year-olds in the Foreign Legion.

Red China Calls for Talks To Settle Korean Question

Says It Is Seriously Concerned Over Demands That Neutral Nations Group Leave Country.

LONDON, Aug. 11 (UP)—Red China's Foreign Ministry called today for a Far Eastern conference "to seek peaceful settlement of the Korean question." A New China News Agency broadcast said Communist China was seriously concerned over demands of the Republic of Korea that the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission leave the country.

Peiping radio broadcast a statement from Red China's Foreign Ministry calling the demonstrations "a serious action aimed at outright destruction of the Korean armistice." It said the United States bore the "unshirkable responsibility" of protecting the teams.

"The countries concerned should not stand idly by," the Red broadcast said. In Washington, the State Department refused to comment on the proposal pending further details and analysis. Spokesman Lincoln White said the department had only sketchy news reports on the Red Chinese proposal and therefore could not discuss it.

Department officials also were waiting to hear whether Red China has passed the proposal along to Britain, which handles matters between the United States and Red China because those two nations do not have diplomatic relations.

Officials said privately that United States acceptance of the Chinese Communist proposal probably will depend upon whether the Communists indicate they are willing to make some concessions. Such an indication could be made privately through diplomatic channels.

DANGER REPORTED GROWING AT PUSAN

SEOUL, Friday, Aug. 12 (AP)—South Korea's campaign against Communist truce teams took on a dangerous look in Pusan today as United States soldiers were reported placing machine guns around the compound of truce inspection teams. Milling Koreans were said to be gathering with clubs and gas masks in the southeast port, one of several Korean cities where riotous demonstrations have occurred since last Saturday.

A high Swedish official said in Panmunjom the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission's teams would not leave under pressure. South Korea, accusing Communist Polish and Czech truce inspectors of lying, has told the teams to get out by Saturday.

The continuation of the Korean Government's campaign only strengthens our determination to stay on the job until the United Nations tells us differently," the Swede said. He declined to be identified.

Lennitzer Sees Rhee.

Gen. Lyman L. Lennitzer, United States and U.N. commander in the Far East, conferred with South Korea's President Syngman Rhee about the series of riots and demonstrations which erupted last Saturday. Details of their discussions were not disclosed.

South Korea's official spokesman tonight blamed American troops for the violence. "It was all due to the outrageous use of weapons by the U. S. military forces," said Dr. Hong Kee Karl.

Karl made it plain he was replying to an appeal by U. S. Secretary of State Dulles for no violence. "We desire to make it clear to the Secretary of State and all others that Korea has never used force or indicated any such intention against the N.N.S.C.," Karl said.

"It is the United States which has used military force, including armored cars and chemical weapons in war array against civilian groups demonstrating in peaceful and orderly manner their public feelings by demanding the withdrawal of the Communist spies of the N.N.S.C."

Crowds were still milling around at the five ports of entry throughout South Korea where the truce inspectors are stationed. But most of the demonstrations consisted of shouting and waving banners.

A United States Eighth Army spokesman reported "all quiet everywhere."

However, the United Press, quoting "fragmentary reports" from Pusan, said 600 South Korean demonstrators tried today to storm the gates of the United States Army's Hialeah compound there but were driven back. There were no reports of casualties.

Demonstrators, once numbered in the thousands, had dropped off to 200 at Incheon, Kusan and Taegu, and 100 at Kangnung.

The government again today cautioned against violence.

In five days of riots, 22 American soldiers and 80 Koreans have been injured, none seriously.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

ANDOVER, O., Aug. 11 (AP)—Twenty-one persons were killed and 18 injured when an explosion and resulting fire swept through a row of buildings on the village square last night. Many of the victims had sought refuge from a thunderstorm.

The explosion—believed by firemen to have been that of accumulated gas, set off by lightning or a spark from electrical equipment in the basement—demolished the Gateway Restaurant in this Pymatuning Lake resort area village on the Pennsylvania border at about 7 o'clock.

The restaurant and a dairy store were in a two-story frame building, which was destroyed. The blast, which shook the whole town of 1200 population, ripped up a section of Main street and wrecked several automobiles in a shower of debris.

Fire following the explosion spread to other buildings housing offices of the Ohio Edison Co., an insurance firm, a shoe shop, market and barber shop.

Firemen from 20 towns help. The fire was brought under control in four hours with the aid of firemen from 20 nearby Ohio and Pennsylvania towns.

Through the sodden ashes and debris the squads of firemen worked in a drizzle until 5 a.m., today. Then they stopped for rest and food.

At 2 a.m., they had pulled the seventeenth body from under the sagging and blackened timbers which had fallen into the restaurant cellar. After that, they had been able to recover only portions of bodies.

The firemen and volunteers worked with searchlights and emergency generators, because the storm had knocked out power lines and telephone communications.

When they resumed their digging in daylight, additional bodies were found.

At that point six bodies had been definitely identified, and four others tentatively. Many of the bodies were burned.

They were taken to a makeshift morgue set up three blocks from the scene. Ashtabula county deputy coroner H. K. Lynne said it may take days to identify all of them.

The task of learning the victim's names was complicated by the fact this village is on Route 6, used by tourists headed for Lake Erie as well as Lake Pymatuning. Some of them may have been eating in the restaurant at the time of the explosion.

Family of 4 Identified.

A Pittsburgh family of four was among those definitely identified. They were Mr. and Mrs. George Schroeder, their 2-year-old son George Jr., and Mrs. Schroeder's father, Thomas Kennel, 45. The latter's wife was in a hospital in Ashtabula.

Sixteen-year-old twins who had been working as waitresses also were identified. They were Arlene and Darlene Cutlip of Andover.

Sheriff Tom Fasula said he thought sewer gas, backed up by clogged drains, might have caused the blast.

A Cleveland policeman, Elmer Bumblis, was driving past the restaurant at the time of the explosion and gave this description:

"The walls blew out and the roof fell in. There were arms and legs sticking out of the wreckage all over the building."

Frank Lacky, a Massillon (O.) truck driver, was eating in the restaurant when it exploded.

"Suddenly the restaurant was gone," he recalled later at Ashtabula hospital where he was taken for treatment of his injuries. "It just blew up. The next thing I knew I was lying in the grass."

In a building adjoining the restaurant, Fay Letwiler was knocked to the floor by the explosion as he sat in his apartment. Overcome by smoke, he was carried down a ladder by firemen and later told reporters that "I heard a tremendous explosion and saw a big ball of fire. Smoke poured in the window and then I blacked out."

An Andover furniture salesman, Charles Dotz, was waiting across the street from the restaurant for his wife, who had just finished eating there.

His wife, Dolores, was standing in the doorway, waiting for a break in the rain.

Then, Dotz said, "The roof buckled and the walls blew out. I saw her. She was sitting there. Just sitting there, right in the middle of Main street."

Dotz drove his wife to a doctor's office where it was found she suffered only minor injuries. There was no official estimate of property damage, but it was expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Traffic was snarled through much of the night by the effects of the explosion and hordes of curious motorists who drove to see the fire.

DIPLOMATS IN HOT WATER

BONN, Aug. 11 (UP)—The Foreign Office reported today that umbrella manufacturers were up in arms over a photograph of Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and State Secretary Walter Hallstein shown carrying women's umbrellas in the rain.

In a letter to the Foreign Office, the president of the Umbrella Manufacturers Association said "well-trodden men's umbrellas are the real hallmark of diplomats."

WOMAN SAYS PET SNAKE RODE WITH HER ON BUSESSES

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Mrs. Stella Ling told a suburban magistrate's court yesterday her pet snake "Screwball" was so tame she rode in buses and subways with it coiled around her waist. She was appearing against her neighbor, David Frampton, accused of "maliciously killing" the 4½-foot constrictor.

Frampton testified he didn't have the slightest idea the snake was a pet of Mrs. Ling's. He said he killed it with a stick after it reared and hissed at him in the garden.

"Case dismissed," said the magistrate, Mrs. S. G. Hawkey. "The bench feels there is a considerable doubt as to any malicious intent."

U.S. QUERY PUT OFF BY LANDY'S MOTHER

She First Wants to Clear Up Denial of Naval Commission to Son.

BRADLEY BEACH, N.J., Aug. 11 (AP) — Mrs. Deborah Landy says she has been contacted by the House un-American Activities Committee but that she declined to give any information about communism because she wants first to clear up her son's case.

She is the mother of 21-year-old Eugene Landy, the honor merchant marine academy graduate who was denied a naval reserve commission, reportedly on security grounds because his mother had been a Communist. Landy's case is being reviewed by the Navy.

At her home here last night, Mrs. Landy said she received a telephone call earlier from a woman investigator for the committee who identified herself as Mrs. Dolores Scott.

Said Mrs. Landy, who has acknowledged she was a Communist party member during World War II:

"This young woman wants to find out if I have any information of value. I told her 'No' but she wants to see me personally."

"She probably wants to know who recruited me or something like that," or about dues or activities. I told her there was no conspiracy, no activities that would interest her."

Eventually, Mrs. Landy went on, she probably will talk to the investigator but what comes first is clearing up the case of her son's commission.

BOSS LEAVES GUN IN OFFICE, WOMAN THWARTS HOLDUP

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 11 (AP) — A woman secretary thwarted a holdup yesterday—because her huntsman boss had left a shotgun in the office.

Mrs. Adlee E. Craddock, 23 years old, was working in the mezzanine office of an appliance firm when she heard a voice below say, "This is a stick-up. Come on down with your hands up."

Mrs. Craddock obeyed—but not before reaching for the shotgun and waving it at the men. The intruders, who apparently had no weapon, fled.

AFL TURNS DOWN SOVIET INVITATION TO SEND VISITORS

Tour by Trade Union Group Would Play Into Hands of Dictatorship, Council Says.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 — The American Federation of Labor has rejected a proposal that it send a trade union delegation to Russia. It took the position that such a visit would be used to serve the interests of the Soviet dictatorship.

The action was taken yesterday by the executive council of the AFL. A recent open letter in the Communist Daily Worker suggested that trade union delegations from this country go to Russia, China and other Eastern lands.

The letter, addressed to George Meany, president of the AFL and Walter P. Reuther, head of the CIO, stated that Nicolai M. Shvernik, chairman of the All-Union Central Council of Soviet Trade Unions, had issued a standing invitation for such trips.

AFL Cites 'Slave Labor.'

In turning down the Russian proposal, the AFL executive council issued a statement, pointing out that the Soviet Union has "slave labor" and recalling that the AFL did not find it necessary in the past to visit other totalitarian countries to learn the desires of Hitler, Mussolini and Franco.

The council stated, in part: "Mirroring and supporting the newest Kremlin line of good manners and softer tones, the Communists in the United Nations have begun a drive for authoritative American trade union delegations visiting Russia. This is to be followed with a campaign for so-called trade union delegations from Soviet Russia and other Iron Curtain countries visiting the United States as guests of our free trade union movement."

"The executive council of the AFL vigorously rejects all such invitations. They stem from Moscow to serve the interests of the Soviet dictatorship at home and abroad. A visit by an authoritative American trade union delegation to the U.S.S.R. would not bring the peoples of Russia and America closer."

Would Play Into Hands.

"Such a visit would only play into the hands of the totalitarian dictatorship which, regardless of its apologies at Belgrade and smiles at Geneva, denies its own people all fundamental human rights. This regime cynically denies its working people the right of freedom of association and organization, the right to strike and the right of genuine collective bargaining enjoyed by the workers of all free countries."

"The Kremlin hierarchy and its agents in the United States would have us believe that they are anxious for American labor to learn all about the actual conditions in the Soviet 'paradise.' We take note of their professed anxiety. We of American labor have not forgotten that the Soviet government refused to co-operate with the International Labor Organization and the ad hoc committee of the U.N. Economic and Social Council, headed by the distinguished Indian Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, in its recent survey of the menace of mass slave labor spreading from the U.S.S.R."

"Furthermore, though the Soviet government is now in the I.L.O., it still refuses to help this U.N. agency learn the extent of slave labor and devise methods of eliminating it. To date, the Soviet government has not seen fit to answer the questionnaire sent it by the U.N. agency, let alone permit its commission of trained investigators and experts to visit the U.S.S.R. and look into its extensive forced labor system."

Moscow's Real Reason.

"Moscow's real reason for having a representative American trade union delegation visit the U.S.S.R. is to lend a cover of genuineness and international free trade union respectability to the Soviet state company unions."

"We of the AFL are not going to be thus used and exploited by the Communist or by any other dictatorship. When the Nazis grabbed power in Germany and destroyed its trade unions and all other democratic institutions, we of the AFL refused to send good-will or study missions to that country."

"No American, or any other free trade union organization, ever sent such a mission to Fascist Italy or Falangist Spain."

"To have sent such missions to any of these dictatorships would have provided a cover of moral respectability and human decency to their totalitarian tyrants. To have sent such labor missions would have been a cruel insult and crushing blow to the victims of these dictatorships. It would have destroyed the hope of these victims for liberty. It would have shattered their faith in international labor solidarity and in the forces of freedom everywhere."

FILM TARZAN BREAKS FOOT ON LOCATION IN EAST AFRICA

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11 (AP) — Even Tarzan can get hurt. From Africa, where "Tarzan and the Lost Safari" is being filmed, came a cablegram to the home studio yesterday advising that star Gordon Scott had broken his foot and cannot work for a while. It happened at Thompson Falls in Kenya, British East Africa, but the cable did not say how.

Scott, the eleventh film Tarzan and successor to Lex Barker, is working in his second Tarzan film.

150 COLORADO FAMILIES FORCED OFF FARMS BY FLOOD

BRUSH, Colo., Aug. 11 (AP)—Floodwaters fed by the heaviest rainfall in this northeast Colorado area in 20 years forced at least 150 farm families from their homes today. One woman was reported to have been drowned.

The floodwaters swirled along a three-mile path south and east of Brush after a cloudburst dumped up to four inches of rain and hail on prairie grass-land south of here.

Another cloudburst, described as the worst since 1921, hit a mountain resort southwest of Colorado Springs yesterday, temporarily stranding about 300 tourists and causing damage estimated in thousands of dollars.

How to keep nylon white and get old nylon white, too!

Almost every woman has a nylon slip or blouse she doesn't wear because it looks "dingy." As you know, grayed or yellowed nylon is one of today's most vexing laundry problems. Somehow, it just never seems to come clean.

Now, however, there's a product that solves the problem of nylon that's too dingy to wear but too good to throw away. It's not a bleach, not a bluing. It's not something you have to buy extra. It's a family wash detergent—new Sun Surf—with a scientific whitener that gets its power from the ultraviolet rays found in sunlight. It gets everything clean, yet it's safe for the sheers of your hands. (It's kind to your fabrics, too!) And it works!

whether you dry your clothes indoors or out!

But the real wonder of this new Sun Surf is the way it makes old nylon look bright again! It may not happen the very first time you wash it. (Remember, it took months to get that way.) But after several washes you'll see that dingy nylon getting whiter and whiter. You'll be proud to wear it again.

The plain fact is that no other detergent can get all your wash—nylon-rayon-cotton—as white and clean as new Sun Surf with the ultraviolet whitener. And you've got to agree or we'll return every cent you paid, plus postage. Better put new Sun Surf on your shopping list right now! Lever Brothers, New York 22, New York.

LIFE REPORTED FOR ARGENTINE REVOLT LEADER

Adm. Toranzo Sentenced—Former Navy Minister Gets 18 Months.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 11 (AP)—Qualified informants said today R. Adm. Samuel Toranzo Calderon, accused of masterminding the June 16 revolt, has been sentenced to life imprisonment.

Federal prosecutors had asked that he be sentenced to die before a firing squad.

R. Adm. Anibal Oliveri, the navy minister at the time of the crushed revolt, drew an 18-month prison sentence, the informants said. The sentences were reported handed down by the Supreme Military Council as it acted against 56 men accused of plotting the rebellion against President Peron, in which hundreds died.

Six other naval officers also got life terms and the life sentences carry with them the brand of "public degradation," the informants said. By this account 25 other officers got terms of from two to three years; two non-commissioned officers and two air officers got "minor" (probably less than two-year) terms. Nineteen other defendants were acquitted, but probably will be retired, the informants said. The sentences are subject to Peron's approval.

The Chamber of Deputies rejected last night an opposition request that it investigate whether warships of a "big foreign power" trailed the Argentine fleet in recent Atlantic maneuvers.

The request was made last week by Radical party Congressmen Oscar Alende in a bill to Congress. Alende didn't name the power, but Congressional circles said he meant the United States. Both British and American spokesmen denied their navy's ships were in the south Atlantic during the Argentine maneuvers.

On the religious front, a Congressional committee last night approved a Peronist bill to delay until next spring the Constitutional Assembly Congress voted previously to end Roman Catholicism's favored position as the state church. The full congress presumably will enact the bill.

MAGSAYSAY WINS PARLIAMENT AND PARTY SUPPORT

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 11 (UP)—President Ramon Magsaysay gained a double-barreled victory last night in his struggle for complete political leadership of the Philippines.

The President won the full support of the Nacionalista party for his foreign policy in a dispute with Senator Claro M. Recto. The party's executive committee voted its full support of Magsaysay's policy, especially to the maintenance of friendly Philippine-United States relations.

Magsaysay also scored a victory in Parliament where a special session called by the President passed a land reform bill he favored. The bill will allow Magsaysay to break up large estates and distribute the land among tenant farmers. He may expropriate the lands if necessary.

Stevenson Promises His Decision In November, Scoffs at Rumor He Fears Race Against Eisenhower

Thinks Geneva Conference Helped Correct
'Unhappy Impressions of Threats, Reprisals, Agonizing Reappraisals' Created by Administration, He Says.

By CHARLES B. CLEVELAND

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch Copyright 1955.
CHICAGO, Nov. 11.

FORMER Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois says he will announce in November his decision about running for President. Most observers are convinced he will make the try.

Last night at a get-together with reporters here to cover the forty-seventh annual Governors' conference, Stevenson spread on the record his current political views.

The probable event at which Stevenson will announce his availability for the presidency is a proposed $100-a-plate dinner in Chicago in connection with a meeting of the Democratic National Committee.

Here is a verbatim report of the questions and answers at the interview. Included is a frank statement on his "hesitation" in 1952, his evaluation of the current political scene and his opinions on 1956.

Reveal Basic Beliefs.
The answers reveal many of Stevenson's basic political beliefs as of now. His replies also probably are hints as to his campaign issues next year.

In the audience were more than 50 of the nation's top political reporters. The questions are theirs.

Q. What are your political plans?
A. I have been reading that some of you say on the one hand that I am coy and indecisive, and on the other that I am eager and ambitious. I have even seen that I could not make up my mind in 1952 and that the same situation prevails now as then.

In 1952 I was an announced candidate for Governor of Illinois. I was nominated in the primary of that year. It is obvious that one can't run for two offices at the same time. It was impossible at any time prior to the convention of 1952 for me to be a candidate for President as I was already a candidate for Governor of Illinois.

I should have thought that if there were any ethics in politics, they might begin here. You don't ask people to advance you in two positions at the same time.

So much for the so-called indecision of 1952. Now for the present situation.
'By the End of November.'
I have been listening for more than a year to what the Democrats have been saying across the country. During the Congressional campaign in 1954 and in June of that year I traveled from coast to coast, from the Pacific Northwest to the Atlantic coast.

Subsequently, I have been in Chicago. Many people have come to see me here. I shall tell you what I am going to do by the end of November, possibly before.

I have been told or read in the press that one of the reasons for my so-called hesitation is that I am afraid to run against President Eisenhower in 1952.

I don't think, on sober reflection, that any of you will seriously feel that it is of any consideration. I can assure you that it is not.

You run for President because you believe in your party and you believe in your convictions and have strong feelings about national affairs—if you run at all—not because your opponent is weak or because he is strong or because the press is favorable or unfavorable.

I will do what I think is best for my party and not what I think is necessarily best for me.

Ideas Controlling Factor.
But ideas—rather than individuals—I think, should be the controlling factor.

I think it more and more important for the Democratic party, which controls Congress, to win control of the Executive Department in order to restore some firm consistency to our foreign policy and paramount concern for ordinary people to our domestic scene.

I think I have covered here about everything you can ask me about my own personal political plans.

Q. Several Democratic governors have urged you to come out earlier. Would you give us your reasons for delaying your statement?
A.—A great many governors have also suggested that we do not indicate our intentions until somewhat later. You can get opinions on both sides.

Q.—Why do you delay your decision until this late date?
A.—Maybe I am trying to find out what a lot of people think.

Q.—Do you think you have adequate support to win the nomination?
A.—There is a great deal of inquiry I want to make and that is what I am in the process of doing.

Q.—Is there any doubt that you will run for the Democratic nomination?
A.—You will have to wait until I have something conclusive to say about it. That will be in November.

Q.—Does the November date have anything to do with reconvening of Congress?
A.—Possibly.

Q.—Does Mr. Stevenson think that the Democrats are stronger?
A.—Do you think you can do better against Eisenhower than last time?

A.—I think anyone could. I think the Democrats are stronger this time than last time.

Q.—If you decide to run in November, I presume you will make a statement setting forth your position on foreign and domestic policies—Is that intended to be a guide for Congress in the next session?
A.—I am afraid that anticipates what I would say, a little beyond what I foresee myself.

Q.—Does this mean your mind is made up and you will tell the people in November?
A.—I am not prepared to tell you.

Q.—Does the question of a draft enter into it?
A.—Not at all.

Q.—Is there anyone who is aware of what your intentions are?
A.—I don't think I can answer that. I don't believe so.

Q.—Does Gov. Harriman of New York know what your intentions are?
A.—(Stevenson conferred for more than three hours Tuesday night with Gov. Harriman, a widely discussed possible candidate for the 1956 nomination.)

A.—I think Gov. Harriman understands what my thinking is, just as I understand his.

Views on Administration.
Q.—What are your views with respect to the performance of the Republican Administration?
A.—I have been asked so much about what my views are on the Administration's conduct on the foreign policy. After almost three years of "get tough" talk, many people in the world, including some of our friends and some of the uncommitted peoples, have come to the conclusion that the Eisenhower Administration is more of a threat to peace than the Russians.

Then our President went to Geneva. There he sharply reversed this trend of the last three years.

I personally hope—and believe—that what was done there was for the best. At least an atmosphere has been created now in which we can negotiate.

On the whole I think Geneva did much to correct the unhappy impressions of threats, reprisals, agonizing reappraisals, etc. But I think it would be very foolish to think that the cold war was ended by that sudden, sharp reversal and that all will now be hearts and flowers.

Consistency the Great Need.
I don't believe we can relax because that is precisely what the Russians want us to do. The great need now in my judgment is consistency in America's position.

I hope that the conflict is now ended among the foreign policies of the President, the Secretary of State and the Republican leader in the Senate (Senator Knowland of California).

I might say that the present lines have been changed very abruptly and, who knows when the broken wing of the Republican party might start flapping any time.

It was not the President but the Democrats that broke that wing in Congress.

What Geneva represents, basically, is a shift in the balance of power in favor of the West as a result of the bold and vigorous policies initiated by President Truman.

I think we will be better able to appraise Geneva and its effect after the meeting of the foreign ministers, when we will come to grips with the real problems.

I would like to add one other word about the meeting at the summit.

Eisenhower and Zhukov.
I, for one, had never expected to hear an American President plead with a third-string Communist to please believe that the United States wanted peace.

(The "third-string Communist" was identified by Stevenson as the Russian Defense Minister, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, fellow soldier with Mr. Eisenhower in World War II.)

Q.—As a possible candidate for President in 1956 would you find it possible in your own mind to debate with and compete against and criticize the Eisenhower Administration's foreign policy, which is largely the Democratic policy?
A.—I just got through saying...

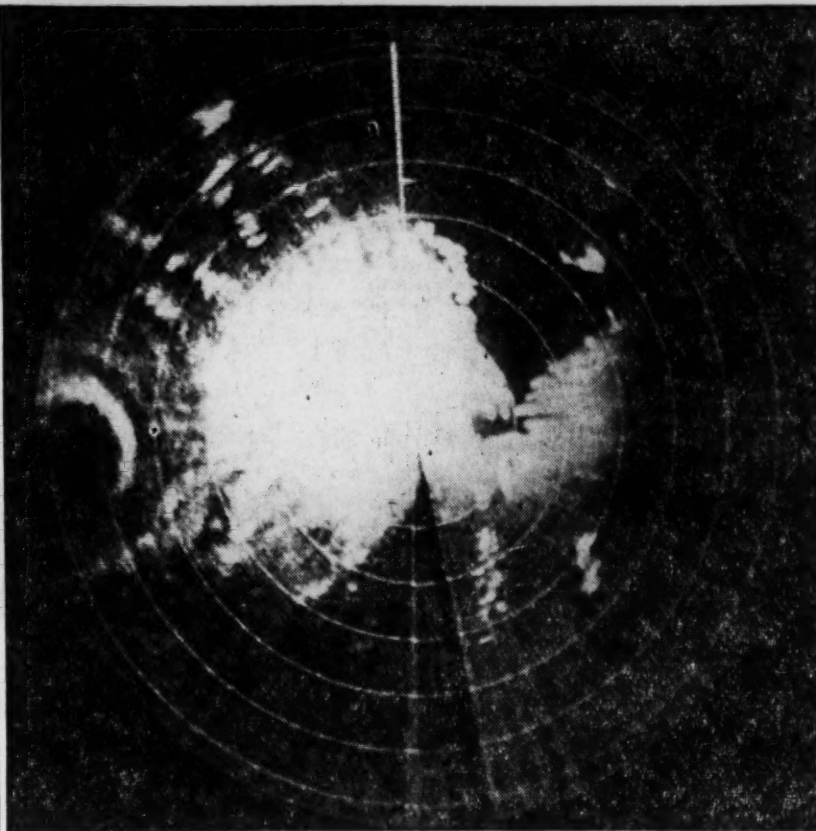

Q.—In 1956 if you are a candidate will there be no foreign policy issue?
A.—In the past three years I have been discussing and talking about the foreign policy. I think the greatest need is for consistency.

(There was some discussion here about President Eisenhower's proposals for exchange of "blueprints" and aerial reconnaissance of military installations, etc.)

Action vs. Words.
Q.—What do you think of the Administration's domestic program?
A.—There seems to be agreement between the Eisenhower Administration and the Democrats in Congress on the need for federal programs in education, housing, health, highways. I could add even on the proper

PEARSON

G.O.P. Zeal to Run Eisenhower Again Recalls 1944 F.D.R. Drive

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright 1955.)

WASHINGTON.

WHAT IS HAPPENING inside the Republican high command is almost identical with what happened inside the Democratic high command in 1944—with one important exception. Like the Democratic bosses of a decade ago with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Republican leaders today are determined to nominate Dwight D. Eisenhower again, regardless of age, health, or anything else.

In 1944, Roosevelt was engrossed with world affairs. The war was almost won. He was already concentrating on the problems of peace. Domestic affairs had been largely delegated to others. Some of them were not in good shape. Democratic leaders knew that if they picked any other candidate, that if the election campaign were run on domestic issues, they would lose.

So a careful publicity campaign began not only to make President Roosevelt the indispensable man but to conceal from the public the true facts about his health.

In July, 1944, as the Democrats gathered in Chicago to pick their candidate, Roosevelt started on a cruise up the West Coast to Alaska—obviously for his health.

Simultaneously, Bob Hannegan, Ed Flynn of the Bronx, Mayor Ed Kelley of Chicago, and other party bosses, knowing that Roosevelt could not possibly last a full term, concentrated on putting in their own man for Vice President.

G.O.P. Leaders Determined.
Today Republican leaders are equally determined to nominate Dwight D. Eisenhower, in part for the same reasons. They know that any other Republican candidate would have a hard time winning. They know that on domestic issues—Dixon-Yates, farm prices, big business monopoly—the Republicans face a rough campaign; but on international issues they feel Mr. Eisenhower has struck a winning streak and can be promoted as the "indispensable man."

There is one big difference: President Eisenhower has not, so far, bought the G.O.P. line.

Unlike Roosevelt, who was willing to go along with party leaders, Mr. Eisenhower has been telling them for months that they had to pick new young leaders, that he was not going to run again.

The recent meeting he had with Senator George Bender and other Ohio Republicans was more significant than the public realizes. Senator Bender and friends did not want to tell newsmen what the President had told them. Bender is a friendly, loquacious fellow, he talks to the press at the drop of a hat, but he did not want to give the discouraging news that President Eisenhower considered age an argument against running again. In brief, the President deliberately emphasized the fact that he would be the oldest President in history if re-elected and he felt that the burden of the presidency erodes a man's health.

Mr. Eisenhower's frankness coincides with sentiment in Congress to set up a medical board to examine all presidential candidates of both parties before the nominations.

Case of Willkie, Others.
The fact that Senator Taft, Republican, died shortly after an election which might have made him President, that Wendell Willkie, Republican, died shortly after a nominating convention which might have picked him for a second time, and the fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democrat, died just four months increased, the life span of Presidents has decreased under the burden of office. More than one-fifth of our Presidents have died or been killed in office—seven in all. The significant fact is that they have been dying younger.

Only three other Presidents were as old as Mr. Eisenhower was when he was elected. One, William Henry Harrison, lived one month after being elected. The other, Zachary Taylor, lived little more than a year as President.

Taking the ages of the 33 past Presidents, 60 per cent of them lived to the age of 66, which will be Mr. Eisenhower's age at the end of his first term.

Of the last 22 Presidents, only 50 per cent have lived to the age of 66, while, of the last 15 Presidents, only 46 per cent have lived to the age Mr. Eisenhower will have reached at the end of his first term.

These are the sobering facts Mr. Eisenhower has been considering.

Harriman Rise Puts Pressure On Stevenson

1952 Candidate
Wants More Time to Announce His Intentions.

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst.

FOUR and five years ago the annual Governors' conferences were full of talk about Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower. This year it's Averell Harriman and Adlai Stevenson.

The search is for trends in the Democratic party. So far, the Republicans seem to be considering no possible alternative to Mr. Eisenhower.

Stevenson up to now has had the Democratic field mostly to himself, but suddenly Averell Harriman is moving up, and many of those in Chicago are considering him an actual candidate.

Recognition of this situation has produced pressure by Harriman supporters for an early announcement by Stevenson. He has wanted to take a few more months to see how things are working.

Harriman is still sticking to his public line that he's for Stevenson, but gives indications of wanting to be in on it if a horse race develops.

Both Harriman and Stevenson know that, as of now, Mr. Eisenhower is the leading candidate for the presidency, and that opposing him may be a thankless task. Both express the thought, however, that a properly handled Democratic campaign, based primarily on party differences over social philosophies, would have a chance.

The conference has served as the occasion to emphasize that the Democrats still have a party cleavage comparable to the Republican cleavage between the Eisenhower wing and the Old Guard, The States' Rights, considering Stevenson a representative of the majority which attacked them in the 1952 convention on the loyalty oath issue have stayed away from him.

FLEESON Americans in Morocco Hardly Touched by Present Turmoil

20,000 U.S. Citizens in Area Have Obeyed Firm Instructions to Stay Away From Scenes of Excitement.

By DORIS FLEESON

NOUASSEUR, Morocco.

AMERICANS are the innocent bystanders in the present Moroccan turmoil but, contrary to the usual fate of those east in that role, they have hardly been touched.

The American stake in French Morocco is four strategic air bases, fruit of long and costly United States planning for sure means to punish Soviet aggression. From them, the Soviet Union could be reached with nuclear bombs in a matter of minutes.

Twenty thousand Americans are in this area, mostly service men and their families. But since Congress has been slow to furnish money for dependent housing at the bases themselves, most of the families live in or close to cities. It is estimated that there are 3000 in Casablanca.

Firm instructions have been given them by all United States commanders to get out and stay out of native quarters, to avoid crowds and scenes of excitement. So well have these orders been carried out, the only United States damage so far has been to a few American automobiles.

French Army Loyal.
The French military believe that the French army, unlike the city police, is completely loyal to the new President, General, Grandval, and that he has enough soldiers here to prevent serious deterioration of the situation. The Americans can easily defend their own bases and they have, of course, made prudent plans for bringing all Americans on base and even evacuating dependents, if necessary.

So far only a few families have asked to come on base and departures are on regular schedule. Still there is uneasiness, and it is chiefly because of lack of information about what is going on from day to day.

The French have been difficult from the very beginning about United States news and radio facilities, wanting to maintain their own tight commercial control of the protectorate. Needing an American offer to deliver a squadron of new jet fighters to the Danish Air Force. The officer has been suspended and will be tried soon.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Sanctuary for Rats

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

One wonders if the reluctance of Mayor Tucker's Health Commissioner, Dr. J. Earl Smith, to enforce the city's ordinance against rats, might well earn our guardian of public health the title of "The Pied Piper in Reverse." The good doctor seems to believe in a natural displacement rather than a forceful extermination of one of our chief disease carriers.

Dr. Smith, with the legal backing of the city council's office, states that it is unfair for those persons now holding title to slum property currently up for clearance to be put to the expense of rat-proofing the properties. And by such logic it is safe to assume that Dr. Smith believes the rats will leave the area by their own volition come the wreckers and excavators.

It follows that these dispossessed creatures, after having been forcefully ejected from their homes, will quickly migrate to other areas of our city for their housing. Obviously Dr. Smith is under the impression that other residents and property owners in adjoining neighborhoods will welcome the horde of displaced rodents with joy, and will be only too glad at the chance of displaying their civic pride by then going to the expense of exterminating them.

Dr. Smith is playing a tune so novel in the history of public health and sanitation that one is shocked into imagining that perhaps the rats have courted his office for protection.

Selling America Short

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Will someone please tell me why it is all wrong for stocks which we small stockholders buy to advance in price?

Immediately Congressmen, Senators and the Federal Reserve jump in and raise interest rates and force the price down. I bought 200 shares of stock (gilt-edge) at 33; today they are selling at 26.

I have a loss of $1400 in my investment and my government is happy because it is stopping inflation.

I bought America on the bull side while my government is selling America short on the bear side. Will someone please tell me why?

BEWILDERED AMERICAN.

Ascending to a Critic's Level

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Rising to the defense of Myles Standish, I would like to point out to "G.H.S." that the function of a dramatic critic is not necessarily to please with his reviews. A critic is paid to criticize, and the fact that his tastes are not identical with those of his readers does not justify a condemnation of the critic's opinion.

A critic looks for things other than mere enjoyment in a dramatic work: scope, form, structure, dialogue, acting, music. If any part is inferior or distorts the production as a whole, the critic is duty-bound to point it out. Mr. Standish has done so. The fact remains that "Allegro" is a true show.

Or is it that the Municipal Opera is so sacred an institution in St. Louis that one may not criticize an inferior work, no matter how presented, without debasing himself?

Disagreement with Mr. Standish is our prerogative. Silencing him never! Instead of reducing Standish to our level, let us attempt to sharpen our own critical sensibilities and ascend to his.

RICHARD M. HESSE.

Unappealing Attire

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

St. Louis has an approximate population of 900,000 people. Individuals and you featured an Associate Prosecuting Attorney on the front page labeled "Appealing Office Attire."

Does he proposed to work in that getup or model the latest fad with our tax money?

Can prosecutors be prosecuted? That I doubt!

L.G.K.

Bungling on Polio

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Massachusetts has a full-fledged polio epidemic. Here in Missouri, although the incidence of polio is behind that of last year, the number of new cases is not comforting.

In general, only one shot of Salk vaccine has been given here, and that to relatively few children. As far as we poor members of the public can see from what the government tells us, the only reason the Salk program was stopped is because of the bad vaccine made by the Cutter laboratory.

Is this matter an important one or not? Is this a case of flagrant withholding of information, bungling, delay and stupidity, or is it not? Is there a parent in this country who, without evidence to the contrary, doesn't think his child should have had this protection which should have been available last March?

And are any of these parents numbered among the 79 per cent who the Gallup poll claims feel that Eisenhower and his Administration are doing a fine job?

Clayton. WARREN F. MILLIS.

Tax Suggestion

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I believe I have a simple solution for collecting money for schools. Instead of putting more taxes on cigarettes, why not tax baby products?

In this way, single people and childless couples will not be further burdened by helping to raise other people's tax exemptions.

BERNICE De ROSE.

Polluters of Our River

A grave indictment of the local industrial community is made in the Bi-State Development Agency's study of pollution of the Mississippi river in the St. Louis area.

Three-fourths of the pollution is caused by industrial wastes, the agency found in a two-year study. Most of these wastes, and most domestic sewage as well, are discharged into the river without any sanitary treatment, according to the report submitted to Gov. Donnelly of Missouri and Gov. Stratton of Illinois.

Some of the St. Louis area industries are providing facilities to reduce their waste loads, and the Bi-State Agency specifically mentions the oil refineries at Wood River, Ill. The refineries still have a good way to go, however, for the taste and odor of the affected water continue to be a problem for the water utility serving nine municipalities in St. Clair and Madison counties in Illinois.

Industries which maintain a benighted indifference toward water pollution in this modern Water Age are literally fouling their own nests and those of the industrial community.

Modern industrial plants require staggering quantities of water—for cooling, washing, grading, moving and flushing. Nearly every technological advance calls for the use of purer water supplies. High-grade water must be used in high-pressure boilers and in the processed foods, beverage and synthetic industries.

It takes 40,000 gallons of water to produce a single ton of wood pulp, 65,000 gallons to make a ton of steel, 100,000 gallons to manufacture an automobile. "The thirst of our industries," says the United States Geological Survey, "has been intense. With the recent upsurge of chemical-synthetic processes, the thirst has become all but insatiable."

Industry therefore would be well advised to join the Bi-State Agency in urging the Missouri Legislature to enact a law similar to an Illinois statute which gives the state authority to enforce regulations controlling industrial and municipal discharges into streams.

The Missouri Conservation Commission needs more readily enforceable laws to clean up many other rivers in Missouri besides the Mississippi. And it will not be long before St. Louis will be compelled to face squarely the problem of its sewage disposal.

For as Mark D. Hollis, Assistant Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, says: "The streams simply can no longer take the load of pollution we are putting on them." And St. Louis must live with its river.

Legal But Weak

In a rather odd 2-to-1 decision the United States Court of Appeals here ruled it is no violation of the Internal Revenue Code to add water to a bottle of whisky since water is not taxable. The judges added, however, that it would be breaking the law to add whisky, even if the tax on it had been paid, to other whisky, also tax-paid.

Judge Harvey M. Johnson dissented on the watering, saying that it resulted in a difference between the bottle's content and the description on the label. Even in the minority, Judge Johnson is our man.

It is a salutary and time-honored custom to add water—and a little ice—to whisky. But we hold that this should be done not in the bottle, but within the glass. To us, it is not a matter of taxation, but of taste.

Plain Words by Mr. Dulles

Secretary of State Dulles was at his best in explaining American policy toward Korea to reporters. Americans will sympathize with his words. Koreans should understand them.

Mr. Dulles concedes that there is "considerable justification" for South Korean resentment toward Communist Czech and Polish members of the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission. The Communists have obstructed efforts of the truce team to inspect military power in North Korea.

Nevertheless, the Secretary of State says the United States will live up to its obligation to protect members of the truce team, despite violent South Korean demonstrations.

South Korean militants should not assume from this that America is trying to protect its enemies against its friends. This country is trying to protect peace in Korea against threats to peace.

The United States has a moral obligation to support the truce-to which it agreed, and attacks on the truce team are attacks on the truce. The United States has a moral and practical obligation to defend Korea against a recurrence of a war which, as Mr. Dulles says, might bring about unification of the country "but only for insects and not for human beings."

If the Rhee Government condones provocative acts, it will have to go it alone. The United States fought a threat to peace and order by South Korea's enemies. It cannot accept threats by her friends.

Reserve Test for Mr. Wilson

Signing into law the watered-down Reserve Forces bill, President Eisenhower rightly commented that it fell short of what it should have been but "does contain provisions that will definitely strengthen the reserve structure." He also ordered Secretary of Defense Wilson to "utilize" immediately all the means the bill provides for augmenting the reserves and to prepare for presentation to the next session of Congress such amendments as are needed "to correct the deficiencies in this legislation."

That is a very large and a highly responsible assignment for Mr. Wilson. And he faces some difficulties. The provisions of the act which is to be law until 1959 are complex or vague in some instances and legal interpretation will probably be necessary. The new law does not carry the compulsion necessary to achieve the goal of a 2,900,000 ready reserve by 1959. Nor does it seem likely that there will be procured the hard core of prior-service personnel essential as a backbone for the reserve. Those are a few of the reasons why Mr. Wilson faces an assignment that will be a real test of Pentagon ability.

Too, Secretary Wilson may find a few chickens coming home to roost as a result of his constant paring down of Army strength. The Army has tremendous commitments to meet all over the world and added to them now is responsibility for shaping up the new reserve and seeing that it gets the training that it must have if it is to be worth its salt. The Army and Mr. Wilson certainly must realize that if there is not a good deal of progress made on the new reserve before Congress meets again it will be futile to ask for amendments to strengthen the new law.

The very purpose of the reserve act can be destroyed if the Army does not provide highly qualified instructors and a genuinely worthwhile program for turning civilians into reservists who can really back up the regular Army if an emergency should come. Implementation for the new reserve act is necessary right now if civilians' time and Government funds are not to be wasted. It is up to Defense Secretary Wilson.

Chain Reaction at Geneva

By exploding much of the secrecy imposed by the cold war on nuclear research, the atom-for-peace conference in Geneva has produced its own kind of chain reaction. This reaction has run from caution to surprise to optimism.

As the delegates from 72 nations convened to inspect one another's progress, the United States learned that other countries had surpassed it in some fields of development of nuclear energy. Congressman James E. Van Zandt, Pennsylvania Republican, said frankly that "I was amazed at the Soviet exhibit..."

After the surprise came optimism. Delegates from India, Britain and Russia suggested that the harnessing of the atomic bomb for peaceful purposes would be followed by harnessing the hydrogen bomb. One forecast this astonishing possibility in two decades, another in a generation, while several American scientists warned of distances between promise and attainment.

Then the meeting turned to the most practical idea before it—immediate use of atomic energy for electricity. A Briton indicated his country would produce 40 per cent of its power by such means by 1975. The scientists generally agreed that atomic power could compete with coal and water power in a short time, and is practicable now where there is little coal or water.

The reaction of the scientists to the Geneva meeting illustrates two points for the American public. One, of course, is that the long dream of peaceful use of atomic energy is no longer a dream but reality. The other is that America has no monopoly on ability to use this science.

Yet as long as the nations regarded their laboratories as fortresses requiring parapets of secrecy, the peacetime use of the atom seemed a dream, and the nations went their separate scientific ways at remarkably equal paces.

What is happening at Geneva should help to free science further from the development of destructiveness. For the optimism born there is derived not only from knowledge that the atom can serve man, but from the hope that man can control the atom.

Happy for Happy, Anyhow

A view of Kentucky's recent gubernatorial primary is reprinted on this page from Kentucky's great newspaper, The Courier-Journal of Louisville. It tells how Happy Chandler smiled his way into the hearts of disgruntled voters. Thus he won a raw, old-fashioned campaign against odds. His style was true to form (whoever remembers that Happy's name is Albert Benjamin?). His triumph was personal. The only thing we could add is that such a victory, ignoring issues, disregarding the good record of the opponent, was no triumph of wisdom for Kentucky.

The Long Ball Isn't Everything

The latest unofficial intelligence from the Burning Tree golf club in Washington has it that Mr. Eisenhower's tee shots are improving, evidently as a result of greater opportunities for practice now that Congress has quit.

Information gathered from caddies and proud golfing companions indicates the President has been consistently poking his drives a good 200 yards or better. This squares with reports from Gettysburg, which is getting to be the Middle Atlantic White House. The Chief Executive has been working on his drives with the club professional there. The other day he hit five, one of which he sent screaming some 230 yards straight down the middle.

Mr. Eisenhower's improved tee shots will be good news to anyone who has ever tried his hand at the game. The feel of a well-hit ball is a kind of universal and happy stimulant. It is what sends many a divot-digger back to the course for another try after a miserable afternoon. Even the most rabid political partisan would not want such a thrill withheld from the man whose official burdens are so great.

Unfortunately, however, the long ball is not everything. It does not go hand in glove with the low score, so to speak. Most of the time it is a long way from tee to green, and the drive is only the beginning. The pitch and the putt also are important, and here the President is described as somewhat "erratic."

Too bad. Woodrow Wilson also had something of the same difficulty with his short game. And once, so the story goes, he took 26 strokes on a par 3 hole while caddies and companions, including Mrs. Wilson, looked on in shocked silence. Maybe Mr. Eisenhower has chuckled over the story. Maybe, too, he had that in the back of his mind when he had the pitch-and-putt green installed on the White House lawn.

The Aldermen Did Their Part

Most St. Louisans will join Mayor Tucker in congratulating the Board of Aldermen on its expeditious handling of the bills necessary to get the city's $110,639,000 bond issue program under way.

The aldermen approved 20 measures authorizing a $12,150,000 start on the public improvement program approved by the voters last May, as well as a $75,000 start on work to connect Alois and Memorial plazas under the 1953 bond issue. St. Louis has waited a long time to turn to the attack against municipal blight, and the speed with which the aldermen moved reflects the pent-up hopes of everyone for swift, bold action. If the various city departments in whose hands the projects now rest act in that same spirit, progress will soon be in concrete for all to see.

Still Not High Enough

The Missouri Penitentiary is experiencing difficulty attracting qualified applicants for merit-system posts in its security guard force, and the reason seems obvious: too little pay.

While it is true that the salary range has been increased over what it was before last September's riot called attention to the deplorable guard force at the penitentiary, evidently it still is not high enough. Salaries previously ranged from $154 to $206 a month; now they run from $170 for basic guards to $448 for the senior guard captain. The beginning wage, however, compares most unfavorably with the $280 paid to start in Illinois.

Investigation by the Post-Dispatch last fall bore out complaints that the September riot in large part grew out of deficiencies caused by Missouri's penny-pinching approach to operation of the big prison. The $154-a-month guard force was overaged, undertrained and disgruntled.

If Missouri wants a first-class guard force composed of young men who hope to stake out a career for themselves in the penal field it will have to pay them more than 80 cents an hour to start. After all, the minimum wage in interstate commerce soon will be $1 an hour.

Why Happy Chandler Won

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Former Governor, Senator and baseball commissioner gains Democratic nomination for Kentucky's governorship in great personal triumph against strong odds, newspaper opposed to him concedes; he ignored issues, gave rural voters a show—and won.

From The Louisville Courier-Journal

In winning the Democratic nomination for Governor, Happy Chandler has scored a great personal triumph. Throughout the campaign we opposed him as vigorously as we could, and we would be less than honest now if we did not say that we regret his nomination. But it must be conceded that his victory is one of the most impressive victories in the history of Kentucky.

No one can deny that it was Happy's own personal victory. He had astute and able campaign managers. His work and publicists made the most of their opportunities. And, looking back over the campaign, we can see many handicaps and mistakes suffered by Judge Combs and his forces.

None of these factors, however, can dim the fact that it was Happy, who won the election—Happy, the smiling, singing, sweating, shouting showman of the courthouse lawn, sensing and exploiting the mood of a rural people, appealing to them, leading them, making them see in him a man of their kind, come to lead them out of all trouble.

Chandler Picks His Target

Opposed to him was a powerful state administration with a record of eight years of steady—and at times spectacular—progress. The cities and towns of the state enjoyed prosperity. And he faced also a Democratic organization, including both United States Senators, a majority of the Legislature and thousands of administration employees, that had shown its co-ordinated strength.

Yet he managed to convince the people that the Wetherby administration, which in reality had done so much for them, had actually oppressed and betrayed them.

Unable to find a profitable weakness in his opponent, Bert Combs, Happy chose to run instead against Lawrence Wetherby and Senator Earle Clements. And he managed to convince the people that Wetherby, who has been a fine Governor, and Clements, who has risen to lead the Democratic party in Washington, were selfish, venal men who had tried to trick and enslave them.

To do this, Happy took his appeal straight to the rural voter, and there he found fertile ground. For the Kentucky farmer has not shared equally the prosperity of the cities, and the people of the mountains are in distress.

Resentments Played Up

Basically and historically, the Kentucky rural voter is suspicious of all government. He has never accepted, to the extent that the city voter has, the idea that government is a social mechanism through which men can work to improve their own lives. The very size of his needs has made it impossible for state-level government to be of sufficient service, and as a result he resents and distrusts not only government but the politicians who run it.

Happy played on these suspicions and resentments. He found each local sore and rubbed it with salt.

Every man became the forgotten man of government, remembered only by Happy, who alone understood. To the bitter, he promised revenge, to the defeated victory, to the oppressed, a new day and the defeat of the oppressors.

He did not bother them with issues or facts. He made no appeal to the intelligence. He gave them a show. He made them laugh. It was fun. It was politics of the old, raw, roaring sort that called

Huntress in the Ruins

MY NAME IS CELIA, by Rayne Kruger. (Macmillan, 246 pp., $3.95.)

Traveling alone, Celia Dewberry, wife of a successful London physician and the mother of a growing son, arrived at Berlin's Tempelhof Airport on a winter evening in 1952 to look for buried treasure in the rubble of the war-torn city. The treasure was a legacy in solid cash from her German Uncle Walter, who, when he saw war coming in 1938, had told her he would leave it buried in the garden of his home near the Tiergarten in Berlin.

In what remains of her deceased Uncle Walter's house, she finds a tough, young German hoodlum by the name of Gerd Kirche, who lives there with a slovenly, crippled woman and a blind old baroness. Gerd is a prime product of the jungle law that prevailed among the defeated and demoralized inhabitants of shattered Berlin in their wretched struggle for existence during the postwar years.

Accustomed to violence, he lives by his wits and muscles in "a calculated flight from morality," selling whatever commodity is in demand at the moment, whether it be cigarettes, medical supplies, woman ash, or cold-war intelligence information.

Mrs. Dewberry is a restless female, and, besides her uncle's buried pot of gold, she half-hoped to find adventure in Berlin. Considering herself a sophisticated modern, she felt competent to handle any situation until she allowed herself to be swept into a sordid, physical affair with the brutish Gerd Kirche.

What follows is a moving story of suspense, as the clues in the search for the gold bring other characters, including murder, an attempted kidnapping, and the menace of the Soviet sector, into the plot. But more than that, the novel's main impact is a fascinating study of a woman's moral regression in layers peeled off one by one, as Celia sinks to humiliating depths in her degrading liaison with the young German thug.

Rayne Kruger writes exciting novels that are distinguished by their precise insights into human motivation, and he seems to know more about women's thinking than men characters. Involved in the Union of South Africa, he now lives and writes in London. "My Name Is Celia" is his second novel to be published in this country, and it adequately fulfills the promise of "The Spectacle," a murder-trial thriller which was his first novel published last year.

Poor Richard—'55 Style

A PLAN FOR SAME LIVING, by John Mann. (Dorance & Co., 114 pp., $2.)

The author lays down 10 plans for same living. They are aimed at conquering the fear of not being liked, generosity in self-judgment, generosity in judging others, avoidance of needless talk, relaxation, smiling, living day by day, doing a kindly act for somebody every day, becoming interested in religion, and thinking and acting as a mature person. A program is suggested for translating the rules into action, one at a time, in the manner that Benjamin Franklin mastered the 13 virtues that he set down for his own guidance.

Guides to Hi-Fi

CHAMBER AND SOLO INSTRUMENT MUSIC, by Harold C. Schonberg. (Knopf, $3.95.)

These two volumes complete this publisher's series of three guides to long-playing records, a much-needed manual for the multitudes of music-lovers who have brought prosperity to the record manufacturers.

WALTER LIPPMANN

Nixon in Eisenhower's Way

WASHINGTON. BEGINNING IN THE LATE SPRING the President's way of talking and acting gave the impression that he had decided to run for a second term. But last week, just as Congress was adjourning, he let it be known that he has not made up his mind, that he is putting off the decision, and that he is finding it a very difficult decision to make.

From what he said last week to Senator Bender and a delegation of Ohio Republicans and the next day at his press conference, we have a good idea of how he sees his problem. Will he be too old in a second term to be at his best in coping with the President's responsibilities? To answer this question, he has now told us, he must know what will be the state of his own energy and health.

Nixon

No Preview of Future.

Because he does not have the gift of prophecy, he cannot, he says, answer this question now. He is deferring the decision, presumably until early in the coming winter when he will size up the prospects at home and abroad, and will have had a medical check-up.

With great respect I venture to suggest that the President is making his decision more difficult than it ought to be—and indeed that as he is posing the problem for himself, it is insoluble. He will not be much better able to prophecy reliably next winter than he is this summer. No one will be able to give him a clear preview of what will be happening between 1956 and 1960 to the world and to himself.

Because there is no No. 2 Republican, a dilemma exists which must, which does, trouble his conscience. He alone is able to be elected. But as he cannot be sure of completing a second term, he has it on his conscience that he may be making a President that the country does not want, a President who cannot carry on where he leaves off.

Indispensable, Vulnerable.

By failing to raise up an acceptable successor, the President has placed himself in a quandary: He is indispensable to his party. But he is vulnerable because of his advancing age. This is what makes his decision so agonizingly difficult.

Unless he promotes such a successor, a good Republican who is satisfactory to the Eisenhower Republicans and to the Independents and to the Democrats, he cannot, I submit, make a decision which satisfies his own conscience. If he decides not to run, he is consigning his party to almost certain defeat. If he does run, he will be haunted by the idea that he may be using his own popularity to impose upon the country an unpopular President.

Because so much is at stake, it is necessary to speak frankly. The President himself has spoken frankly about his age. Given good health, that is not a disqualification. But it is a compelling reason for taking great care about the candidate for Vice President.

Now the trouble with Mr. Nixon is that he is at best a recent convert to Eisenhower's kind of Republicanism. In his political connections and as a political operator he belongs with the opposition to Eisenhower. The great strength of Eisenhower is, as William S. White put it the other day, that he has expanded the center until the fringes are insignificant.

Nixon Is Unacceptable.

Mr. Nixon is close to the right fringe. He is unacceptable to the Democrats, to the Independents, and to a large body of Republicans, who make up the Eisenhower center. He could not be elected if he were nominated, and he would be beaten in the campaign which would divide and embitter the country.

If he became President because of Eisenhower's disability, he would almost certainly divide the great coalition which Eisenhower unites.

It is, I submit, the President's duty to examine frankly, fearlessly and objectively these political realities. Before he decides whether he himself will run for a second term, it is his duty to make sure that his Vice President is acceptable to his own following, and competent to carry on.

When he has done that, his own personal decision will no longer need to depend upon predictions about the unpredictable, upon certainties that can never be had. Having provided for the larger future, he can make his own decision in the present and the nearer future.

Substitute Can Be Found.

To say that there is no acceptable second man available to the Republican party is not only a counsel of despair. It is inherently improbable. Eisenhower is no doubt the indispensable candidate for President. But can it be argued that Nixon is the indispensable candidate for Vice President? All that can be said is that there is nobody else now in the running.

There is, however, no question but that with a whole year to go the President has virtually unlimited power to make a suitable and acceptable man known to the nation. If the man he picks has what it takes, the country will soon realize it: once the presidential spotlight has been turned upon him.

The President cannot, I think, in fairness to himself, to his party, and to the country leave the problem as he has now posed it—which is to force everyone, including himself, to keep guessing for another half a year about matters which will not be any more certain then than they are now.

But if, before making his own decision, he decides to make sure and clear the succession, he will have taken out good insurance, and nothing fatal and tremendous will then depend on the decision.

FRANK A. SEIBERLING

DIES, TIRE MAKER

Founder of Goodyear Who Later Lost Control Succumbs at 95.

AKRON, O., Aug. 11 (AP)—Frank A. Seiberling, the "Napoleon" of the rubber industry, died in Akron General Hospital today.

He founded but later lost control of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., which became the largest concern in the industry. Then, starting from scratch in his later years, he and his brother Charles founded and built Seiberling Rubber Co.

He was 95 years old, and had been in poor health since his retirement five years ago as chairman of Seiberling Pneumonia and complications led to his death.

The little — five feet, four inches — pioneer of the industry was credited with inventing several techniques still used in the rubber industry launched his career on $1500 borrowed capital with which he founded Goodyear in 1898.

He amassed a fortune in excess of $20,000,000, only to lose it in the depression of 1920.

At 61, with personal obligations totaling $5,000,000, he started afresh. He raised capital to purchase the Barberton, O., plant of the defunct Portage Rubber Co. and established the Seiberling Rubber Co. Under his guidance the new company grew into a $7,000,000 concern—and again Seiberling was a multimillionaire.

Seiberling devised the straight sidewall tire, probably the industry's greatest boon—but competitors shared in its harvest because he failed to patent it.

His other inventions included the first tire building machine and the detachable rim with locking ring. He also pioneered the cord tire.

$3,250,000 INHERITANCE TAX PAID IN ILLINOIS, A RECORD

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—A $3,250,000 inheritance tax payment, biggest ever made in Illinois, was turned over to the Cook county treasurer yesterday. The check covered the full amount of state inheritance tax due on the $41,364,236 estate of Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine.

Federal taxes of $13,402,918 were paid May 12.

Mrs. Blaine, daughter of Cyrus McCormick, co-developer of the reaper, died Feb. 12, 1954 at the age of 87. The bulk of her fortune went to charity and the largest single beneficiary was a granddaughter, Mrs. Anne Blaine Harrison of Chicago.

NAVY APPROVES WAR MEMORIAL AT PEARL HARBOR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Navy yesterday took the Navy Club of the United States to go ahead with plans for the erection of a memorial on Ford Island in Pearl Harbor, Honolulu. Approval was given by Secretary of the Navy Thomas C. Ladd, who is in command of the veterans organization.

Topp, who is telegraph editor of the Davenport (Ia.) Times, said the memorial would take the form of a huge rough hewn slab of Hawaiian blue stone on which will be mounted a bronze plaque weighing between 1000 and 2000 pounds. The plaque will bear an inscription dedicating it to all who died in the naval service in World War II.

Topp and other Navy Club officers who called at the Pentagon said the idea for the memorial originated with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, now chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, when he was Pacific Fleet commander at Pearl Harbor several years ago. The memorial will be dedicated next Dec. 7, the anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Navy Club of the United States has more than 200 members units. Topp said, and its membership is composed entirely of veterans of the naval service.

PREDICTS SOUTH AMERICAN POPULATION TO BE DOUBLED

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Aug. 11—A U.N. study predicted today that South America would double its population within the next 30 years.

The report, prepared by the population branch of the U.N. Bureau of Social Affairs, estimated that by 1980, South America will have between 210,000,000 and 240,000,000 inhabitants—equal to that of the United States and Canada combined. In 1950, South America had a population of 110,000,000.

Brazil, the report found, is "emerging as a veritable giant, with 100,000,000 inhabitants in the foreseeable future." The study noted that only four nations exceeded that figure—China, India, the Soviet Union and the United States.

WILLIAM H. CURRAN HEADS WORLD AFFAIRS GROUP HERE

Curran previously had served as executive director of the council from 1950 to 1953. Prior to 1950 he was executive director and president of the St. Louis Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The past two years he has been serving in council posts in several midwestern cities.

Herbert Hoover Sees Boyhood Home Dedicated as Shrine

Ex-President Tells of Years as Orphan at Newberg, Ore.—Many Residents Greet Him.

NEWBERG, Ore., Aug. 11 (AP)—Herbert Hoover, who came to this small western Oregon town as an orphan 70 years ago, came back yesterday to see his former home dedicated as a national shrine.

Many Newberg residents were on hand to greet him on his eighty-first birthday. Some of them knew him in his childhood.

The former president did not remember many of them—he was 15 when he left Newberg for nearby Salem—but he ignored a hot sun to walk among the crowd, shaking hands with all who wanted to greet him.

He spoke, too, at the ceremonies, reminiscing about his early days and emphasizing the heritage left by the man who built Newberg and the small towns across the country.

Tells of Uncle and Aunt. In particular, he spoke of the virtues of his aunt and uncle, Dr. and Mrs. Henry John Minthorn, who took him into their home in a Quaker community here, and reared him after he was orphaned.

He spoke also of shortcomings of this country, but said the spirit of the Minthorns lives on in the nation.

Here alone are the open windows through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit. Here alone, even with all its defects, is human dignity not a dream, but an accomplishment.

150-LB. TWINS DOING FINE IN HOSPITAL MATERNITY WARD

A pair of identical twins in the maternity section of Jewish Hospital have been "doing fine" since they made their joint appearance there 10 days ago.

They now weigh 150 pounds each and measure 70 inches from head to toe.

The twins are not prodigies of infant growth—they are physicians, Drs. Edward and Dan Moore, 26-year-old interns at the hospital.

Confusion? The twins are used to being mistaken for each other, after many years of it, Dr. Edward Moore said. They try to reduce it to a minimum.

Some categories happen to be exempt, however. The Moores married nurses live in the same apartment building at 4462 Forest Park avenue and are expecting offspring about the same time next month.

These ideals of freedom and religious faith guarantee there will be no decline and fall of American civilization," he said. The Minthorn home fell into disrepair years after the family moved away, but friends of Hoover recently formed a Herbert Hoover foundation to restore the home to its original condition. Nearby is a cemetery where Minthorn, a country doctor, is buried.

The ex-President told anecdotes of the love his aunt gave him, and of the discipline she applied, too.

Lesson in Pacifism. Secretary of the Interior Mc-Kay, an Oregonian who introduced Hoover at the ceremonies, had an anecdote he heard from Hoover's boyhood friends.

"It was from the scholarly Quaker doctor that the fatherless boy learned a lesson in pacifism that he never forgot. Turn your other cheek once," Dr. Minthorn advised the boy, "but if the other fellow smites it, then punch him."

Besides the home that became a national shrine, a city park was renamed Herbert Hoover Park, and a stretch of the Pacific Highway north of here was named Herbert Hoover boulevard.

Hoover cut a multi-layered birthday cake at a luncheon preceeding the ceremonies, but took only a small bite himself. There were 215 at the luncheon, including state officials, friends and relatives.

U.S. TO BUILD SMALL ATOMIC SUBMARINE

Reactor Contract Awarded for Craft of 1800 to 2000 Tons.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UP)—The Government has stepped up its plans for an atomic-age Navy by awarding a contract to a New York City firm for development of an atomic reactor for a small submarine.

Two atomic submarines have been built, the Nautilus and the Seawolf. The keel of a third has been laid. The Navy has said that by next July the United States will have nine, with many others to follow.

The engines, powering the Nautilus and Seawolf are outmoded and those of future atomic craft will be of advanced design. Even so, the Seawolf and Nautilus have almost unlimited cruising range and exceptional underwater and surface speeds.

however. The Nautilus is a 2800-ton craft and the Seawolf is slightly larger. The smaller submarine will be nearer the size of conventional craft, 1800 to 2000 tons, and more maneuverable.

One source said that the main idea behind the Nautilus and Seawolf was to produce atomic-driven craft with not too much attention on their specific mission with the fleet. Henceforth, he said, atomic submarines will be designed to do a specific job.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Swedish navy has been placed on a special alert following five reports of unidentified submarines in Swedish waters in the last month.

EMERSON WORKERS TO TAKE STRIKE VOTE

Union, Company in Dispute on Management Record Change.

A strike vote will be taken tomorrow by 2300 employees of Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co. plants here and at Washington Park, Ill. In a union dispute over a company change in the method of filling out time tickets for employees paid on an incentive basis.

Local 102 of the CIO Union of Electric, Radio and Machine Workers, which has been negotiating a new contract with the company, has called for strike action. The local contends any change in working conditions should be a matter of negotiation between union and company. The union's contract with Emerson expires at midnight Monday.

More than 100 workers have been suspended this week because they declined to follow the plantwide procedure introduced by the company Monday at the plant at 8100 West Florissant avenue, Jennings, it was reported. The change involves the recording of the time ticket is handed in to a clerk after each job.

Gilbert F. Craig, assistant vice president in charge of industrial relations, said the company introduced the plantwide system without negotiation because it felt "the establishing of proper record-keeping procedures is a management prerogative."

Negotiations for a new contract have been under way for several months, although the present wage agreement remains in effect until October 1. Negotiations will resume tomorrow under the auspices of federal conciliators.

TESTS BARE ASSAULT ON KANSAS CITY WIFE

Autopsy Also Shows Mrs.
Allen Had Eaten No Mid-Day Meal.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11 (AP) — A preliminary report of an autopsy revealed yesterday that Mrs. Wilma Allen, whose body was found in a pasture near here Sunday, had been raped.

Dr. David S. Long, Johnson County coroner, said also an examination showed Mrs. Allen had not eaten a mid-day meal. She disappeared early last Thursday afternoon on a shopping trip.

Meanwhile, police and the FBI reported no progress in tracking down the murderer. Authorities still are puzzled over the location of the murder, reason why the body was left in a pasture, the point where Mrs. Allen was first seized, and the brutality of the murder.

Officers are continuing to seek information from persons who may have seen Mrs. Allen after she left a south side shopping area. A reward fund for solution of the case amounted to more than $5000 today.

TAVERN ROBBED OF $123, CLERK GETS TO KEEP WALLET

Andrew H. Lynch, clerk at Crossroads Tavern, 9711 Clark Ferry road, St. Louis county, was robbed of $123 of tavern funds last night by a man who threatened him with a pistol, he reported to police.

Lynch, who lives at 10164 Lord drive, Moline Acres, told police the robber entered the tavern, bought a package of cigarettes and left. Later he returned with the pistol and forced Lynch to take the money from a cash register.

He also demanded Lynch's wallet, but apparently thinking better of it said: "Aw, keep it. You're a working man."

2 WARRANTS CHARGE CHILD MOLESTATION

Belleville Man Said to Admit
Molesting 3 Women, 100
Children.

Donald C. Rehbein, a freight handler, was charged in two warrants yesterday at Belleville with feloniously molesting children. Police reported he admitted molesting three women and about 100 children over a 20-month period.

Rehbein, released on $10,000 bond, would be subject to prison sentences of from one to 14 years on each charge, if convicted. St. Clair county authorities said the complaint will be submitted to the circuit court grand jury Monday.

The arrest of Rehbein, 24 years old, followed receipt by police of information about the license number and description of his automobile. Officers said that only a few of the molestation cases he told them about had been reported.

Rehbein, who is married and lives in the 600 block of East C street, Belleville, was convicted of molesting a 6-year-old girl in 1951 and was placed on probation for two years.

AIRLINE IS FIRST TO ORDER JETS ON SPECIFIC DATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—National Airlines said yesterday it has become the first United States airline to place orders for jet transports to be delivered on specific dates.

G. T. Baker, president and chairman of National's board, made the statement in answer to questions at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing. He said the airline has "firm orders" for six DC-8 Douglas jets.

Baker said four of the planes are to be delivered in 1959 and two in 1960. Each plane will cost $6,000,000.

Douglas Aircraft is building the DC-8s in Santa Monica, Calif., now, Baker said, and contracts are being drawn up.

Baker had announced earlier that National would be the first United States airline to buy a jet fleet, plus turbo-prop equipment, in addition to eight more DC-7Bs in a $95,000,000 expansion program.

CHICAGO DOCTOR FREEZES TO DEATH ON AUSTRIAN PEAK

LINZ, Austria, Aug. 11 (AP)—A Chicago physician froze to death in a blizzard on 9000-foot Torstein peak of Austria's Dachstein mountain. Austrian police reported yesterday. Guides told this story.

Dr. Adalbert Klaptoz, 69 years old, was accompanied by an Austrian guide when he topped Torstein peak Aug. 7. While the two stood at the top, the blizzard struck suddenly and forced them to start down immediately. Dr. Klaptoz weakened and fell repeatedly on the rope connecting him with the guide, Gustav Gamsjaeger.

This caused Gamsjaeger to decide to seek shelter in a mountain wall. Early Aug. 8, he left Dr. Klaptoz and proceeded alone on the perilous descent to a mountain hut below to seek help. When he and several other Austrian mountain guides reached Dr. Klaptoz he had frozen to death.

STUDENT IS FINED $250, MAILED EXTORTION LETTER

James K. Norton, 22-year-old Herrin (Ill.) college student, was fined $250 and placed on probation for three years by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham at East St. Louis today for mailing an extortion letter to a Herrin pinball firm operator. Norton had previously pleaded guilty of the offense.

In the letter, Norton threatened to damage the man's reputation unless he was paid $1000. The intended victim notified federal authorities, then went through the procedure outlined in the letter for turning over the money.

Norton, a junior at Southern Illinois University, was arrested June 13 by postal inspectors as he picked up the money. He was quoted by United States District Attorney Clifford M. Raemer as saying he wrote the letter in an effort to commit a perfect crime after watching a television program.

$12,696,640 ORDER SIGNED FOR CHICAGO WATER TUNNELS

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—A $12,696,640 contract for construction of six miles of water tunnels on Chicago's lake front was returned signed yesterday by four contracting firms. It is the largest single contract offered in the city's history.

The tunnels will connect the new city filtration plant with existing tunnels.

The firms which will perform the work are the Tecon Corp., Dallas, Tex.; Johnson, Drake and Piper, Inc., New York; Grafe Callahan Construction Co., Los Angeles, and Mitty Constructors, Los Angeles.

IN LIFE...OUT TODAY

Now...you get MacArthur's side of the story!

Douglas MacArthur is one of the towering public figures of our age. As a military man he ranks with the greats. And for many years he has been cast in the role of statesman.

But despite all that has been written about him in the many phases of his career—field commander, chief of staff, a military governor—the man behind the public figure has never been revealed. His place in history is still hotly debated. Some malign him, others deify him.

Now, however, MacArthur's Rendezvous with History written by his long-time aide and close friend, Major General Courtney Whitney (U.S.A., Ret.) gives an intimate view of the real MacArthur. And it authoritatively illuminates from MacArthur's point of view, many of the vital and controversial issues of our time.

The MacArthur story, which brings to light new documentation on many crucial events in recent history, begins in LIFE today—for the 10th anniversary of V-J Day. It will be serialized in 4 weekly instalments, richly illustrated in full color.

If you are a housewife with a raft of kids you'll read this remarkable photo essay with relish. You'll re-read it. And then, most probably, you'll read it again... this time aloud to your husband.

In The 80-Hour Week, LIFE shows you, in 24 warm, human pictures, what being a housewife really means.

The pictures were taken by LIFE photographer Mark Kauffman who spent 26 days living in a Seattle household. With amazing realism, he has caught the mischief, minor tragedies and plain hard work that are a housewife's lot.

Only in a LIFE photo essay like this can you see people living their lives as they actually live them. You'll get a deep understanding of the reasons why, in spite of being busy and harassed from sunup to sundown, the housewife wouldn't exchange her job for anyone else's.

Also in this issue—you'll see, as you can see nowhere else, the tense excitement of the closest American League pennant race in years. Five pages of pictures show 4 of the top teams battling for the lead.

And along with lots more, you'll take a trip through Disneyland as LIFE brings you the first color pictures of the world's most fabulous amusement park.

No Marketing Problems This Week

Midsummer Plenty of Good Quality Vegetables and Fruits; Buys in Meats.

By DOROTHY BRAINER
Post-Dispatch Food Editor

WANDERING through a fruit and vegetable market on an August day is an excellent "refresher course" in counting our blessings. The woman who can look at the bounty of fragrant fruits and colorful vegetables without being grateful that she lives in this land of plenty, where such health-giving foods are within the financial reach of almost everyone, would be insensitive indeed.

The only problem is that of decision—of choosing between the melons or plums, the peaches or the nectarines, the carrots or the corn. A pleasant task indeed.

To be more specific, let's check the week's offerings of fruits. In citrus, you will find the small California oranges your best buy. There are enough lemons to go around; the California grapefruit is of good eating quality.

Plums, we are told, are cheaper on the wholesale level than they have been for four years. Seedless grapes are coming out of a new section, which it would seem was a move for the better. Nectarines are quite reasonably priced; pineapples are back after a short absence.

Peaches are picture-pretty and well flavored—not cheap, but not out of range when one considers that the crop was less than normal. But what they lack in quantity they are making up in quality.

We remind you again of those juicy, sweet California Bartlett pears. Another reminder: this is the time to freeze or can sprouts if you intend to do so.

Don't cheat yourself out of enjoying the excellent cantaloupes now around town. Our homegrown ones are here plenty, and mighty good they are. Honeydews are a bit more plentiful, and don't let the drab appearance of Persian melons make you forget the colorful and flavorful flesh inside.

A word of warning: better not buy by price only on water-melons now. There are some of doubtful quality around, so you may have to pay a few pennies more of dependability.

GOOD quality and low prices combine happily in four "Cs" in the vegetable department—carrots, cabbage, cauliflower and celery.

Corn is very plentiful and is offered at some very cheap prices. That which was pre-cooled as it was picked in the field will cost you more money, but will retain its good quality and flavor longer.

You also will find a wide variance in the price of tomatoes. There are some very cheap ones which are quite satisfactory for catsup or for stewing; the nicer ones for slicing are of course a bit more expensive.

Homegrown okra and eggplant are both plentiful, and summer squash is definitely a budget item.

HAVE a little extra space you would like to fill in your food freezer? If so, consider some of the forequarter cuts of beef. You will find bargains that will be hard to pass by if thrift is one of your virtues.

And another note for penny-wise gals: That good old law of supply and demand is just about foolproof; you can't beat it. It works in kitchen economics just as surely as in the upper echelons of finance. Right now there is heavy demand for the choice cuts of pork, which means that there are some real values in the less-preferred cuts. Allow a little extra time, be sure you use the right cooking methods, and these end portions of the loin can be turned into delicious dishes.

Other meat buys include veal, baby beef, boiling beef and chuck roasts, fresh pork butts, sausage, bacon, franks and stewing hens.

SAVING THE MARKETS: A dessert and a barbecue accessory in the "what's new" department this week.

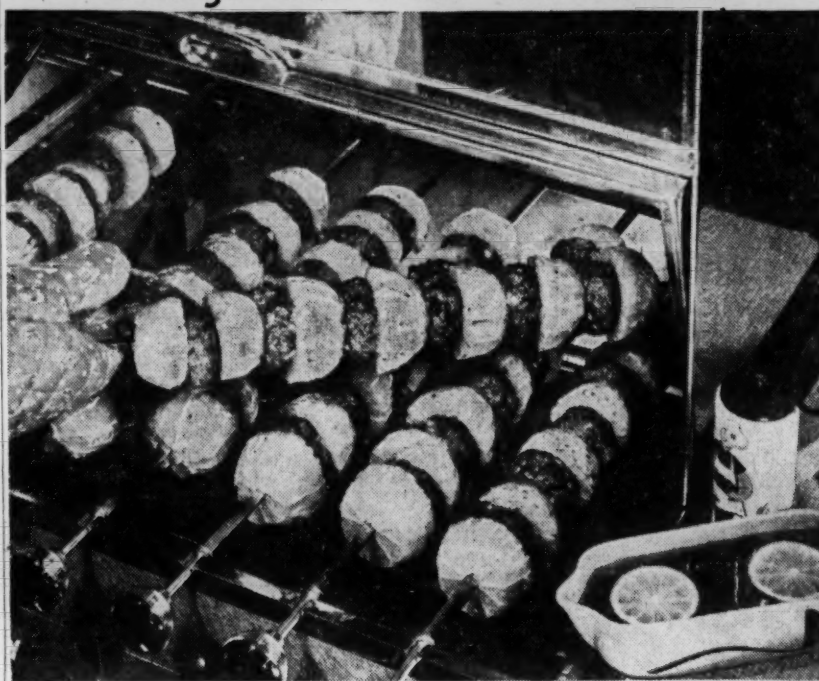

The dessert is a simplified version of that glamorous favorite—Peach Melba, a concoction developed by the famed Escoffier for Dame Nellie Melba, whose golden notes filled the world's opera houses. A scoop of vanilla ice cream in a half peach, topped with raspberry sauce, has been the traditional Peach Melba through the years. Now the flavors have blended—threads of raspberry sherbet lace peach ice cream to be served "as is" or dressed up with additional slices of peaches or with raspberries.

The barbecue item is worthy of note because seasonings are the secret of success in out-of-door cookery. And a little kit, designed especially for meals cooked under the open sky, makes it easy for you to carry the gourmet touch right along with you to barbecue pit or picnic site. The kit includes individual shakers of pure cracked pepper, meat tenderizer, celery salt, garlic salt, onion salt and flavoring salt, all in one handy package.

Orange and Meat Ball Kabobs

Orange slices are alternated with tiny meat balls on a skewer, then brushed with a lemon caper sauce, in this interesting example of kabob cookery. Meals-on-a-stick have become increasingly popular because they are so easy to prepare and offer endless possibilities for flavorful combinations.

WANT to streamline your cooking during the hot weather, but still serve your family nourishing food in an attractive manner? Of course you do. And the answer can be found in one word—kabobs. These meals-on-a-stick (also known by the fancier term of "en brochette") are ideal for out-of-door cookery, but you don't need a barbecue pit or even a backyard. All you need for an indoor barbecue is a set of skewers and your broiler.

An interesting combination is that of orange slices alternated with tiny meat balls. Brushed with a lemon caper sauce, these kabobs may well become your "specialty."

Orange and Meat Ball Kabobs.
One pound ground beef or hamburger.
One egg, beaten.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One-fourth cup finely chopped onions.
One tablespoon soy sauce.
One tablespoon Worcestershire sauce.
Dash of allspice.
One-half cup bread crumbs.
One-half cup brown sugar.
Six oranges, peeled and cut in slices or bite-size pieces.

Add brown sugar to oranges, and allow to set while preparing meat balls. Mix together remaining ingredients until well blended. Form into 24 little balls. When ready to barbecue, thread beef balls on metal skewers, alternately with orange pieces. Brush well with lemon caper sauce and broil. Brush frequently with sauce during barbecuing process.

Lemon Caper Sauce:
One-half cup lemon juice.
One-half cup salad oil.
One-half teaspoon celery salt.
One tablespoon chopped capers.
One tablespoon brown sugar.
One-half teaspoon marjoram.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Mix all ingredients together and stir until sugar is dissolved. May let set for several hours or overnight to allow flavors to blend.

Crusty brown Fruited Lamb Kabobs, hot buttered summer squash, and fluffy steamed rice will take care of the main course nicely of this menu you can prepare easily in half an hour. Make the kabobs with budget-priced lamb shoulder. Cut the lamb into inch cubes and thread on skewers alternately with bacon-wrapped pitted cooked prunes and small parboiled onions. Broil until crusty brown on the outside, turning frequently to cook evenly.

Fruited Lamb Kabobs.

Four small parboiled onions.
Cut lamb into one-inch cubes and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pit prunes and wrap each with a half strip bacon, fastening with pick. Thread lamb cubes, prunes and onions on skewers. Broil until well browned, turning frequently. Yield: Four servings.

Here is one that will be popular with the man of the house when he dons a chef's apron and presides at the barbecue pit.

Chicken Liver Kabobs.
One-fourth cup butter or margarine.
12 chicken livers.
12 slices bacon.

One one and one-half pound canned ham.

One-fourth cup butter or margarine.
One-fourth cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
One-half teaspoon dry mustard.

String sweet potatoes, pineapple and ham, cut in chunks, on skewers. Melt butter and stir in sugar and mustard. Brush sauce on skewered foods. Cook in broiler or on an out-of-door grill until lightly browned. Turn occasionally while cooking.

Thriftily frozen fish stars in these Fish Kabobs.

Two pounds quick-frozen ocean perch fillets.
Three-fourths cup catsup.
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Few drops tabasco sauce.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
Three-fourths teaspoon monosodium glutamate.
Few grains pepper.
Four strips bacon.
Dill pickle slices.

Cut fish while frozen into one and one-half inch cubes. Combine catsup, Worcestershire sauce, tabasco, salt, monosodium glutamate and pepper. Pour over fish cubes, let stand one and one-half hours at room temperature, stirring occasionally with fork. Drain, saving sauce.

Cut each strip of bacon in fourths. Cut dill pickle crosswise into 16 slices. On each of eight skewers string a fish cube, a square of bacon and a pickle slice; repeat, ending with a third fish cube.

Place on baking sheet and broil under medium heat eight to 10 minutes, turning once and brushing several times with catsup mixture. Garnish with lemon wedges dipped in parsley.

Kabobs go to a picnic with ease. Serve these with mayonnaise, golden crisp potato chips and crunchy raw relishes.

Six canned pineapple chunks.
Two tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

Cut bologna into 12 one and one-fourth inch cubes. String bologna cubes and remaining ingredients onto skewer in this order: bologna, tomato, bologna, pineapple, mushroom. Serve with herb mayonnaise, made by combining one cup mayonnaise with one teaspoon salad herbs.

TIPS ON FREEZING AND JELLY MAKING

THERE is nothing more satisfying to the homemaker than to serve foods which she has preserved herself; conversely, there is nothing more disheartening than to find one has had a failure after investing time, materials and effort.

So here are a few suggestions which may help you with your freezing and jelly making.

Jelly Troubles.
Sugar usually gets the blame when there are jelly failures. Either beet or cane sugar may be used in making jams or jellies.

Tough Jelly occurs when too little sugar is used in proportion to the amount of pectin in the juice. Or if the juice and sugar is boiled too long toughness may result.

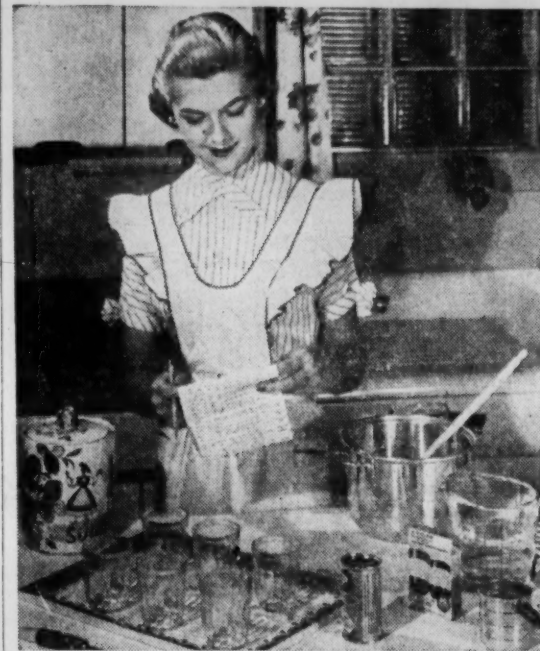

Sirupy Jelly results when too much sugar is used; or because the jelly is not boiled long enough after adding the sugar; or because the fruit contains too little pectin.

Crystals are found in jelly when too much sugar has been used or the juice boiled too long before adding sugar, not long enough afterwards. Grape jelly is an exception; the tartaric acid will often cause crystal formation. Avoid by storing grape juice overnight (crystals will settle to bottom); pour off juice and proceed with jelly.

Pectin—Liquid or powdered fruit pectin is a dependable source of pectin and removes guess work, shortens cooking time. More sugar is required but more jelly results. Be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions exactly. Of course, liquid and powdered pectin cannot be used interchangeably.

Cook Jelly in small amounts, no more than four to six cups juice in generous preserving kettle—one with wide flat bottom. This allows quick cooking and helps preserve fresh fruit flavor and color.

Sealing—Melt paraffin or wax over hot water in a tin can or container with a spout. Pour onto a metal spoon placed close to surface of jelly, letting it overflow onto surface into a thin layer, about one-eighth inch thick. When set, prick bubbles and pour a second one-eighth inch thick layer. Slightly tip and swirl glass to seal edges.

Make sugar sirup in advance

EASY FRESH PEACH BOSTON CREAM PIE

THIS RECIPE is a good example of the trend toward culinary short-cuts. Today's cook likes to give her dishes a home-made touch, but she doesn't want to spend hours in the kitchen. So she starts with prepared or packaged foods, then serves them with imagination.

For instance, a baker's sponge cake ring is the base for this Fresh Peach Boston Cream Pie.

One teaspoon butter or margarine.
One-fourth cup sugar.
Two tablespoons enriched flour.
Dash of salt.
One egg.
One-half cup milk.
One-half teaspoon vanilla extract.
One-half cup crushed fresh peaches.
One eight-inch baker's chiffon or sponge cake ring.
One-half cup heavy cream, whipped.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-half cup sliced peaches.
Eight red raspberries.

Melt butter in top of a double boiler. Blend in sugar, flour and salt. Beat egg and milk together and add to sugar mixture. Cook until thick, stirring constantly; add vanilla extract. Cool, then add crushed peaches. Slice cake in half, horizontally. Spread peach custard filling on bottom layer. Replace cake top.

Whip cream until stiff, blend in sugar. Spread over cake top. Just before serving, arrange sliced peaches in a swirl pattern on top, placing a raspberry between each peach slice. Yield: eight servings.

NATURAL APPLE PECTIN

SAYS SOVIET DATA MAY ALTER ATOM REACTOR METHOD

GENEVA, Aug. 11 (AP)—A report presented yesterday by a Russian researcher on a complex subject in nuclear physics contained information which "quite definitely might lead to a great change" in the construction of future atomic reactors, an American physicist said.

He and other American physicists said other papers by Russian, American, Polish and Indian researchers at the same session of the atoms-for-peace conference also made contributions that conceivably could be of value in the reactor field.

The first Russian paper, by Dr. M. V. Pashchuk, dealt with the amount of energy that atomic neutrons lost when they strike solid nuclei.

"This is important for reactor construction," the American physicist said.

Another paper by a Russian dealing with gamma rays was described by an American as "constituting quite a bit of progress in the investigation of this type of radiation, which is extremely dangerous in a reactor."

2 YOUTHS IN STOLEN AUTO HIT ANOTHER CAR, 5 KILLED

SEYMOUR, Ind., Aug. 11 (INS)—Five Ohioans, including a 2-year-old child, were killed last night when two teen-agers fleeing from police in a stolen automobile crashed into their car on the outskirts of Seymour.

The victims were Robert Gannon, Russell Point, O.; his wife, Olive; William W. Gehrman, Hamilton, O.; his wife, Dolores, and the baby.

The youths, Larry Howard, 16, Louisville, Ky., and Eugene Fletcher, 16, Knox, Ind., were injured.

One That Didn't Get Away

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.
WAYNE PINEGAR, 13 years old, was halfway into the water before his friend, DENNIS BAUM, 10, helped pull both Wayne and this 13-pound buffalo fish out of Post-Dispatch lake in Forest Park yesterday. Although Wayne's father thinks the fish too bony, his mother, Mrs. John Kelleher, plans a fish dinner tomorrow night at their home, 5372 Maffitt avenue. Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace L. Baum, 5256A St. Louis avenue.

ASSERTS JOINT CHIEFS URGED BYPASSING OF PHILIPPINES

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (AP)—An aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur says the World War II liberation of the Philippine Islands was carried out against the recommendations of American military chiefs of staff.

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, wartime aide and friend of MacArthur, writes in the first of a series of Life magazine articles of obstacles he said MacArthur encountered as he prepared to open the Philippine campaign.

In July 1944, Whitney said, MacArthur was summoned to Pearl Harbor to meet with President Roosevelt and the Joint Chiefs of Staff. There MacArthur learned the President has been advised to bypass the Philippines but Roosevelt, in a talk with MacArthur, pledged not to skip the islands.

E. BERLIN HAIR COLLECTION

BERLIN, Aug. 11 (UP)—East German barbers must collect hair they snip off customers' heads, package and send it to the government-run raw material reserves commission.

The order printed in the East German legal bulletin yesterday did not say how the hair was to be used.

OSTEOPATH LICENSING ACT UPSET BY DALTON

He Says Law Gives Unconstitutional Powers to Private Agency.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 11—A state law authorizing the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, a private organization, to prescribe educational conditions of annual renewal of an osteopath's state license, is unconstitutional, the Attorney General's Department said in an opinion yesterday.

Delegation by the legislature of such "uncontrolled discretion to a private organization is unconstitutional and void," Attorney John M. Dalton asserted.

The law involved requires annual renewal of state licenses of osteopaths practicing in Missouri, by the State Board of Osteopathic Registration and Examination.

Attendance at Meeting.

One of the conditions prescribed is that the applicant for renewal must offer satisfactory evidence that he had attended at least one educational program conducted by the Missouri Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons, in the preceding years.

"From this statute," the opinion held, "it is seen that the State Legislature has delegated to a private association or organization the power to determine arbitrarily, and with uncontrolled discretion, where, when and how the educational courses are to be attended by the osteopaths seeking a renewal license, and the amount to be paid for such courses."

The Attorney General noted that attendance at these educational or refresher courses was mandatory, in order to obtain a renewal of license. Such power could not be conferred on a private organization he said.

'Exorbitant' Dues.

The opinion was written at the request of Representative Joseph W. Martino (Dem.), St. Louis, House Appropriations Chairman. He said some Missouri osteopaths had complained the requirement was being used to force payment of the association's "exorbitant" dues. Martino said the association had required that applicants for license renewal each year must show they had attended at least one of these four meetings: The association's own state convention, the American Osteopathic association convention, the Kansas City Child's Health conference or a refresher course in osteopathy held at Kirksville, Mo.

FINN TWINS REJECT PAROLE, ASSERT IT IMPLIES CRIME

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Finn twins, offered parole, have turned it down.

Their attorney, Joseph Scott, said the twins refused a parole yesterday after announcement in Washington that they had been released, because "it would imply they are criminals."

The twins, George and Charles, 41 years old, were to have been freed yesterday after serving 114 days of one-year sentences for interfering with a federal officer.

"The Finns refused to accept the conditions set down by the parole board," said Preston G. Smith, warden of the federal correctional institution at nearby Terminal Island. "They will remain here until the board in Washington makes a decision."

The twins have maintained that they were within their rights in handcuffing United States Attorney Laughlin Waters in a "citizen's arrest," climaxing their dispute with the Government over a war surplus plane.

DALLAS PIGGY BANKS RAIDED TO PAY OLD TRAFFIC TICKETS

DALLAS, Aug. 11 (AP)—Ninety delinquent traffic violators were jailed yesterday. Others, anxious to stay out of jail, dug into piggy banks or waited in long lines to pay old traffic tickets.

The crackdown to clear up 4000 delinquent traffic fines began Monday and already 1650 delinquent fines have been collected.

One man arrested, a contractor, owes $963 in delinquent traffic fines.

About 1 a.m. two warrant officers knocked on one door and a man answered.

"I knew you were coming," said the sleepy citizen. He jimmied open a child's piggy bank and shelled out $35 he owed on old traffic tickets.

A Dallas woman visiting in St. Louis telephoned Sgt. C. O. Caudley, in charge of serving warrants, and arranged to send a check.

FINED $100 FOR BEATING HIS NEPHEW WITH BOTTLE

Ben Willis, of the 4300 block of West Belle place, was fined $100 today by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal after he was found guilty of peace disturbance in the beating of his nephew, John Curtis, 4300 block of St. Ferdinand street, last Monday.

Curtis testified he and his uncle got into an argument June 19 over the use of a bathroom in the Willis home, where Curtis was living at the time. Each charged the other with peace disturbance and the case was set for last Monday.

When they appeared last Monday the case was continued. Willis, however, met Curtis later at Finney and Whittier streets, forced him into his automobile and beat him on the chest with a bottle, Curtis said. The original peace disturbance case, resulting from the argument over the bathroom, has been continued until Sept. 22.

Kills quicker when you spray, then forms an invisible film that is deadly to bugs for weeks and weeks afterwards.

Russians Amazed to Learn That U.S. Wife Doesn't Work in Fields

Iowan Also Surprises Hosts by Saying He Operates 320-Acre Farm With Hired Man and Boy.

By HERB PLAMBECK
KUIBYSHEV, Russia, Aug. 11 (UP)—An American farmer stunned his Russian hosts last night when he said his wife did not help him in the fields or barns.

The Russians, who delegate much hard labor to women, shook their heads in amazement. They simply could not believe that Charles Hearst limited his wife's work to the house and garden on their farm at Cedar Falls, Ia.

Hearst, one of 12 American farmers touring Russia, provided the Soviets with many surprises when he was asked to tell about his farm at a reception here.

For instance, he set the Russians to buzzing among themselves when he told them he worked a 320-acre corn and hog farm with the help of only one hired man and a schoolboy in summer.

500 to 1000 Hogs a Year.
The Russians asked if Hearst was kidding, especially when he told them he raised 500 to 1000 hogs a year besides working the land.

Other members of the American delegation pointed out that the Russians use much more manpower on farms than Americans. At some state farms, the Americans found as many as 20 times the workers employed on a comparable farm in the United States.

Yesterday afternoon the Americans visited seven farm homes and found they differed greatly from their own.

The houses all had three or four rooms with beds in almost every room. As many as seven persons lived in each house. All had large corner heating stoves and Dutch ovens for cooking, although hotplates generally are used in the summer.

Radios in Three Homes.
Three homes had radios and two had Russian Orthodox Madonnas on the wall. Old-fashioned hand sewing machines and heavy irons heated on the stoves were in most of the houses.

The Americans were fascinated by a wooden cradle hanging from a ceiling, and a bed over an oven. The Americans figured the latter bed would roast the sleeper, but the Russians assured them it was most practical for cold weather.

The Americans headed eastward today into central Asia and Siberia where they will tour until they return to Moscow Aug. 18 or 19.

3 in Russian Delegation Visit Ford Plant at Dearborn.

DETROIT, Aug. 11 (AP)—The three members of the Soviet farm delegation visiting here set out this morning to visit the Ford Rouge plant at Dearborn.

In the evening they were scheduled to depart by plane for Chicago to rejoin their eight other members of their group who were flying from Minneapolis to Chicago in the late afternoon. Although there are 12 Soviet farm leaders in the group.

The twelfth—Alexander Tulupnikov, who got himself photographed several days ago being kissed by two ice skating stars—was in Washington. The Soviet delegation leader, Vladimir Matskevich, said Tulupnikov went to the Soviet embassy there to look after some business affairs of the delegation. He's expected to join the group in Chicago on Sunday.

JAPAN REPORTED TO HAVE DRAFTED RED PEACE PACT

Foreign Office Denies Terms Have Been Sent to Russians at London Sessions.

TOKYO, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Foreign Office today branded as speculation Japanese press reports that a draft of Japan-Soviet peace treaty had been cabled to London.

The report, carried by all major Japanese papers this morning, said the Japanese draft, composed of preamble and 10 articles, had been dispatched to Japanese Ambassador Plenipotentiary Shunichi Matsumoto in London.

Earlier London reports had said Matsumoto would compare the Japanese draft with a Soviet draft at a meeting next Tuesday with Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik.

The Foreign Office refused to comment on the details of the draft reported in the press. The draft, said Japanese papers, called for:

1. Termination of the state of war between Japan and Russia the day the treaty went into effect.
2. Mutual recognition of the sovereignty of both powers over their respective territories.
3. The return of south Sakhalin, the Kuriles and the Habomai and Shikotan islands off Hokkaido and the withdrawal of Soviet forces from the above territories within 90 days.
4. Each country to refrain from activities aimed at disrupting the internal peace of the other country.
5. Soviet support of Japan's entry into the United Nations.
6. Soviet disclaimer of all war reparations from Japan.
7. Japanese disclaimer of all war claims against Russia.
8. Immediate start of negotiations for the conclusion of a fisheries treaty.
9. Immediate start of negotiations for the conclusion of trade, navigation and air treaties.
10. The treaty to become effective with the exchange of notes of ratification.

Informed political circles, however, pointed to the similarity of the details concerning the Japanese draft as reported by all the papers and indicated the possibility that the press reports were not far off base.

These circles also added there was little optimism the draft would be accepted as such by the Soviet Union and that the negotiations would continue to drag on for some time.

The question of the repatriation of an estimated 10,000 Japanese still held in Soviet territories, press reports said, would be settled separately.

JANE MURFIN CRISP DIES

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11 (AP)—Jane Murfin Crisp, scenarist and co-author of "Smilin' Through" and "Lilac Time," died yesterday. She was the former wife of actor Donald Crisp. They were divorced in 1944. She was 62 years old.

Mrs. Crisp wrote screenplays for "Pride and Prejudice," "Dragon Seed," "Little Women," and "Roberta," among others.

ROCKET PLANE DUE TO GO 2250 M.P.H. AT 100,000 FEET

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (UP)—The Air Force will begin test flights this year with a stainless steel rocket plane designed to reach a speed of about 2250 miles per hour at altitudes of 100,000 feet.

The Air Force announced today the forthcoming flights of the Bell X-2 will take place at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Details of the plane's expected performance were obtained from responsible sources.

The X-2 is designed to investigate the so-called "thermal barrier."

This refers to the enormous heat generated on the skin of a high speed airplane by air friction.

The Air Force said the power of the Curtiss-Wright rocket engine of the X-2 could be compared to that of a modern Navy cruiser, which is about 120,000 horsepower.

It said that the X-2 would reach "heights and speed never before realized."

2 ACCUSED OF BREAKING WINDOW OF MEAT MARKET

Warrants charging two men with malicious destruction of property were issued yesterday by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Thomas Shannon after a window in a meat market at 2738 Chippewa street was broken.

The men, Jesse Fraley of LeMay and William Gerard, who gave an address in the 3800 block of Ohio avenue, were arrested early yesterday by Patrolman William Daues of the Carondelet District. He reported he saw the men run across the street and hide in a doorway after he heard the crash of breaking glass.

Fraley was sentenced to a year in city workhouse in June 1954 when he pleaded guilty of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

SYMINGTON MAY HEAD CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE

He and Gore Mentioned as Possible Successors to Senator Clements.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Senators Symington of Missouri and Gore of Tennessee were said by some associates today to be under consideration to replace Senator Clements of Kentucky as chairman of the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee.

The committee probably will be reorganized soon. The custom is that Senators do not serve on the group in the year in which they are up for re-election. Clements, up for re-election in 1956, appears to face a battle. He campaigned hard against A. B. Chandler in the bitter Kentucky governorship primary decided last Saturday. Chandler, former Governor and Senator who defeated the Clements-backed candidate, Bert T. Combs, has said he will try to prevent Clements from returning to Washington next year.

Clements' successor as head of the Senate campaign group will be named by Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas. Johnson, now convalescing from a heart attack, has made no announcement of his intentions.

But several Democratic sources who asked not to be named said Symington and Gore, who have served on the committee under Clements, are good possibilities for the post. They suggested as other possibilities Senators Kerr of Oklahoma, O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Mansfield of Montana.

Republican Senators reorganized their comparable group some time ago. Senator Dirksen of Illinois, who is running next year, relinquished the chairmanship to Senator Goldwater of Arizona.

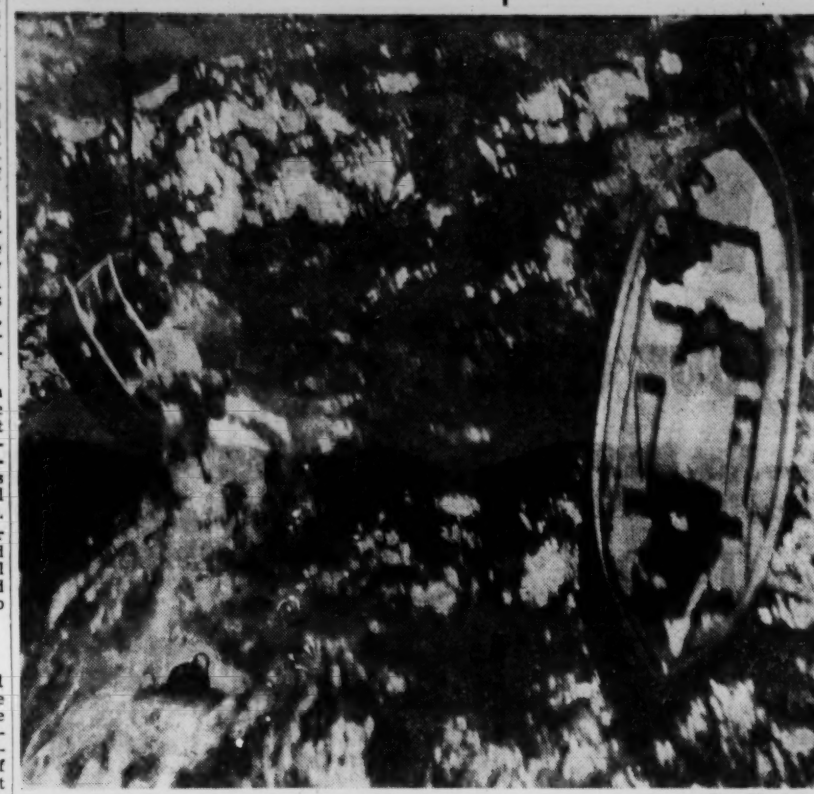

The present Senate lineup is 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans. A switch of one could give the G.O.P. control if that party retained the vice presidency. A Republican Vice President, as presiding officer of the Senate, could break a tie on votes affecting Senate organization matters.

The Democrats start with a mathematical edge in 1956, since they will have only 15 seats at stake while terms of 17 Republican Senators expire. In addition, 9 of the Democratic seats are in southern states where all the odds are against Republicans. Goldwater earlier this year said he thought his party faced a hard task in the 1956 senatorial elections, but later reported G.O.P. prospects appeared to have improved.

Swiss Alps Death Toll 23.

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 11 (UP)—The Swiss Alps have claimed at least 23 lives since the official Swiss mountain season opened May 1, it was announced today. Dr. Rudolf Wyss, who prepares the accident report for the Swiss Alpine Society, said the figure for this year is small. He said bad weather may have forced many mountaineers to cancel tours.

Radar Island Workers Spilled in Ocean

One man struggles in the water (lower left) and others are being spilled from radar island being constructed off Cape Cod. Coast Guard boat, on hand to take the men to the cutter McCulloch, stands by for unexpected rescue work. Picture was made by amateur photographer Andrew Kenney of Saugus, Mass., a worker on the radar project.

60 Men Bet Their Lives Radar 'Island' Can Ride Out Hurricane 12 Men Spilled Into Sea as Coast Guard Takes Off 40 of Construction Crew—Others Chose to Remain.

BOSTON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Coast Guard cutter McCulloch today brought ashore 43 men evacuated from a radar platform at sea—including twelve spilled into the water during a perilous transfer to the McCulloch. Left behind on the "Texas tower" artificial island were 60 workmen who gambled their lives on their faith that the platform they are building 100 miles off Cape Cod can withstand hurricane Connie's worst. Cmdr. Louis F. Sudnik of Dedham, Mass., skipper of the McCulloch, said about a dozen men were dunked in the Atlantic yesterday transferring to one of the cutter's boats. The men were lowered four at a time in a bucket-like carrier resembling a rubber boat with railings. Sudnik called it a "doughnut."

Several times the "doughnut" tipped and spilled its human cargo as a crane operator aboard the tower maneuvered to drop the men into the cutter's boat. The men, all wearing life jackets, were fished out.

As for the 60 men remaining aboard the radar platform—with its three permanent legs now imbedded in the ocean floor on Georges shoal—Cmdr. Sudnik said their chances to ride out the hurricane are "in the hands of the Lord." Sudnik said no rescue craft would dare venture near the

MISSING CHICAGO GIRL, 17, FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—17-year-old Joanne Pushis, missing since Saturday night, was found in Calumet Park with her head battered in yesterday. Miss Pushis ran out of a dance at the park late Saturday, leaving her escort on the dance floor. Late Sunday evening, the girl's widowed father, Peter Pushis, a railway engineer, reported the girl missing when she still had not returned from the dance.

Two girl friends told police that they were "assigned" dates at the dance, and Joanne drew a soldier assigned to an anti-aircraft crew in the park. Jo-

How you can keep white nylon from turning gray or yellow!

(and get old nylon white again, too!)

Got any old slips in your bureau drawer, too dingy to wear but too good to throw away? Then here's good news. You can rewhiten yellowed, dingy nylon with new Surf.

Got any new nylon things you're hoping to wear a long, long time? Take heart. You can do that thing—they come through white and bright as new when you wash them in new Surf.

Scientists find a new whitener

Yes, something new has been added to Surf. The scientists have developed an ultraviolet whitener. It puts powerful ultraviolet rays (like those in sunshine) to work for you. This is not a bleach. It is not a bluing. It is not something you pay extra for. But it really rewhitens your old nylon things and keeps new nylon looking new.

Is it safe for everything?

Absolutely! You won't find a detergent on the market that will get all your wash—cotton, rayon, new and old miracle fabrics—as white and clean as Surf. It's for everything you wash, from lingerie to dungarees. And it's mild to your hands, too!

This is our promise

It comes from one of America's oldest, most trusted makers of soaps and detergents. We promise that when you wash your new white nylon slips, blouses and other things in Surf, they'll stay as white as the day you bought them. And if you'll wash your old, yellowed nylon things with new Surf, you'll see them getting whiter and whiter. After several washes you'll enjoy wearing them again.

Here's your guarantee

Look for Surf next time you're at the store. (It's in the same sky-blue and sunshine-yellow box as always.) Buy it and try it for all your wash. Then, if you don't find it beats any other detergent for getting everything white and clean, we'll return every penny you paid. No ifs, ands or buts. Better put new Surf on your shopping list right now!

Great Place to Visit.

FOR a hick fresh out of Wisconsin, New York is a great town to visit. On the commuters' train from Stamford was the able actor, Horace McMahon, currently playing the Palace with Maxie Rosenbloom, the old lightweight-weight champion, whose record reads a good deal like a history of the fight game. Yale Okun, Harry Greb, Jimmy Slattery, Jack Delaney, Dave Shadle, Hambone Kelly, Young Stribling, Leo Lomski, Tiger Flowers, Mickey Walker, Kayo Christner, Lee Ramage, Al Stillman of St. Louis, Bob Olin, John Henry Lewis, King Levinsky, Jimmy Adamick, Lou Nova, Bob Pastor. If there was a pro within 20 pounds of him Slapsie Maxie didn't fight in his 17 years, it was an oversight.

The world do change. Horace McMahon was saying. Used to be that an actor struggled through a career dreaming of some day playing the Palace. Now he and Maxie—"Two Lost Souls From Hollywood"—were breaking in their act in that old Shrine. They rehearsed in Rosenbloom's quarters in the Piccadilly Hotel with two television sets and a portable radio going to keep Maxie abreast of his baseball bets.

"Good place to work," Maxie said, tuning out the audio on the television games and mulling the portable close to his ear. "No noise, see? Uh, wait a minute, did they score there? No, third out. Okay, take that line once more."

Where Old Friends Meet.

THE train reached Grand Central and an hour later a stocky, smiling gentleman was encountered straggling on the shady side of Forty-eighth street. There was a moment's hesitation, for 10 years had passed since the last chance meeting. Then: "Jimmy! Jimmy! Sommerville!"

Twenty-five years ago, James P. Sommer, assistant manager of the Alhambra Hotel, where all the ball clubs stayed when they visited New York. That is, they had rooms there, lofty parlors and bedrooms, but this was the prohibition era and ball players didn't necessarily stay in the hotel every four years weren't on the field.

Later the clubs moved away and so did Jimmy, to manage hotels like the President and the Knickerbocker and then, "And now the Piccadilly," he said.

"The Piccadilly? A friend was just telling about one of your guests—a character." "Slapsie Maxie?" Jimmy said. "Yes, we still get a character now and then. I should write a book. Do you remember the time?"

The Immemorial Rhem.

THAT started it. "Remember the night—morning, I guess it was when Pepper Martin was chasing Allyn Stout, the relief pitcher, up the back fire escape at the Alhambra?"

"Remember? Sure, or was it Stout chasing Pepper? Anyhow, there was Gabby Street in bed and asleep—"

"Gabby was managing the Cardinals then, wasn't he? Speaking of him, how about that pitcher he had, Flint Rhem?"

"Remember the night Rhem was kidnapped by Brooklyn Ransackers?"

"He wasn't, really. Not out of our hotel."

"Of course he wasn't, but that's the story he told Gabby after being out all night, and it got into all the papers? Big headlines on page one. It was 1930 and he was supposed to pitch against the Dodgers, who were leading the league, but when he didn't show up, either Burleigh Grimes or Bill Hallahan had to work instead."

It was in that series that Hallahan beat Dazzy Vance, 1 to 0 in extra innings, and knocked Brooklyn out of first place and the Cardinals won the pennant."

A Touch of Sun.

AND all the time Rhem was sticking to himself, Jimmy said, "and he came in and had a suite by himself up on a top floor. The Pirates were playing Brooklyn, too, and when Pie Traynor got over to Ebbets Field he discovered he had no shortstop. He telephoned to ask if the Rabbit was with me."

"Hold the wire," I told him, and I went upstairs and there was Marvynville, all by himself and having a ball. I shoved him under a cold shower and got a cab and sent him over, but he didn't play that day. What a sweet little fellow he was, and that Traynor, too."

In Forty-eighth street, passers-by were beginning to look slantwise at the two bald guys trying their feet on the sidewalk, gabbling and laughing, pretty obviously tetchy by the heat."

"I ought to write a book," Jimmy said. "Come around and see me soon."

It's a great town to visit. (Copyright, 1955, The New York Herald-Tribune, Inc.)

105 Golf Pros Start Quest for Riches in 'World' Tourney

$105,000 In Prizes For Victor

CHICAGO, Aug. 11 (AP)—A field of 105 starry-eyed pros today start chasing golf's rainbow for the pot of gold going to the winner of the "World" tournament at Tam O'Shanter.

One of them will be a wealthy man after the 72 holes are completed Sunday.

The champion receives $50,000, a $55,000 contract for an all-expense paid tour of 55 exhibitions, and an option to play 50 more at $1000 each.

Without a doubt, this extravaganza, climaxed nearly two weeks of competitive frolic on Tam's 6900-yard playground, is the world's greatest "choke-up" tournament.

"One bad shot and 20 guys will pass you up," said defending champion Bob Toski, who last year recovered from the effects of a two-over-par 7 to carve a par 72 on the final round and win by one stroke over faltering Earl Stewart and Jack Burke.

Toski won the hard way—as has been the case in many of these "World" meets. He had to can an eight-foot birdie 3 putt on the seventy-second hole for a total of 274, 14 under par.

Nelson's 269 Best.

In 1953, Lew Worsham holed out a fringe wedge shot for an eagle 2 on the last hole to beat out Chandler Harper by a stroke. Harper had just brought applause from the crowd by sticking a No. 9 iron second shot two inches from the pin on the seventy-second green and was being congratulated for winning, when Worsham's approach rolled in.

Such have been some of the finishes in the "World" whose 72-hole record of 269 was set by Leon Nelson in 1945 with the aid of a successive birdie-eagle combination in one round.

The single round course record is 63 set by Lloyd Mangrum—now on the sidelines with a rib injury—in 1948. He became the first and only player ever to make a grand slam at Tam by winning both the "World" and All-American titles in the same meet.

The first pro to break his 18-hole mark will get an additional $10,000.

Helio Roberto De Veenzo, the transplant South American now playing out of Mexico City, and Peter Thomson of Sydney, Australia, winner of the British Open the last two years, are considered the first real foreign threats in the "World" since South Africa's Bobby Locke.

Perhaps the favorite, though, is Doug Ford, who dropped a 40-foot putt yesterday to defeat De Veenzo 1-up on the final green of their match in International team competition. The United States team swept six of the eight match-play games to take the two-day affair 8½ points to 3½.

Pard Man to Rest.

The 33-year-old Ford has been the country's hottest pro since he found an old hickory shaft and attached it to his mallet putter head. He won the National P.G.A. and the All-American with it.

All rivers reported clear when this report was filed except at the confluence of the Gasconade and Little Piney near Jerome.

The Gasconade from Duggins' bridge-Highway 32-Brownfield ford-Black and Barlow ford is in excellent shape. The Black, Current, Eleven Points and Jacks Fork are low. Jacks Fork reported too low and clear for successful fishing. Current river fishermen are making excellent catches of drum on throw lines. Deep running plugs are taking jack salmon on the Meramec near Steelville. Eleven Points continues good for small-mouthed bass. Trotlines baited with worms are taking channel cat in most of the rivers and lakes.

Bull Shoals is four feet below power level. Norfolk is two feet short of power level. Day-time trolling with deep-run lead heads is taking bass at Bull Shoals. Crawfish best live in both lakes. Some jack salmon are being taken in the Little Hill area of Bull Shoals. Lantern fishing on Clearwater, Norfolk and Lake of the Ozarks is productive for crappie and white bass. Excellent catches of white bass are being taken near Holiday Landing at Blue Springs on Wappapello. Crappie fishing reported good at Rockwood Point on Wappapello. Anglers on this lake are using live minnows to take both of these species.

Weekend prediction: Very favorable on most streams and all lakes if heavy rainfall doesn't upset the apocryphal.

Philadelphia Grooms Davis Cup Rivals

FIGHT RESULTS

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK—C. Vance Bastie, 150, Connecticut, N.Y., outpointed Italo Scudato, 154, Italy, 10 (non title).
MANILA—Little Caesar, 119, Manila, knocked out Cassiano, 117, Italy, 2. (For Philippinebantamweight title).

Loughby, O., runner-up to Ford in the All-American last week, and Jay Heberly of Woodmere, N.Y., former I.S.U. golf star, each of whom scored victories in the international matches.

Carrying the colors of the "old guard" is 45-year-old Jimmy Demaret, a three-time winner of the Masters at Augusta, Ga., among others. His 283 knocked down $1612 in the All-American, and yesterday he was three under par in scoring the most lopsided triumph of the team matches: a 5-and-4 licking of Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B.C.

Patty Berg is the choice to beat a field of 22 other women pros competing in their section for a $5000 first award. She easily captured the 1955 All-American and last year won her second straight "World" crown.

Wiffi Smith appears the logical choice among 12 women amateurs.

All-American men amateur tilist Doug Sanders of Cedar-town, Ga., may find trouble in the "World" field from such opposition as Hillman Robbins, Eddie Merrins, Bruce Cudd and Jim Tom Blair.

Deep running plugs are taking jack salmon on the Meramec near Steelville. Eleven Points continues good for small-mouthed bass. Trotlines baited with worms are taking channel cat in most of the rivers and lakes.

Bull Shoals is four feet below power level. Norfolk is two feet short of power level. Day-time trolling with deep-run lead heads is taking bass at Bull Shoals. Crawfish best live in both lakes. Some jack salmon are being taken in the Little Hill area of Bull Shoals. Lantern fishing on Clearwater, Norfolk and Lake of the Ozarks is productive for crappie and white bass. Excellent catches of white bass are being taken near Holiday Landing at Blue Springs on Wappapello. Crappie fishing reported good at Rockwood Point on Wappapello. Anglers on this lake are using live minnows to take both of these species.

Weekend prediction: Very favorable on most streams and all lakes if heavy rainfall doesn't upset the apocryphal.

Fight Manager Loses License In N.Y. Inquiry

NEW YORK, Aug. 11 (UP)—The New York State Athletic Commission today revoked the license of fight manager Charley Bauer, treasurer of the Boxing Guild of New York, for his refusal to testify in the investigation of the Guild.

It was the first license revocation as a result of the commission's inquiry into the Guild since racket-buster Julius Helfand became commission chairman seven months ago.

Bauer already was under suspension for his refusal to testify, but he had asked that his license be reinstated. The commission not only refused reinstatement but revoked the license.

Faszholz Has 8-to-1 Setback

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 11 (UP)—Jack Faszholz of St. Louis was the starting, and losing, pitcher as Rochester was defeated by Montreal last night.

Faszholz was relieved in the fourth inning as the St. Louis Cardinals' farm club, the International League lost, 8-1.

Former players with the Browns had varied fortunes in minor league games last night. In the American Association, Mike Blyzka won a game for Denver, 8 to 7, though he needed relief in the sixth inning, against Louisville.

In the Pacific Coast League, former Brownie Earl Rapp batted against former Brownie Duane Pilette. The result: Rapp's twenty-fifth homer of the season, for San Diego. Pilette was pitching for Oakland, and it became a 2-0 San Diego victory. Oakland won the second game, 5-0, as Fred Besana pitched a two-hitter. The hits were by former Cardinals, a single by Dick Sisler in the seventh and a double by Ray Jablonski in the ninth.

Rocky Takes It Off In Hurry—Now 195

GROSSINGER, N.Y., Aug. 11 (UP)—Heavyweight Champion Rocky Marciano shaved off several pounds and reduced his weight to 195 yesterday by boxing three rounds with two sparring partners.

Marciano, speeding up preparations for his Sept. 20 title bout with Archie Moore, stalked Felix Antonio of Dayton, O., for two rounds. Then he went one with Keene Simmons, Providence heavyweight.

Simmons imitated Moore's style of shielding his head behind his arms. Marciano stood flatfooted and concentrated on punching his way through the defense.

Bangert to Compete In Exclusive Weight

Carnival at Paterson

Something new in a track-field venture will be attempted at Paterson, N. J., Sept. 10 when 10 or 12 of the nation's leading weight tossers will compete in a weight meet. There will be no running, no jumping nor pole-vaulting—just weight-throwing.

Bill Bangert of St. Louis County is one of the invited participants and probably will compete in both the 16-pound and 12-pound shot-put. There will be six other events—the 35 and 56-pound weight throws, hammer throw, discus, javelin and caber throws. The caber is a thick, wooden beam, 15 feet long, and is tossed chiefly in Scotland.

Algonquin Swimmers Sweep Their Events

Two Algonquin swimmers, Pat Hatch and Danny Willert, made a clean sweep of the competition in their age groups as a combined team of Algonquin and Westborough swimmers defeated the Webster Groves team, 163 to 103, at the Webster Groves municipal pool. Miss Hatch won all three events for girls in the 15- to 15½ years old group, and Danny won all three events in the competition for boys 11 to 12.

Harold Roettger Found Dead in Florida Pool

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Aug. 11 (UP)—Medical examiners today sought to determine the cause of death of Harold Roettger, Pittsburgh, Pirates official whose body was found in a motel swimming pool yesterday evening by two young nurses taking a dip.

Roettger, 41, was assistant to Pirates President John W. Galbreath and was in St. Petersburg to discuss the inclusion of the St. Petersburg Saints in the Pirates farm system.

The nurses tried to revive Roettger with artificial respiration and a porter pulled the body from the pool. But he was pronounced dead on arrival at a local hospital.

Roettger was dressed in swim trunks, but his glasses were found in the pool.

Harold Roettger was one of three St. Louis-born Roettger brothers who made sports their career. Oscar, who makes his home here, is a salesman for a sporting goods manufacturer; the late Walter was a major league player and later baseball coach at Illinois U. He died in 1951.

Harold's first baseball job was that of business manager of the Albany club of the Georgia-Florida League. From 1939 to 1943 he was general manager of the Syracuse club.

Branch Rickey, then president of the Brooklyn Club, brought Harold into the Dodger organization in 1943 and then took him to Pittsburgh when Rickey moved to that city as executive vice president of the Pirates.

Jockeys to Strike If Fellow Rider Is Not Reinstated

FORT ERIE, Ont., Aug. 11 (UP).

JOCKEYS at the Fort Erie race track today threatened to strike Saturday unless a 10-day suspension imposed on Jockey Vic Bovine is rescinded.

Bovine's suspension, dated Aug. 9 but posted yesterday, came as the result of a disqualification on Lawdy Lawdy, which was placed second by the stewards after finishing three lengths in front of Warren's Pride on Aug. 4.

The stewards ruled Lawdy had crossed into the path of Warren's Pride.

Len Stroud, representing the Jockeys Association of Canada, said an ultimatum had been issued to the stewards.

The Ontario Racing Commission said the matter will be considered at a conference with the riders' representatives today.

Flying Fast

By Stan Delaplane

STAN DELAPLANE

By the time Figaro had her in print in Paris, she was stepping off the plane for a shower in Karachi. That is the way a Queen moves today.

WHEN ALL THE QUEEN COPY was in, Associated Press counted up the lines and found Miss Susan Bryan, 21, led all the talent.

Miss Bryan is a travel agency stenographer. Her measurements are not recorded. Nobody could catch her to throw a tape measure on her.

Miss Bryan flew around the world in 107 hours and 20 minutes.

She flew for honor and glory and Mr. Ken Macker, a public relations gentleman who was interested in promoting the San Francisco International Airport.

She flew one way around the world and a travel agent named Mr. Lerios flew the other. It was a race.

Fortunately Miss Bryan won. Mr. Lerios, I hear, is a nice man. But his legs aren't as pretty.

I DID NOT FOLLOW the blow by blow on this affair. But I assume Miss Bryan touched briefly on Mr. Macker's public accounts around the world.

I assume she sipped San Miguel beer in the Philippines and had her dress pressed by a QANTAS stewardess and other commercial tie-ins.

It is an interesting way of carrying the newsmaking to the client. A modern world, my masters.

I think it shows a whole new field in the Miss 36-24-36 business. A girl can no longer recite "Your Flag and My Flag" at Atlantic City. Or display the hips that sank the ships.

A Miss Everything to Everybody these days must get pressurized at 20,000 feet and fly as fast as commercial airlines can take it.

A girl is not measured in inches but in miles. Her talent depends on Pratt-Whitney engines and Lockheed airfoil.

A reporter interviewing today's Queen must take along a clean shirt. He asks the first question in Honolulu and files his copy from Hong Kong.

THE OTHER DAY I called up Mr. Macker. For I am fascinated with Queens and Miss Americas. I am fascinated with what happens later to Cinderella when her DC-7 turns into an IBM typewriter and an alarm clock again.

"She belongs to the ages," said Mr. Macker poetically. "In other words, she's back working for the travel bureau."

"You mean she's right back where she started?" "That was the general idea," said Mr. Macker. "In 107 hours and 20 minutes to be exact. She wrapped up so much copy they could hardly get the Miss Universe news in among the classified ads."

"However, no movie studio signed her up on a long contract and no book publisher asked her to do a novel. "All she has is her memories. Fortunately these can be jogged by one of the fastest press books in the business. In case her memory fails."

This seems to be the problem with the Miss business. One day you are Miss San Francisco Airport and 107 hours later they run you into the hangar.

I imagine Miss Bryan was traveling so fast she hardly got acquainted. Let alone getting a proposal of marriage. She got plenty of glamour. But no glamour boys could catch her.

The Secretive Animal

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

ANY young husband discovers some day with a shock of surprise that he does not understand his wife. His wife has probably informed him of that fact on many occasions, but it has been hard for him to believe it. Suddenly the realization comes over him that she is correct. He doesn't understand her.

DR. PAUL POPENOE

FORTUNATELY, women are right there beside us as usual. They are in the boat, too. Dr. Jung goes on to comment: "It is astonishing that women do not know themselves." But other psychologists explain that she doesn't need to understand herself. Her mind works perfectly well for her own purposes, but it works unconsciously.

This point which I am emphasizing for the benefit of four or five young husbands who have written to me in the last few weeks, is developed at great length by Wilman Henry Sheldon, former professor of philosophy at Yale University, in a book called "Sex and Salvation." (If you have any curiosity about the title, I'll explain that he thinks mankind's salvation is coming through the female sex.) He makes a great deal out of his idea that woman is secretive. She keeps her affairs a secret not merely from men but from herself as well, he asserts.

ALL THE PHILOSOPHERS have agreed on this, apparently. Kant said, "Woman does not betray her secret." Nietzsche declared, "From a woman you can learn nothing of woman." Esther Harding, a disciple of Jung, admits that "you will rarely discover what a woman's objective is by asking her a direct question for she is often unconscious of her real aim."

Dr. Sheldon repeats: "Her secretiveness is a positive quality, a trend, an urge in her makeup. Aristotle said that man is the political animal. St. Thomas Aquinas said that man is the rational animal. We say in like vein, woman is the secretive animal. For her, secret is equal to sacred. Even to the one chosen lover there remains, as a rule, a degree of the unknown."

That's clear and plain enough, isn't it gentlemen? But what are we supposed to do about it?

Scholarships From Doctors' Wives

County Medical Society Auxiliary, Aware of Need, Provides Funds to Train Two More Nurses

By Clarissa Start

WIVES of doctors are especially aware of the shortage of nurses and the need for recruiting more of them. The members of Women's Auxiliary to the St. Louis County Medical Society have not only been aware of the nursing shortage but for the past three years they've been doing something definite about it. This fall six girls will be attending local nursing schools at the expense of the auxiliary, the two 1955 scholarship winners having joined those of 1953 and 1954.

This year's winners, Cheryl Towles and Angela May Wones, are like their four predecessors, thrilled pink over their success, and grateful for the opportunity which they might not otherwise have had to go into the career of their dreams.

Both Cheryl and Angela have known "for years and years" (actually five or six, they admitted when pinned down) that they wanted to become nurses. Both of them had planned on entering nursing school but at some sacrifice to their families. Cheryl is the oldest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. John Towles, who live at 1610 Carr avenue in the Carr Square Village housing development. Her father, a steel cutter, had planned on borrowing money for her tuition.

Angela, second of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wones, 2912 Allen avenue, is the daughter of a postal clerk. She is working as a file clerk at Pet Milk Co. this summer and had hoped to earn her expenses somehow.

"This has really taken a lot of worries off my mind," she smiles.

Cheryl, who graduated from Vashon High School in June 1954, and had attended Harris Teachers' College for one year, first learned of the scholarship possibility when she applied for admission to the school of nursing at St. Mary's Hospital.

"A few months after I had taken the tests, Sister Eugene Marie, director of the nursing school, called me and asked if I'd like to try for a scholarship," Cheryl recalls. "My father made me sit right down and write the letter."

Cheryl, who ranked second in her high school class, expects to attend St. Mary's for three years and then specialize. She hopes to go into orthopedic or psychiatric nursing.

Angela, a graduate this year of Roosevelt High School, thinks her nursing ambition extends back to the health classes she studied in grade and high school and especially to one high school teacher who "made everything so interesting."

Her family took the message. Angela was at work and when she got home they teased her for some time about a "certain telephone call" before they finally broke down and told her. Scholarships will include fees and expenses for three years for both the girls, including uniforms and books. An annual rummage sale provides the major part of financing the project but members' dues and card parties help out.

THIS year's scholarship committee consisted of Mrs. Guy N. Magnus and Mrs. Cecil A. Z. Sharp, co-chairmen, and Mrs. Paul Whitener.

"We send a form letter to every school of nursing in the St. Louis area and there are 12," Mrs. Sharp explained, "telling them about the scholarships and inviting them to send in applications. Not all the schools respond but this year we had six entrants. Out of the six we had to choose two and it was very difficult because they were all excellent."

The four girls now attending on scholarships are Nancy Nuelle, at St. John's Hospital, Grondolyn Chism, at Homer Phillips, Laura Newland, at City Hospital, and Barbara Quinn, at Jewish Hospital.

"Doctors' wives do all they can to further the cause of medicine and to help their husbands," says Mrs. Sharp, who is the widow of a doctor, "and we know that one way we can help is to do something to alleviate the shortage of nurses. We like to feel that, in a small way, we are helping."

Mrs. Sharp, Mrs. Magnus, and Mrs. Whitener all have a special interest in the scholarship project for another reason. All three are former nurses.

Cheryl Towles and Angela May Wones were chosen to receive scholarships from the Women's Auxiliary to the St. Louis County Medical Society on the basis of the following letters:

"I think the work of a nurse is much more rewarding than the work of a secretary, or factory worker, or a salesman. The nurse can easily see any good that she has done for her patient. She also knows that the labor she has put forth has not been in vain, for she will have used her skill and knowledge to help someone else. I want that kind of satisfaction from my job and that is why I chose nursing. As a nurse and an assistant to the doctor, I could see the problems, both physical and mental, of others, and could help solve them. I would be especially trained to care for a patient under a doctor's directions, to recognize disease and sickness, and to carry out preventive measures against disease. The working of the human body and the mind has always interested me. It would be wonderful to be able to watch a body heal, to understand the healing process, and to know that I had a hand in bringing it about."

CHERYL TOWLES.

"I am interested in nursing as a career, because I believe it is one of the noblest professions that anyone can enter. It holds for me a chance to help my fellow men, as well as please my desire for what I would like to do. It opens up to me a new world, in which I will give aid to those who are unable to help themselves because of mental or physical illness. Also, I can continue with my study of science, and put it to practical use. "Nursing is a field which people look upon with respect. Anytime or any place, where the white uniform of a nurse is seen, the woman wearing it is secretly admired for the job she has chosen to do. You will usually find her a happy and healthy person as a result of her work. Even though a nurse, usually, is never given any special recognition for what she does, she feels she has done a job well worth doing."

ANGELA MAY WONES.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

THE most frustrating thing that can happen to a bridge player is to make a particularly shrewd bid or play and then have it ruined by partner's obtuseness. That was East's unhappy fate in the following deal. West, dealer.

North-South vulnerable.

♥ K63
♦ J105

♠ 873
♥ A108754
♦ KQ2

SOUTH
♠ KJ1062
♦ AKQ32

This was rubber bridge, and all four players enjoyed "expert" rating—which made the outcome all the more astounding.

The bidding went:
West North East South
1♣ Pass 1♥ Double
2♥ Pass Pass 1♠
2♠ Pass 4♣
3♣ Pass 5♣
Dbl. Pass Pass Pass

West opened the club nine, dummy played low, and South won with the queen. A trump was led; West won with the blank ace and laid down the diamond ace—then, when he saw his partner's deuce of diamonds, laid down the ace of hearts! That ended the proceedings. South ruffed, drew trumps, pitched his second diamond on the established heart king, and claimed the contract, having lost only a trump trick and a diamond. North-South happily scored up 300 points below the line and 750 above.

It is almost unbelievable that an experienced, usually astute player, such as West, could have defended so stupidly. What in the world was he thinking of when he laid down the diamond ace at Trick 3 or (so much worse) when he then tried to cash the heart ace? Did he imagine East's bid of five clubs (the key call in the auction) showed a club suit? If so, West should learn the facts of bridge life. The cards that had turned up in dummy, plus the fact that South had won the first club trick with the queen, meant that East's bid couldn't have been honest—that it must have been a lead-director (and, incidentally, a clever one in this situation). So of course West should have led another club immediately, and routine defense would have set the contract 800 points.

Words, Wit And Wisdom

By William Morris

A New Kind of Sea Beast.
"IN one of Jack London's later novels," writes a San Diego correspondent, "certain of the characters speak a sort of pidgin English, a blend of the native dialects of the West Pacific Islands and English. I once knew the name of this curious tongue but I've forgotten. It has something to do with 'beast of the sea.' Can you tell me the name?"

The phrase you are looking for is "beche-de-mer," which literally means "worm of the sea"—an odd name indeed for a language. Here's how this "lingua franca"—or hybrid language—got its name. The beche-de-mer, also called the trapang or sea cucumber, is much prized as an item of food by natives of the islands of the Western Pacific. It is a water animal with a leathery skin and a mouth surrounded by tentacles. Doesn't sound very appetizing, does it? However, it's chiefly used as a base for soups—and the Chinese make a highly-esteemed soup from birds' nests, so you never can tell.

During the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, as trading developed between English-speaking colonials and Melanesian natives, a language was needed and one gradually developed that combined elements of English and of the various native dialects. Since a prime item of commerce was beche-de-mer, the new hybrid tongue was called by that name and that's how the language most widely spoken in the far Pacific has the same name as the lowly sea cucumber.

Secrets of Charm Waterproof Your Makeup

YOU CAN KEEP YOUR ARTISTRY INTACT.

THINK of the times that moisture makes mayhem of your careful artistry in makeup—Say when you're swimming caught in the rain... or even after a sad movie when lots of tears have been shed. Or, when a fast game of tennis causes perspiration to smudge your makeup.

When any of these things happen... whether you're a vacation girl or not, you may wish no one was there!

LONG A SECRET OF HOLLYWOOD makeup artists is this "magic" formula for waterproofing your makeup: First, smooth your favorite liquid foundation all over your face and throat with up and out strokes. Then apply a tiny bit of your liquid or cream rouge. Now, here is the point where you start waterproofing. Moisten one of those handy little quilted cotton squares that you buy in any drug store. Use cold water or your favorite skin lotion. Press lightly but firmly all over your face—moisture-setting your makeup.

Next press—don't rub—face powder on your face and throat with a dry cotton pad. Repeat lightly three times, then brush away excess with a fresh pad.

IF YOU NEED a little eye makeup, etch your eyebrows with very light, feathery strokes with eye pencil. On the eyelashes use only a waterproof mascara. It won't smudge nor smear and will make the lashes look much thicker and longer—mascara the upper lashes only!

Now, once again, moisten a cotton pad and press it all over the face and eye area. Apply your most flattering lipstick with lipstick brush. Then blot with a damp pad.

Simple? And you will have a natural looking makeup and be able to face summer's dampest moments.

An investment in charm for every girl starting a career—every woman now in business, eager to reach top-flight success. It tells how to make that "good impression" to get your job... reveals secrets on how to hold your job. Reliable short cut steps in charm that lead to your success. Write Secrets of Charm in care of the Post-Dispatch and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope for "Your Steps to a Successful Career."

Summer Vacationers At Michigan Resort

By a Special Correspondent.

DOUGLAS, Mich., Aug. 11.

WARM weather and unusually calm water have sent resorters flocking to the beach each day to cool off in Lake Michigan. Many small craft are out, each towing its quota of water skiers. The St. Louis colony in Douglas was increased by another family group last week when Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Hawes Jr. arrived with their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Hawes III and their four young children, and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Lee Hawes and their two small daughters. The Hawes family is occupying two adjoining cottages not far from that of Dr. and Mrs. Albert C. Stutsman.

Melissa and Nancy Stutsman are great sailing enthusiasts and take part in the activities of the Saugatuck Yacht Club, now housed in an attractive new building near McArthur's dock on Lake Kalamazoo. Albert C. Stutsman Jr. is not yet of Yacht Club age and spends much time on the beach.

One of the largest of the cocktail parties in the last week of July was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. von Brecht Jr. on the lawn between their cottage and that of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome H. Wagner of Sidney, O. The von Brechts opened their cottage early in June and have with them their daughters, Julia and Jean, and sons, Charles Jr. and Joseph H. Rols, a junior at Notre Dame. Julia, a debutante of next season, who will return to Georgetown Visitation Junior College for her sophomore year, has as her guest another of next season's debutantes, Lucy Ann Reuter, a student at Newton College in Boston. The younger Reuter girl, Tony, is visiting Kathy Ring.

St. Louisans at Mrs. George Hellmuth's Cottage.

MRS. VON BRECHT'S sister, Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, and her two daughters, Judy and Bebe, are in one of the apartments in Robinwood, spacious summer home of Mrs. George W. Hellmuth, and expect Mr. Mitchell to join them shortly. Mrs. Hellmuth, who is planning a world cruise in January, has had with her her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hellmuth, and their children, George, Nicholas, Mary and Theodore. During July Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Maginn and Mrs. Roscoe C. Anderson were guests at Robinwood. At present Mrs. William T. Jones is staying there. The Mark D. Eagletons Jr. and their young son, Kevin, have opened their summer home and recently entertained guests at a Sunday noon cocktail party.

MRS. EAGLETON... HOSTESS AT PARTY.

St. Louis families who spent July in Douglas were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Tobin Jr. and their son, Thomas Jr. and Mrs. Carl D. Reis Jr., their daughter, Kay, and sons, Carl and Joseph; Dr. and Mrs. Francis J. Medler, their daughter, Helen, and sons, John, Louis and Stephen, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bemis and their daughter, Mary Bryan.

Switzer Family in Douglas for Season.

MRS. FREDERICK M. SWITZER is in her large summer cottage, which is visited throughout the season by many members of her family. In July Mrs. Switzer had with her her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Marsh Jr., their daughters, Elizabeth, Mary Margaret and Patricia, and sons, Edward and Stephen. Another of Mrs. Switzer's daughters, Mrs. John E. Bardenheier, with Mr. Bardenheier and their children, Rebecca, Mary Martha and John Edward Jr., are in a nearby cottage for August. Mr. and Mrs. John Barron, who live in a most attractive year-around home in Saugatuck, have had several St. Louis guests—her mother, Mrs. Laurence J. O'Neill, and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald T. Dunne and their three small children. The Barrons' oldest daughter, Bencie, will be a freshman at Maryville College in September.

For the ninth summer Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Ekins of Webster Groves have gathered their children and grandchildren together for a Douglas reunion. Mr. and Mrs. John Barrett, their daughter, Patricia, and sons, John and Thomas, arrived from St. Louis for the month of July to join Mrs. Barrett's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hammerstein of Milwaukee and their daughter, Constance, and son, William. From Harrison, O., came Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Ekins and their sons, Harry Jr. and Walter, to complete the family circle.

The wedding of Miss Alice Narup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Narup, 303 East Seventh street, to Jerome Banghart, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Banghart of Jerseyville, Ill., took place yesterday morning at St. Mary's Church, and was followed by a breakfast for the immediate families at the Narup residence. Among pre-nuptial parties for the former Miss Narup was one given last Saturday evening by Mrs. William Surgeon of Hardin, Ill.

Announcement has been made of the engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Rosemary Gibbons and Robert D. Whitmore. The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gibbons of 1125 Long avenue, Alton. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Whitmore of Canton, Ill.

The couple will be married at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Sept. 3, in St. Patrick's Church.

Martha Carr's

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF. OPINION

Dear Martha:
I HAVE only been in St. Louis about six months and I have started running around with a crowd of young people from our church. A very nice fellow came to one of our parties and he seemed to take an interest in me. He took me home afterwards and I liked him a lot. I saw him once or twice more at the parties and he always paid a lot of attention to me. So when we decided to have a backward dance, with the girls inviting the boys, I wrote him a note asking him to be my escort. I didn't hear from him but three days later a strange girl called and without even giving her name told me this boy was going steady with her. I was so embarrassed and hurt that I didn't know what to say and now I hate to go back to the group. Do you think he was being fair? BETTE.

I certainly do not. If he didn't have the courage to come right out and tell you himself that he was going with another girl, he should at least have had the courtesy to decline the invitation on his own. Why let his rudeness keep you from going out with the rest of the crowd? He probably won't come back again, but if he does, don't act embarrassed and hurt around him. Just cross the whole thing off as a mistake and find yourself a beau who's strictly unattached.

Dear Martha:
I AM TO BE MARRIED to a man who has a great deal more money than my family has. He wants me to be married in an elaborate ceremony but my people can't afford it. He says he will pay for the wedding. We have almost quarreled about it because I think his attitude reflects on my family. What do you think? ELLEN.

It's unusual for a man to want an elaborate wedding, but whatever his reason, he is completely out of bounds in suggesting that he give the wedding and in encouraging you to plan a more expensive or elaborate ceremony than your parents can afford. It is their place to give the wedding, not his. Don't let him force you to spend a great deal of money on a showy ceremony.

What To Wear

By Louise Trescott

A COMMON family plight is many members and few dollars. Clothes demand more of those few dollars as the children grow, until mothers pray for the wisdom of economic wizards to make the money stretch. Mrs. C. sums up the situation as the eldest of her brood prepares to enter high school:

"I feel it is time my oldest daughter decided upon a basic color for her wardrobe. Although she is only 13, she is 5 foot 7 inches and looks very much like the young lady. She has reddish blonde hair, peaches and cream complexion and gray-blue eyes. She weighs 116. She looks well in so many colors—which should she choose for a basic? She's pretty in blue and stunning in black. Should she save black for later? Her last coat is soft light blue. 'Will you suggest a clever, interchangeable wardrobe for her freshman year in high school? How can anyone get anywhere with only $40? This need not include coat and shoes. Because we have no money for frills, we are accessory-awkward. Please suggest a few useful, versatile accessories. The budget will not allow them but she may earn a little and there is her birthday and Christmas and she gets an allowance. She has two pearl necklaces, a wide white leather belt, a pearl studded blue clench belt and a white angora collar. She loves hats but has none. 'I dislike red, orange and some yellows on her. They fight her hair. Sky blue becomes her most, I think.'"

IT IS THE GOOD FORTUNE of most redheads with cool complexions to look well in many colors. I can well believe blue is wonderful on her. Suggest practical navy as her basic for this coming school year. Black is smart and, is worn by the very young, but I would not advise it as a basic for a 13-year-old. A piece or two, fine—although you did not include it in following line-up. Forty dollars is indeed a sum for conjuring, but I believe this could be done: One box-pleated navy skirt in winter cotton or synthetic mixture that does not require dry cleaning ($5), one pleated (different type) plaid skirt in navy, other blues or subdued gold and white, in a fabric suggested above ($5). To wear with either skirt, one light blue sweater set in orlon ($10), one white Peter Pan blouse in cotton ($3) (the white belt will be nice with this), one navy jersey blouse ($3) with which she may wear the angora collar and pearl studded clench.

FOR SCHOOL PARTIES, one navy jumper dress in velveteen or corduroy, full skirted ($8). I recommend full skirts in everything, since she is so young, tall and slim. For this jumper dress select a jewel-necked cotton blouse ($3) in a subdued gold that blends into and enriches her hair, instead of dulling it. With this use her pearls. For very festive doings find a boat-necked blouse ($3) in sky blue shirred nylon, to wear with same jumper dress. The $40 is spent. Only by most careful shopping, taking time to compare values, can it reach so far. It is an interesting challenge. Everything suggested should look very well under her light blue coat.

NOW, ACCESSORIES. A navy felt roller brim, worn back, will give a curved finish to her slim height. For dressy occasions add a navy band of velvet ribbon with a tailored bow—a tiny touch, but a morale builder. She should have navy calf low-heeled shoes and a navy plastic shoulder bag with adjustable handle that can be shortened to present a dressier appearance. Navy fabric gloves, and scarfs in white, pale blue and navy-and-white check provide the finishing touches. Her jewelry is sufficient. Another pair of navy shoes "for best," another pair of navy gloves and a pair of white ones would be nice for her to have if birthdays and baby-sitting allow.

Etiquette Questions

By Amy Vanderbilt

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am planning to be married in a church wedding in the near future. My fiancé's brother is married to my sister. I was wondering which would be the proper side for my sister to be seated on—my family's or her husband's—J. K. This is not a matter of great importance. But in our society, at least, a woman, upon marriage, joins the family group of her husband and so, technically, she should sit on the groom's side.

Iron Is One Of Top Food Minerals

By Edith M. Barber

IRON is a most important mineral, although we need a very small amount. It is necessary for every cell of the body and for good blood.

At one time it was common for adolescent girls to become anemic. Because diets are generally better today there are not so many anemic girls. Boys and men seem to need less iron than do members of the other sex.

IF GOOD HABITS have been formed and are followed, it is usually not necessary to make any special plan to increase the amount of iron in the family diet. All meats, including poultry, furnish some iron. Such meats as liver and kidney are the best sources for this important mineral.

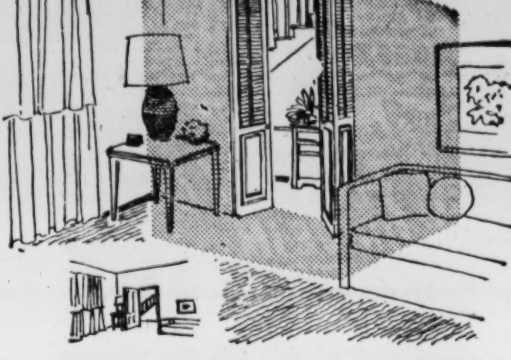

Among vegetable foods greens, peas and lima beans are fairly good contributors. Potatoes also supply a little. Whole and enriched cereals, including flour and bread, can be counted upon for a worth-while amount because we use these at every meal of the day.

Recent comparative research on grains of all types shows that enriched flour is higher in every nutrient than is the whole grain. This will surprise many persons who feel that there is something almost magic about the use of whole grain in the diet.

Old-Fashioned Kidney Stew.
Three beef kidneys; three tablespoons butter; one-fourth cup flour; one and one-half cups water; two teaspoons minced onion; three-fourths teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; one-half glass currant jelly. Trim kidneys and cut in pieces. Sauté in butter about three minutes. Stir in flour. Add water, onion and seasonings gradually. Cover and let simmer over low heat about one hour until tender. Add jelly and serve with toast.

Designing Woman Fashionable Shutters

By Elizabeth Hillyer

SHUTTERED DOOR KEEPS ITS USEFUL PLACE QUIETLY.

SHUTTERS are so decorative and fashionable, it doesn't take a problem to encourage their use. But they do solve plenty of problems, and here's one of them that settled handsomely with a shuttered door. If a standard door opened into the living room, it interfered with the furniture arrangement. The space lost for swinging it wide meant crowding the room. And hall traffic was certainly complicated if a standard door opened the other way.

The shutter door keeps its useful place quietly, folding easily out of the way from both sides. But it takes a decorative place in the room with flare, even looking well half open, as it is sketched. A door like this might be painted to match the woodwork, or the walls, or in a contrasting color. The spot. Or it might be given a furniture finish. Here it's antique pine. (Louvered shutter door by Decor.)

MRS. K. F. B.: "We have just purchased an older home that has transoms in some of the doors, in a hall and into the living room. What can we do about these? I don't like them with the glass exposed. If the transoms let in no light, or if the light that comes through them serves no purpose, they might be painted the door color. Otherwise, sheer curtaining shirred on two rods is a solution. It might be white if the doors are white, or if white curtaining is used elsewhere and the doors are in another color or a wood finish. Or the sheer might match a colored door."

MRS. D. C.: "I love a blue and white bedroom, but can't seem to find a blue wallpaper I like. The shades of blue are either too light or too dull or both. I would like to use a rather bright blue trimming on a white bedspread and to slipcover a chair to match the trimming. What do you suggest?"

The trouble is probably that you are looking at papers that have blue backgrounds. Look instead for a paper that has a white background and pattern in a shade of blue to match the trimming, or several blues, one of which picks up the trimming shade. These are easier to find than they have been and have a clear-cut, very pleasing effect.

Chinese cooks often pair chicken and lobster. Try the combination in a salad with celery and well-seasoned mayonnaise. Serve on water cress and sprinkle with toasted almonds.

It's an Art To Be Well Dressed

By Josephine Lowman

ONCE wrote in this column, "It is better to be underdressed than overdressed." Through a mistake one paper printed it like this, "It is better to be underdressed than overdressed."

I wouldn't go that far but I do believe that I would always rather be in simple, attractive clothes, even when everyone else has on evening clothes, than to be the one in evening clothes when others are casually gowned. I would also always rather take a chance on too little jewelry rather than too much; on basic styles rather than an extreme one unless I am sure that it is flattering; on too little make-up rather than too much.

TO BE APPROPRIATELY DRESSED is an art. High heels on the golf course or oxfords with the formal are equally unattractive. A letter before me says, "It would be greatly appreciated by me and many others, I am sure, if you would insert a few words in an article about office attire. While attending school I was taught that suits are most appropriate for secretaries to wear, however with cotton clothes becoming more and more popular, I am beginning to wonder if that belief is just a little bit outdated."

Suits in the office are always appropriate and smart. However, I think the idea really is that fussy clothes are not appropriate. Simple or tailored dresses are just as good and there are so many lovely cottons in these styles.

GOOD GROOMING and attractive garb are essentials to success in the business world. Bangles, ruffles and low cut attire are for other occasions. One reason a suit is such a good investment for the woman in business is because it is so adaptable. You can give yourself variety and make a suit look different by wearing different blouses and scarfs and accessories with it. Most career women have to watch the clothes budget and therefore an outfit which can be worn over and over again without boring you or your associates, is a valuable one to have.

The Dean Speaks Up Joy of Escape and Return

By Adele Starbird

THE women have a gay time at the Laundromat. They laugh and gossip while waiting for their clothes.

Along the canals and rivers in Europe you see women kneeling in shallow boxes at the water's edge, beating out their clothes with paddles. As they work they chatter and sing. They too have a gay time.

The truth is that woman don't like to work in isolation. I have written several times of the forbidding loneliness of the tiny efficient kitchen. There is a trend now toward building larger kitchens that can serve also as sitting-rooms, where children and dogs and neighbors can wander in and out.

In those operating-room kitchens, there was no table a dog could crawl under, no place a child could sit and tell his mother what happened that day at school, no chair for the neighbor who dropped in for a cup of coffee.

Now in the old-fashioned kitchens there used to be rocking-chairs with bright wool cushions. Maybe they will come back, too.

A HOUSE ought to be big enough to afford companionship. Paradoxically it ought also to be big enough to afford privacy. Sometimes one feels gregarious, and sometimes one wants to withdraw. One of the nicest things about our old frame house were the doors. We could shut ourselves up when we chose and nobody accused us of sulking. There were also folding doors between the two parlors.

When I was 13 I came into possession of the "far room," a west bedroom that looked over the vegetable garden and the undulating woods and the hills where the thread of Ladue road rose and met the horizon. My drop-leaf table, which I still have, stood against the western windows and there I did my homework and watched the sunsets, and read—I blush to admit it—Tennyson. "Over the hills and far away Beyond their utmost purple rim Across the night and beyond the day Through all the world she followed him." To a pale little moonstruck girl it was great stuff.

BEFORE I HAD the far room I must have felt quite hunted and harried. All I ever asked was to be allowed to read in peace, but my grandmother and mother had other ideas. For a while the plum trees served as a refuge. I could climb up and hide in their green branches. But they were too close to the house. Then I discovered the chicken house. On one side were the nests, and on the other side was the roost, five boards above a foot apart sloping back toward the roof. Climbing half way up I'd settle myself to read. There was no ventilation and the heat was suffocating, but I had a triumphant feeling of escape. When at length I prudently returned to the house and the inevitable question about my position in space for the last hour or so, I could answer truthfully, "In the chicken-yard."

That worked for a while. One night I finished George Sand's "Consuelo," sitting on the stairs with a coal oil lamp beside me. How I escaped detection still puzzles me. Lucky that no member of the family decided to go downstairs for a drink.

Just the same I was thoroughly punished. The novel is so terrifying that when I closed the book, I was afraid to raise my eyes. To blow out the lamp, and find my way through the dark, was an ordeal. Escape from the family and return to the family is the teenage pattern. And the return is all the sweeter for the brief escape.

Party dessert: fill individual pastry shells with prepared pudding-and-pie filling mix (vanilla flavor). Top with any desired fresh fruit; pour melted apple jelly over the fruit to form a pretty glaze.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

EIGHT questions about leaf insects and harvestmen are to be answered today.

Q. Where are leaf insects found?

A. Chiefly in India and other parts of southern Asia, and on islands near Asia. Several kinds live in Africa and northern Australia.

Q. What is remarkable about leaf insects?

A. They have parts which look like leaves. Sometimes their wings resemble leaves, being green and having ribs like those of leaves. Other leaf insects have leaflike parts on their legs. When these insects rest on the leaves of a bush or tree, it is hard to discover them.

Q. What is a harvestman?

A. A harvestman is a man who helps to gather the harvest, but the name is employed for a spider-like arachnid. Often this arachnid goes under the name of daddy longlegs.

Q. What is the origin of the name "harvestman" for the daddy longlegs?

A. It is seen, most often, at the time when crops are being harvested.

Q. What does the daddy longlegs eat?

A. It feeds on tiny insects. Many of these are so small that a person could hardly see them without a lens.

Q. What is the black marking at the front of the body of a harvestman?

A. If you study this marking through a lens, you will see that it has two parts. These are eyes, set very close together.

Q. Does the daddy longlegs die when winter comes?

A. That usually happens, except in warmer parts of the world. It may live through a very mild winter.

Q. If all the adults in this group of arachnids die during winter in a certain section, does this mean the end of them in that section?

A. Not at all! Eggs are laid in late summer or in autumn, and these eggs hatch in the spring.
